Truman Denounces Real Estate Lobby

Hiss Motion For Acquittal Rejected as U. S. Rests

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

New York, June 17.—Defense motions to dismiss the perjury charges against Alger Hiss were denied today, after the Government completed its case against the former State Department official.

On Monday, the defense will begin to present its evidence in an effort to prove Hiss' contentions that he did not pass secret documents to Whittaker Chambers after January 1, 1937.

Following brief testimony by the thirty-third prosecution witness to appear during the 14 trial days, Assistant United States Attorney Thomas F. Murphy announced softly, "The Government rests."

Murphy, Chief Defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker and presiding Judge Samuel H. Kaufman then moved to the judge's chambers for two hours of legal argument on the defense motions for dismissal.

Holds Evidence Sufficient

Judge Kaufman, who declined to discuss the motions, told reporters that he denied them on the grounds that there is sufficient evidence at this time to require the case to go to the jury.

Stryker said he made two conventional motions. The first was "to dismiss the indictment on the ground that, in part at least, it was defective."

He made a similarly unsuccessful motion the day the trial began, May 31, contending that the Federal grand jury which indicted Hiss for perjury in denying Chambers' charges, was investigating espionage which could have been committed only outside the grand jury's jurisdiction.

At that time, Stryker declared, "the Government cannot use perjury as a subterfuge to convict a man for an offense (espionage) for which they couldn't indict him because of the (three-year) statute of limitations."

Reporters Excluded

His second motion, Stryker said today, was for a "judgment of acquittal on the ground that, as a matter of law, the Government has not submitted enough evidence to go to the jury."

Judge Kaufman said the reason arguments were held in his chambers and not in the courtroom—from which the jury would be temporarily excluded anyhow—was "in the light of the public interest in this case and the fact that the proceedings are being reported in the press . . ."

Even though the jury has frequently been admonished to avoid reading stories about the trial, he said, the purpose of the court rule to hold such arguments out of hearing of the jury "might be frustrated if the jury reads the purport of the argument in the press."

He emphasized that he intended no reflection on the world-wide accounts of the dramatic trial, say-

Judge Says It: 2 Women for 1 Man Are Luxury

Though Damon Runyon and others have said so, it remained for Judge Matthew F. McGuire in District Court yesterday to make it official:

"Two women are a luxury for any man."

His statement came in a hearing on a petition by Mrs. Eleanor I. Allen, 327 F st. ne., for a contempt citation against her former husband, Delbert M. Allen, 330 Rhode Island ave. ne. She alleged he is $180 in arrears in his alimony to her of $45 a month.

Allen, a retired violinist and French-horn player from the Marine Band, has since remarried and has two children by his second wife, and is going to music school. Judge McGuire declined to hold him in contempt, but granted the first wife a judgment for the $180.

'Most Petrifying Idea of My Life'

Judy Blames Fear of NKVD For Stealth On Night of Arrest

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

Valentin Gubitchev "petrified" Judith Coplon the night of March 4 by saying the NKVD (Russian secret police) might be on their trail, she testified yesterday at her spy trial in District Court.

He had previously told her he thought his wife's detectives were on their trail.

They were moving about New York that night in what the prosecution claims was a suspicious manner, suggesting that the Soviet U. N. engineer and the Department of Justice girl knew they were being trailed by FBI agents—as they were.

Yes, their movements were strange, Miss Coplon admitted yesterday, and prompted by fear. But the reason . . .

March 4: It is the most crucial date in the case. It is the night FBI agents finally closed down on Miss Coplon and Gubitchev, charged her with espionage and both with conspiracy to commit espionage. Among other things she had 34 FBI intelligence "data slips" in her purse when arrested, the prosecution charges.

Eyes of spectators bulged in the courtroom yesterday as the Barnard College honor graduate unfolded her story of that crucial night:

She had come up from Washington to meet Gubitchev and have it out with him. She had been seeing him as a sweetheart in a kissless love affair—not as a spy—but he had just got around to telling her he had a wife. Shocked by this, she had nevertheless agreed to see him once more, though he had told her he thought his wife's detectives were shadowing them.

But when they came together that night he suggested strange things: that they sit on separate sides of a subway car, for example, even though the car was empty but for them.

Not an idea did she have, she testified, that an FBI agent stalked them from the next car.

She argued with Gubitchev about this "ridiculous" idea of not sitting together, all this air of mystery he had, or not wanting it to seem they were together.

Then, in a subway passage, he turned to her:

"I think the NKVD might be following me," she said he told her.

"The NKVD?" Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer shot back at her on the witness stand. "What's that?"

"The Russian secret police," Miss Coplon said.

"What did you say when he told you he thought they were following him?"

"I told him, 'This is too much.' It was the most petrifying idea of my life. I didn't know in the first place why his wife's detectives should be trailing us. That was bad enough . .

"But this . . . here I was, work-

House Hearing On Home Rule Set June 28

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A House hearing on Washington home-rule legislation was ordered yesterday for June 28.

At the same time, a resolution urging that the House District Committee present a home-rule bill to the House for action was adopted unanimously by the board of directors of the Washington Federation of Churches.

In announcing the House hearing, District Chairman John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) said he knew no personal reason why a home-rule bill should not be reported to the House for action this session.

Active sponsors of the home-rule plan were less optimistic. They cited hope of leaders for an August 1 adjournment or recess.

McMillan said authors of four home-rule bills pending before the District committee would be invited to testify in the scheduled hearing. They are:

Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), author and one of the leading bipartisan sponsors of the Senate-approved home-rule bill.

Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.), sponsor of the similar home-rule measure which last year reached the House floor where it was debated and set aside as "unfinished business" without a final vote.

Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) who introduced as a House bill the Senate-approved measure.

Representative Vito Marcantonio (A. L. P., N. Y.) whose home-rule bill was patterned on the Auchincloss measure, but enlarged to include a Fair Employment Practices Commission, and other civil rights features.

McMillan said between now and the hearing, the House legislative counsel will prepare a summary of the main features and variations of the bills.

A basic feature of all is replacement of Washington's present governing board of three appointed commissioners by a representative city council, which would select a city manager to take charge of 12 streamlined city departments. They call for an elected school board to run the public schools in place of the present appointed board.

McMillan said some 28 persons

$103,132,153 D. C. Funds Bill Sent to Senate

A $103,132,153 District supply bill for the year starting July 1 was approved and sent to the Senate by its Appropriations Committee yesterday.

The committee bill added $4,208,532 to the House-approved total. Further additions of between 10 and 11 million would be required to cover costs of municipal pay increases and other pending District legislation. But these additions to the city budget would be made in later appropriation bills, after the enabling legislation is approved.

As presented to the Senate, the budget bill carries out in full the recommendations of the District Appropriation Subcommittee headed by Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) and it is but $746,574 below the budget originally recommended by the District Commisioners. The committee bill also has this unusual feature—not a single cut was made in House-approved figures.

Three important school projects were included in the list of Senate committee decisions. They affect the Bell Vocational, Hine Junior High and Spingarn Senior High Schools.

For the long-delayed new Spingarn High School project, the Senate committee erased House language returning to the general funds of the District $1,187,399 previously appropriated to begin the building. The House had done this primarily as a revenue measure before the new tax bill became law.

The committee action would restore the prior appropriations for use in making an early start on Spingarn. In addition, the Senate committee approved an increase in the Spingarn limit of cost to $3,600,000. It had been $2,505,000.

For the Bell Vocational School, a $225,000 fund for alterations and additions was recommended. The money would be spent on enlarging the former Powell Junior High building, one of two now used by Bell students. The enlargement would then permit abandoning the second structure used by Bell, the Old Central High School Building at 7th and O sts. nw.

For Hine Junior High, a $29,400 fund was approved to complete plans for a new building near 9th and C sts. se. to replace the present school. Cost limit of the

Byrd Blasts At Military Pay Measure

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The much-beset military pay bill ran into new trouble yesterday.

Senator Byrd, economy-minded Virginia Democrat, was sharply critical of the House-approved measure as hearings continued before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He protested that many Army, Navy and Air Force officers retire at an early age with "pay for life" and then take high-salaried civilian jobs. The Virginian particularly objected to the fact that measures to correct this situation contained in the original pay revision plan had been dropped.

Charles R. Hook, steel executive and chairman of the civilian commission which drafted the new pay system, bore out Byrd's contention in part. He said his group had recommended curtailment of retirement provisions to save money.

Hook Urges Approval

But Hook strongly recommended approval of the pay bill. He said his commission had carefully studied the pay of men of relative skills in industry and had proposed adjusting the military compensation scales accordingly.

Byrd protested that some officers retire after only 20 years service and draw half of their base pay for the rest of their lives. He declared that is wrong—that men are "in their prime" after 20 years' service.

Navy officials said that some enlisted men qualify for retirement at the age of 39 and draw 50 per cent of their base pay—2½ per cent for each year of service.

Gen. Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, who was waiting to testify, broke into the discussion to say that his policy has been to deny retirement to officers—with very few exceptions—unless they have 30 years of service.

"Few" Officers So Retired

Other officials declared the 20-year retirement privilege is discretionary with the President and that only a "relatively few" officers had been so retired. Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) directed them to furnish the committee a complete list of the officers retired since 1940, with their years of service.

Later Byrd took exception to statements of sponsors of the bill that "privates have had a 400 per cent increase since 1908, while generals' pay has gone up only 10 per cent." He said the comparison was misleading, as the former were paid only $15 a month 40 years ago while top-ranking officers were well paid then.

After the session, reporters asked Byrd if he was opposed to the bill. He would not commit himself, but colleagues said they expected he would vote against it. Senator Morse (R., Oreg.) also was critical of the measure. He hit at plans to rush Senate approval, saying he would insist on "a thorough study."

"I want the military establishment to get able men for career officers," he said, but added that the armed services are asking and getting much more money than needed "to maintain the adequate security of this Nation. I think there is a duty of the military to

A Curse on Curs

Dogs Bought to Protect Neighborhood Bring Its Residents Into Legal Controversy

All that remains of the canine problem in the Blagden ave. nw. area is to "tell it to the dogs."

A half dozen residents of the area around Blagden ave., Blagden rd., and 17th st. nw. appeared yesterday in the office of Clark F. King, assistant corporation counsel. Four were dog owners and two were complainants about the alleged barking, biting and general nuisance proclivities of the pets.

The dogs were acquired for neighborhood protection after the Carol Bardwell murder last June 27, King was told.

The hearing ended amicably when the owners agreed to restrain their dogs, and King said that Police Pvt. J. S. McWhirt of the Sixth Precinct, who investigated the case, has more important things to do than be a "dog snooper."

Complainants were Mrs. Rose R. Whyte, 4713 Bladgen ave., and Mrs. Carol Corey, 4712 Bladgen ave. The dog owners summoned were Mrs. Helen Ver Standig, 4724 17th st., who has a Dalmatian; Nathan Levin, 4705 Colorado ave., who has a setter; Daniel Pyne, 4701 Colorado ave., owner of a cocker spaniel, and Burton Ostrow, 4726 17th st., who has a police dog puppy.

Mrs. Whyte aired her troubles and alleged that a newsboy has been bitten by some of the dogs. He didn't appear. Mrs. Corey seconded her. The owners unanimously suggested that Mrs. Whyte get a dog. She said she once had one, but its death was such a blow she didn't want another.

The dog people all agreed to restrain their pets and keep them from disturbing Mrs. Whyte's sleep by barking and otherwise annoying her. Private McWhirt closed the hearing. He said:

"Now, we better get the idea over to the dogs."

Produce Strike Is Settled By Negotiators

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

An eight-day strike of 130 AFL truck drivers and warehousemen against eight Union Terminal Market wholesale produce houses was settled yesterday with minor concessions but no general increase in wages.

Involved are Locals 639 and 730, affiliated with the Teamsters International.

The settlement was agreed to by attorney Joseph B. Danzansky, representing the employers, and negotiators for the two locals. The 1949 contract must be approved by the membership of the two unions before taking effect.

Some 40 per cent of the membership had voted by 10:30 last night. A reporter's canvass of those voting indicated approval was likely.

Meanwhile union members on

Communications Act Amendment Opposed

The Justice Department yesterday opposed a bill to amend the Communications Act on the ground "it would weaken a number of important safeguards against monopoly."

David Hume, a special assistant, outlined the department's views in a statement before a Senate Commerce Subcommittee.

7 Area Dairies Face Revived Trust Charges

The Court of Appeals yesterday reinstated a 37-count conspiracy indictment against seven metropolitan dairies, the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association and its secretary-treasurer.

A split decision overruled the April, 1938, dismissal in District Court of a grand jury indictment charging price-fixing and restraint of trade by the group, which controls nine-tenths of the milk sold in the area.

The Government yesterday said the defendants would be brought to trial "as quickly as possible" for violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Conviction carries a maximum fine of $5000, or a year in jail, or both.

In addition to the MVMPA, the defendants are the Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy Co., a subsidiary of National Dairy Products Corp.; Thompson's Dairy, Inc.; Richfield Dairy Corp.; Simpson Bros., Inc., trading as Wakefield Dairy; Safeway Stores, Inc., trading as Lucerne Milk Co.; Alexandria Dairy Products Co., Alexandria, Va.; Harvey Dairy, Inc., Hyattsville, Md., and B. B. Derrick, 1331 Locust rd. nw., MVMPA secretary-treasurer. The defendants declined to comment.

The indictment was dismissed by District Court Judge Richmond B. Keech on the ground that it did not set forth sufficient facts to constitute a conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Act. The Government appealed directly to the Supreme Court, which assigned the case to the Court of Appeals.

Writing the majority opinion in yesterday's Court of Appeals decision, Justice Henry W. Edgerton said that price-fixing agreements are unlawful per se. He said that

Senators See Compromise On Labor 'Lost'

By the United Press

A handful of Senators backing the Administration's original Taft-Hartley repealer, today attacked both injunctions and plant seizure as a "sledgehammer" approach to national emergency strikes.

The tone of their objections made clear that a compromise plan for handling such disputes, advanced in the hope of winning over doubtful Senators, may face hard going when a show-down vote on the issue is reached sometime next week.

Senate Administration leaders conceded privately that the compromise will be defeated.

"It's lost," one high Democrat said tersely.

The compromise was advanced by Senators Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) and George D. Aiken (R., Vt.). It would throw out the 80-day injunctions provided by the Taft-Hartley law in national emergency strikes but permit plant seizure for a 90-day period.

While the proposal does not say so, the Government presumably also could obtain injunctions to maintain status quo in such plants. That was what aroused the pro-labor Democrats.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Utah) of the Senate Labor Committee opened the second day of debate on the issue by criticizing antistrike injunctions as "an aspirin" which does nothing to remove the cause of the headache.

He said the original Administration proposal for 30-day "cooling off" periods, without enforcement machinery to back them up,

American Actors Play 'Hamlet' Before 2000 Danes at Elsinore

Under Patronage of Royal Family

By Richard L. Coe
Post Reporter

Elsinore, Denmark, June 17.—More than 2000 Danes and members of the UNESCO convention crowded Kronborg Castle tonight to witness a performance of "Hamlet" by American actors.

It was the opening performance of the sixth annual "Hamlet Festival Plays" under patronage of the Danish royal family—the first festival in which American actors have taken the roles.

The interest shown by the Danish public and the publicity given this portrayal of Shakespeare's tragedy by American actors has been phenomenal.

The two-weeks engagement has been sold out and next week there will be a special performance for King Frederik and Queen Ingrid.

Kronborg Castle is the traditional site of "Hamlet" and it was here this unique play festival first opened in 1937.

The play was produced by Blevins Davis of New York and Independence, Mo., with a cast composed of actors from Broadway and the Barter Theater, State theater of Virginia.

Interest was centered in the American intrepretation of the technical end of the production.

And certainly Nat Karson, Broadway designer, scored a personal triumph with his stage setting. His setting included six statues which fitted so perfectly into the courtyard atmosphere that some of the playgoers thought they were actors.

Those who had attended previous "Hamlet" festivals were amazed at the statues and the lighting effects. The most spectacular ever seen in Denmark was their verdict.

Robert Breen, protege of the late John Barrrymore, was an instant success in the title role. He leaned heavily on the neurotic character of Shakespeare's Prince of Denmark.

His portrayal has provoked a discussion which will probably rage in Danish newspapers for days.

Actors Equity President Clarence Derwent scored in the role of Polonius, the Lord Chamberlain.

There was heavy applause, too, for Aline MacMahon as Gertrude, Queen of Denmark and Hamlet's mother, and Walter Abel, as the King. Because of their film work, both are well known here.

At this time of the year, the Danish night lasts only a few hours. Hence, much of the opening performance was given in daylight.

The weather was zippy and windy and overcoats and blankets were necessary for comfort. Despite the chill, the audience remained until a peal of cannonshot heralded the play's end.

The American presentation in Denmark had the cooperation of our State Department. It lured visitors from all Europe. Many of them consider this a further indication of American interest abroad.

Soviet Hedging on Free Access To Berlin Stalls Big Four

By Joseph W. Grigg, Jr.

Paris, June 17 (AP).—Russian refusal to guarantee the Western Allies free access to Berlin has stalemated the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference, it was made known tonight.

Unless Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky changes his mind by Sunday, as the result of instructions from Moscow, the conference will adjourn Monday with prospect of renewed bitter East-West disputes in the German capital.

Agreement on early signature of an Austrian treaty may still be possible.

It appeared two days ago that the Big Four were close to agreement on a working temporary agreement for control of Berlin as well as the treaty to restore Austria's independence.

But when negotiations got to the showdown stage, Vishinsky stubbornly rejected the Western Allies' demand for a firm acknowledgment of the right of the United States, Britain and France to remain in Berlin with free access to their occupation zones.

The proposal included a Russian affirmation of the right of the Western Allies to unrestricted use of railroads, highways and canals between Berlin and the west.

All Vishinsky was willing to say was that Russia would "facilitate" the use of such communications "for the purpose of promoting trade."

At a midnight meeting which ended early today, the foreign ministers agreed to meet in secret again Sunday.

'Distortions' In Attack On Housing Bill Are Assailed

President Gives Point-by-Point Reply to Charges Against Measure

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

President Truman assailed the real estate lobby for "misrepresentation and distortion" yesterday in a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn forecasting early House passage of the housing bill.

"I have been shocked in recent days," Mr. Truman wrote, "at the extraordinary propaganda campaign that has been unleashed against this bill by the real estate lobby.

"I do not recall ever having witnessed a more deliberate campaign of misrepresentation and distortion against legislation of such critical importance to the public welfare."

He then proceeded to take arguments against the measure to pieces, point by point, labeling these arguments "false" and "exaggerations" and "distortions." In each of nine instances he answered them with counter-arguments.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, had "no comment" on the President's attack. His organization is spearheading the opposition to public housing features of the bill.

Mr. Truman's letter was made public just as he sailed down the Potomac at 4:30 p. m. on the presidential yacht Williamsburg for a weekend holiday. He is due to return about 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

The bill to which the President referred in his letter was a housing measure (H. R. 4009) that has been scheduled for eight hours of floor debate beginning next Wednesday. The Senate already has passed a closely similar measure, which would have to be reconciled with the House version in conference before housing legislation could become law.

Mr. Truman replied on these nine points to what he described as "some of the more flagrant claims of the real estate lobby":

1. Lobby claims that the measure would cost 20 billion dollars are "an exaggeration of approximately 100 per cent."

2. Instead of the unit cost of $15,000 claimed by the lobby, each low-cost housing unit would average "at the most," $8465.

3. Contrary to claims of the lobby, the bill requires that preferences in allotting low-cost housing must be given to "low income families having the most urgent housing needs."

4. Public housing would not compete with private housing, as the lobby claims, but "of course with

Chicken Dipped In DDT Makes 3 Persons, Dog Ill

The recipe for Southern fried chicken just doesn't include DDT, three Washington residents and their dog learned yesterday.

Mrs. Helen I. Brown, 1614 3d st. nw., and two guests, Mrs. Josephine Gregory and Thomas Austin, same address, were preparing the chicken and dipped it in the wrong sack, Mrs. Brown told Casualty Hospital authorities. The wrong sack contained the DDT, the other sack contained flour.

The three became ill, but Mrs. Brown's dog was even sicker after eating the chicken. A veterinarian, Dr. Milton A. Bosley, 317 Massachusetts ave. ne., diagnosed the dog's ailment correctly. Then the three humans went to Casualty for their illness. They were treated and discharged. The dog is still in Dr. Bosley's hospital.

Removal of 4 Md. Phones Authorized By District Court

By Benjamin C. Bradlee
Post Reporter

United States District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff yesterday authorized the removal of four Maryland telephones on the ground that they were used in connection with gaming.

The service in question is leased to Larry Day, trading as Randle and Crane, 6711 New Hampshire ave., Takoma Park, Md. United States Attorney George Morris Fay is trying to remove 324 telephones to break up what he has called a multi-million-dollar-a-year gambling industry here.

Yesterday's decision gives the Government a record of four wins in five removal attempts. Its one defeat came when District Judge David A. Pine on April 28 ruled that the District Government could not remove a Maryland telephone suspected of use violating District laws.

In an effort to erase this defeat the Government yesterday filed a notice of appeal from Judge Pine's decision with the Court of Appeals.

But Judge Holtzoff ruled that the location of the telephones was immaterial, provided the court had jurisdiction and the evidence indicated the telephone was used illegally. He said that in a court of equity, the telephone company did not have to prove illegal use beyond a reasonable doubt, but Day had to show sufficient cause why the restraining order he sought should be granted.

He ruled that the four telephones should be removed because Day had not denied the telephones were used for gam-

Economists Expect 5 Million Idle Peak

By Sterling F. Green
Associated Press Reporter

Government economists believe that unemployment may go on climbing—perhaps to a point near five million—before recovery factors check the rise.

Stabilizing influences will come into play later this year or possibly 1950, responsible but unquotable officials predicted yesterday.

Meanwhile an Associated Press survey covering 38 States showed that five have put depression-style relief laws back on the books. Seven cities or more have restored "work relief."

But both Federal and State officials said, in general, that no crisis is indicated. Most said they feel sure the relief load can be shouldered without serious distress.

10 States Improved

At least 10 States report that unemployment has dropped in recent weeks. Nation-wide, two Government reports issued yesterday gave this picture:

1. Unmployment claims last month averaged 1,716,000, or about 5 per cent of the total workers covered by lay-off insurance. That is up 118,000 from April but still 80,000 under March.

A further rise in June was indicated. In the week ended June 11, the Federal Security Agency reported "continued" claims—those representing a full week or more of unemployment—numbered 2,107,979. Claims held over from the previous week because of the Memorial Day holiday boosted the total.

2. Nonfarm employment dipped 280,000 in May, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. It stood at 43,655,000, or 961,000 below a year ago.

Despite the unseasonal rise in unemployment in May, census figures show that the jobless make up only 5.3 per cent of the expanded postwar labor force.

Employment Rising Faster

Moreover, total employment in May rose more than 2½ times as much as joblessness. It reached 58,694,000—higher than May a year ago.

Factories led the downtrend in nonfarm jobs. Beset by strikes and by layoffs blamed on "declining demand for a substantial number of products," manufacturing employment skidded 320,000. It reached 15,017,000, or 1,700,000 down from the postwar peak last September.

Employment rose in the construction, transportation and some other nonfactory industries, but not enough to offset the eighth successive monthly decline in manufacturing.

One top economist said the feeling among his colleagues is "widespread" that unemployment is not going to stop at its present level of 3,289,000 or even at 4,000,000.

The resistance to deflation will come somewhere on the way to five million idle, some believe.

Consumers Wait for Price Fall

They concur in the findings of the Federal Reserve Board: Consumers have ready money and savings; they want to buy, but are waiting for prices to get better.

As for the Nation's ability to combat distress, the view of one Federal agency is shown in an unofficial, internal memorandum.

"Even though the (relief) trend has been upward since 1945, the total magnitudes do not give grounds for alarm . . . the situation may be serious in specific local areas.

"An increasing number of our major industrial centers are experiencing the unemployment of 10 per cent or more of their nonagricultural labor force . . .

"(But) in sumary, the current relief situation does not appear to be one which requires action beyond that already recommended by the President."

Five States in recent months have taken steps to help their counties handle the case load—either as a "preparedness" measure or to cope with emergencies already at hand.

Dayton First With Work Relief

These are Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Massachusetts. The measures include the making of outright State grants (Minnesota), giving counties permission to borrow by bonds or otherwise (Massachusetts and Ohio), or to raise taxes (Iowa, Kansas).

At least three more States—Michigan, Colorado and Idaho—are studying the need for special help to counties. California put a "standby" law on the books four years ago, but has never used it.

The "work relief" project, patterned on those of the great depression, came back to the city scene in December, at Dayton, Ohio.

At least six major cities have started projects since—Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Milwaukee. The largest relief project is in Detroit, which in May took care of 1156 of the city's idle.

From most States come reassuring reports as to local ability to handle the present and prospective relief burden.

On Monday

President Will Sign 'Hoover' Bill

President Truman will sign the reorganization bill Monday and probably will send several plans for reorganization to Congress the same day, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said yesterday.

While it could not be learned definitely which agencies would be dealt with first, there were indications the Civil Service Commission and the Maritime Commission would be among them. Reorganization of the Military Establishment is expected to follow shortly.

It was learned that in each case, plans submitted to Congress by the President will follow closely along the lines of recommendations by the Hoover Commission. This commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, recently handed the President programs for widespread reorganizations for economy, based on long study.

Meanwhile, Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, yesterday dropped his plan to pigeonhole a Senate-approved bill to tighten the unification law and set a hearing for June 28.

He said he changed his plans in fairness to Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, who wanted a chance to present his arguments for the bill.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, would give the Defense Secretary more power than he now holds, and sponsors claim it could save up to one billion dollars a year on armed forces spending.

Ross said the reorganization program undoubtedly would be discussed during the weekend cruise down the Potomac on which Mr. Truman embarked yesterday.

In addition to the President, the party included Miss Margaret Truman, Stephen T. Early, Undersecrretary of Defense; Presidential Secretary William D. Hassett; Ross, Mon C. Wallgren, former Governor of Washington; Administrative Assistants Charles S. Murphy and David Stone, and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

Miners Spurn Southern Plan To Avoid Strike

Bluefield, W. Va., June 17 (U.P.).—The United Mine Workers today rejected a proposal by Southern operators to stave off another coal strike next month by extending their present contract until August 15.

John Owens, NMW secretary-treasurer and John L. Lewis' chief negotiator here, said the union did not "think it advisable" to agree to an extension at this time.

The suggestion was made by President Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Coal Producers Association just before negotiations on a new wage agreement broke up for the weekend. Both sides plan to meet again Tuesday.

The turn-down by the union left the negotiators just about where they started early this month, with an important exception—the way is now clear for Government intervention in the dispute.

The operators' proposal forms the basis on which Federal Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching could seek to keep the talks going beyond the present contract's June 30 expiration date without an actual work stoppage.

Ching has been keeping in touch with both sides and may assign an official observer when the talks resume.

Lewis plans to open talks with the Northern and Western groups in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., next Wednesday, and is expected to start negotiations soon with steel companies which own and operate the "captive" pits.

The UMW president is expected to try to obtain the best possible contract from these producers and then force the Southern operators to accept the same terms. That has been his bargaining strategy several times in the past.

Moody said his group hasn't the slightest inkling of what Lewis wants.

"We have asked the miners what they want," he said. "All they will say is that we should raise the bid. There is an asking price in there somewhere. But how can you bargain when you don't know what the other side wants?"

Senate Group Approves Plan For Calif. River

By the United Press

A bill to authorize construction of a 111 million dollar American River project in California was approved yesterday by a Senate interior subcommittee.

It now goes to the full committee. The proposed development would be a part of the Central Valley project.

The subcommittee acted after being told by Senator Downey (D., Calif.) that Army engineers believe water can be delivered to Santa Clara county from the Salinas River.

Downey asked that the Reclamation bureau be required to make a survey of the use of water from the Contra Costa Canal and report to Congress before the first of next year.

The committee agreed to ask Secretary of the Interior Krug to withhold signing of a contract with the Contra Costa water district until the report is received if an election next Tuesday approves the district signing the agreement.

Downey told the committee Thursday that "a corrupt conspiracy" exists within the Reclamation Bureau to deny water from Contra Costa Canal to Richmond, Calif.

He told reporters he does not intend to press his inquiry at length at this time. He declared himself in favor of the 111-million-dollar American River project.

M. H. Davison, reclamation planning engineer of the California Delta District, denied any conspiracy involving Richmond.

He said the American River bill, passed by the House, would authorize studies to determine the most feasible allocations of water from Folsom Reservoir.

(See the article on reclamation and the Central Valley Project in Section Two of The Washington Post Sunday.—Editor's note.)

would provide a much-needed flexible approach to national emergency strikes.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) ripped into both the compromise and a substitute by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), who wants to keep most of the Taft-Hartley law on the books. Taft's plan would authorize injunctions, plant seizure or both for 60-day period.

The final Senate showdown is expected to be between the Taft amendment and the Douglas-Aiken proposal.

Pepper said both are "obnoxious" to labor and retain the "objectionable principles" of the Taft-Hartley law.

TV Called Factor In Wilson Breakup

Los Angeles, June 17 (AP).—Television was one of the main factors contributing to the breakup of Radio Announcer Don Wilson's marriage to Mrs. Maruisa Wilson, Polish beauty, she testified today in winning a divorce.

"He just wanted to sit home and look at television and not go out any place," she told Superior Judge Alfred L. Barlett. She also said Wilson, Jack Benny's announcer, called her a "stupid Pole."

Government Starts at Bottom, Truman Tells 'Boy Governors'

President Truman yesterday told a group of "boy governors" that "most of us who are now responsible for the operation of the Government will be out of business and unheard of 10 years from now."

That is "when you will be just coming to the point where you can really do the country some good," he said in an informal talk at the White House.

The boys, from 19 States, are high school students elected by model legislatures for training under the YMCA youth and government program. The YMCA's national council is also meeting here.

The President told them, "You are doing the right thing in becoming familiar with the operations of the greatest Government in the history of the world. It is a Government that starts from the bottom and goes to the top, instead of starting at the top and going to the bottom. That is the reason it has been successful."

The boys presented him a jeweled honorary membership pin in their organization.

The boys will continue their meeting with sessions in the Senate Office Building this morning, a luncheon meeting at the Continental Hotel and sightseeing this afternoon. They will attend the Y's national council banquet at the Hotel Statler at 6:45 p. m.

The council, in twenty-third annual session at at Statler, heard reports of "Y" work being carried on behind the iron curtain in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Communist China.

In 21 other countries the movement is expanding and rebuilding, aided by the World Service Division of the North American "Y" Associations. In China, there is evidence the Communists are encouraging Christian oragnizations to continue their work. YMCA personnel remain in eight Chinese cities held by the Communists with the World Service helping to restore 35 associations.

In Warsaw, the YMCA building has been restored. The country has 10 local associations with 14,000 members serving 70 other groups in education, sports and campaign programs, the report said.

Japan has more "Ys" than ever: there are 20,000 members in the Philippines; Italy has 16 associations, and the work is reaching a new high in Latin America, it was said.

The council will study plans to streamline the 105-year-old organization and discuss 1949-1950 programs affecting 1500 "Y" units.

At tonight's banquet, Ordway Tead, president of the Board of Higher Education of New York City, will speak. Eugene R. McCarthy, president of the national council and a St. Louis industrialist, will preside.

Produce Strike End Agreed On

the late shift were instructed to return to work at midnight pending outcome of the balloting, which is to continue until 7:30 a. m. today, a spokesman said.

If the settlement is rejected, the spokesman said, the strike would be resumed Sunday evening.

The locals had struck for a reduction in hours from 54 a week to 48, without a cut in take-home pay. The employers refused the demand, which they said would amount to 14 cents an hour increase in pay, on the ground that they were in competition for business with 75 unorganized produce firms.

The agreement calls for return of all strikers to their jobs. Those employes who have been on the job a year will receive a $1-a-week bonus for every week in which they are neither tardy nor absent from work. In addition, the more-than-a-year employes will receive prepayment of a week's vacation pay. This latter payment would have the effect of converting the week-long strike into a "vacation" period.

The walkout had been directed against W. Chas. Heitmuller Co., F. B. Grove, Berry's Fruit Produce Co., George D. Deoudes Co., N. J. Ward Co., Nathan Gordon, Robert L. Anderson, Lergh Lawrence Co.

There was no change yesterday in the 2-week-old strike of 100 bakery truck drivers against four pie-producing firms here. Truck Drivers Local No. 33 has assessed its 800 working members to help defray the cost of paying "substantial" strike benefits to the drivers on strike. The local, an official disclosed, has its own treasury of $100,000 to back the walkout.

Holden Calls Session

In a new move to break the strike stalemate in the Washington area construction industry, Federal Conciliator James Holden called a mediation session with the Master Builders Association and the AFL building laborers for Monday afternoon.

The laborers went out on strike June 2 for a 15-cent raise in pay, one day after the carpenters had walked out.

There were no new developments in the 17-day strike of the carpenters, who are seeking a 10-cent-an-hour raise in pay. The Carpenters District Council disclosed yesterday it is paying $3-a-day strike benefits to 1000 nonworking members.

4-H Clubbers Take Up Issue Of Filibuster

Some 200 4-H club boys and girls agreed last night that something should be done about filibusters, that the study of government should be given greater emphasis in high school, and that the people should have contact with their representatives.

Their conclusions were reached during informal discussions that climaxed the third day of the nineteenth 4-H Club Camp being held here.

During the day the delegates from 47 States and Puerto Rico did "field work" on the theme of this year's camp, which is "Know Your Government."

Visiting the Supreme Court, Capitol and Senate and House Office Buildings, the youth were greeted by Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) and Representative Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.), respectively chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees.

Senator Thomas told them he is in favor of high farm prices. He said Congress has been trying to help farmers for many years, but that "the trouble is that the farm people cannot agree among themselves on what should be done."

Representative Cooley stressed the importance of intelligent planning to handle agriculture surpluses saying that we have emphasized production but have done little on distribution.

About 100 State 4-H leaders were told by Claude R. Wickard, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration, that the rural electric cooperatives have been an outstanding success, with $1,200,000,000 lent for the program in the past 14 years.

Representative Clifford R. Hope (R., Kans.) told the club members at an afternoon session in the departmental auditorium that he hoped some of them would return to Washington as members of Congress or as Government officials.

The delegates split into groups for the discussion on government, then met together to see what they could agree on.

To stop filibusters, they decided, Congressmen's speeches should be limited to a certain number of minutes. The greater emphasis on government in high school education would give youngsters more background on how the Government operates so they could later vote more intelligently than they can now, they agreed.

As for their third major topic, representation, the young people said the "people back home" should write more to their Congressmen so they would not be swayed by the "pressure of professional lobbyists."

Clark Brings Truman Greetings From Italy

Gen. Mark Clark took greetings to President Truman yesterday from many dignitaries with whom he talked on a recent trip to Italy.

Talking wtih reporters later, General Clark said he was quite pleased with reconstruction work in Italy and found that the scars of war are rapidly disappearing.

General Clark will return to his command of the Sixth Army at the Presidio in California. En route there he will stop off in Cleveland today to address a Red Cross convention.

New Bill Would Give Brannan Farm Program 'Trial Run'

By the United Press

A House Agriculture Subcommittee last night uncloaked a bill which would give the administration a limited "trial run" of its new farm program and generally raise farm price supports.

Representative Stephen Pace (D., Ga.), chairman of the group, said he hopes to get formal approval for the measure next Wednesday and a quick okay by the full committee the following day.

The bill would:

1. Redefine "parity" for the first time since early New Deal days and allow it to rise above the present levels of 90 per cent of parity on most crops. It includes in full a new definition urged by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

2. Allow a "trial run" of the Brannan plan on three commodities chosen by the secretary. Brannan has indicated these will be potatoes, wool and hogs. The plan is aimed at keeping farm income high while letting certain retail food prices fall.

3. Repeal the Republican Hope-Aiken law now scheduled to go into effect next January 1. This law would allow a sliding scale of price supports ranging as low as 60 per cent of parity.

4. Add more crops to the six "basic" commodities—cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts—which may be supported at 100 per cent of the new parity formula. Added would be hogs milk, butterfat and shorn wool.

The bill would be effective next January 1.

Bonus Vs. Benefits

Veteran Aid Issue Splits House Group

By the United Press

The House Veterans Committee split sharply yesterday on bonus versus weekly checks to tide jobless former GIs over any business slump.

Chairman John E. Rankin (D., Miss.) said the committee probably would soon take up a multi-billion-dollar bonus bill for veterans of World War II.

Representative Walter B. Huber (D., Ohio) said the committee should consider extending the law under which jobless veterans can draw $20 a week up to 52 weeks.

The so-called 52-20 program, set up to provide a "readjustment allowance" for veterans while they looked for postwar jobs, expires for most veterans July 25.

500,000-a-Week Average

Slackening business has been re-flected in the fact that applications for the benefits have averaged more than 500,000 a week since last February.

Rankin said a bonus payment should quiet demands for extension of the jobless benefits program.

"There is a lot of opposition to any continuation of this sit-down money," he said. "Some people think we ought to be thinking about doing something for that big majority of veterans who settled down to work when they got out of the service and never have drawn a nickel in benefits of any kind."

Rankin's bonus bill would give $3 a day for World War II service in this country and $4 a day for duty overseas. The maximum payment would be $5000. Bonus bonds could be cashed at the rate of one-fifth a year for five years or the entire sum at once for the purposes of buying a home or starting a business.

Based on VFW Proposal

The measure is based on one proposed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A VFW spokesman estimated it would cost from 15 billion dollars to 20 billion dollars. Huber estimated it would cost more than 40 billion dollars.

Huber has pending in the committee a bill to extend the 52-20 club for another five years. He said he would petition the House to take it away from the committee if Rankin doesn't at least call hearings on it.

The Huber measure is intended to give unemployment benefits to veterans who got jobs when they first came out of service but are losing them, largely for lack of seniority, under current business cutbacks.

It would not do anything for more than 1,133,000 veterans who already have exhausted their eligibility. But, it would extend the time during which the others could get special Federal jobless benefits.

More than 8,618,000 of the 15 million World War II veterans have drawn one or more checks from the so-called 52-20 club. Payments to date total $3,571,000,000.

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

ECA Chief Paul Hoffman yesterday practically told the Senate Appropriations Committee it could get another Marshall Plan staff if it thought he took his job casually.

It was the second time in a week of steady grilling that he had clashed with a committeeman over threats to cut his program.

The latest brush came when Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) suggested that ECA had lopped a flat 10 per cent off the 1948-49 allotment for France. Wherry said that on the same basis Congress would be justified in making a flat percentage cut in ECA.

Hoffman said ECA never cut French funds by that method and hotly told Wherry:

"If you feel that way about us after a year's work, then there ought to be an entirely new ECA administration. . . . To even suggest that we proceed in a casual or cavalier fashion is a reflection . . ."

Wherry interrupted to say he wasn't suggesting that, but had gotten his figure out of a brochure ECA itself had prepared.

Hoffman's aides said Wherry had misread it—that the 10 per cent cut was made by the French themselves and the French program was carefully reviewed by the administrator and his deputies before reaching a final figure.

Both Hoffman and Wherry calmed down in the ensuing discussion. Wherry said the administrator seemed to think the "men around him" and their figures were "untouchable."

Hoffman said he didn't think that, but repeated:

"I want to make one point, and let there be no mistake about it—any suggestion that our figures are arrived at in a casual or cavalier manner is unwarranted by the evidence."

The former Studebaker Corp. executive, who took a leave of absence from his job to direct the Marshall Plan program, less than a week ago implied he would step down from his post rather than try to do the job with inadequate funds.

In a subsequent brush with Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) he denied he was holding a "threat" of resignation over Congress, but firmly stood his ground that four billion dollars is the minimum needed for the second year of the recovery effort.

Senate ardor for a cut dampened somewhat following ECA disclosure that a one-billion cut would reduce purchases of American cotton, tobacco, wheat, butter, lumber and other commodities.

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) told newsmen: "The push for a big reduction is all washed up."

Wherry insisted however that the 740-million-dollar slash proposed by the congressional "watchdog" committee could be made without crippling ECA and he would propose it himself if no one else did.

The Nebraskan closely questioned Hoffman's aides on the effect of a cutback in ECA purchases on total American exports and supplies in given commodities.

He was told that if ECA were cut a billion dollars, American shipments of wheat would be reduced 2.7 per cent of total exports; corn, 26 per cent; fats and oils, 8.9 per cent; dairy products, 20 per cent; cotton, 11.8 per cent and tobacco, 26 per cent.

Wherry insisted that in the case of foods, like wheat and corn, the reduction was so small it wouldn't have an effect on the market. In the case of wheat, he said, the cut would be only 75 one hundredths per cent of total supplies.

"I'm not going to be panicked by it," he said.

In earlier questioning by Senator Guy Cordon (R., Oreg.), Hoffman said ECA will use all the "pressure" it can to prevent bilateral trade agreements like the proposed British-Argentine trade pact.

Opposed by the State Department, the proposed 5-year pact has been negotiated, but neither Britain nor Argentina has yet signed it.

Cordon urged the committee to call Acting Secretary of State James E. Webb for questioning on it.

Tucker Arraignment Slated for Thursday

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—Preston Tucker, indicted promoter of an unmarketed automobile, will be arraigned Thursday in Federal Court, U. S. Attorney Otto Kerner, jr., announced today.

Tucker and seven other persons were indicted on 25 accusations of mail fraud, five counts of violation of SEC regulations, and a single charge of conspiracy.

The Tucker Corp. is undergoing reorganization under Federal Bankruptcy Law. Its plant, which never succeeded in getting into mass production, is shut down, except for maintenance crews.

Ana Pauker Reported In Less Favor

Zurich, Switzerland, June 17 (AP).—Romania's woman Foreign Minister, Ana Pauker, today was reported under fire from Moscow for depositing party funds in foreign banks without telling the Cominform.

The Swiss weekly newspaper Die Weltwoche said her fall from among the Kremlin's favorites became known after the arrest of a Romanian charged with spying on bank deals in Switzerland.

Some of the Romanian Communist funds handled by Mrs. Pauker were reported found in Swiss banks.

(Informed quarters in Bucharest said they were inclined to discredit reports that Mrs. Pauker had fallen into Moscow's disfavor.)

The alleged spy from Romania is Solvan Vitianu, now on trial at Winterthur for political and economic espionage.

The prosecution charges one of his jobs was to snoop out foreign currency holdings of Romanian refugees in Switzerland and then get them for the Communist Party by bribery and blackmail.

Dimitrov Ill, Death In Few Days Expected

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 17 (AP).—Georgi Dimitrov, Communist Premier of Bulgaria, is so ill that Czech newspapers have been told to prepare his death notices, a Czech newsman said today.

Communist authorities have alerted editors and told them to get Dimitrov's obituary into type, the newsman said, adding: "The news (of his death) is expected to be announced within two or three days."

Meanwhile, a report from Sofia said the people of the Bulgarian capital were preparing to celebrate the Premier's sixty-seventh birthday Saturday.

Dimitrov, reputed to be the most influential Communist outside the Soviet Union, is now in Russia, officially because of his health.

(Some Turkish newspapers already have reported his death in a sanitarium near Moscow. The stories have been denied.)

Dimitrov, a close friend of Prime Minister Stalin, recently was reported by Moscow to be suffering from diabetes, a liver ailment and complications. Sources outside Bulgaria have reported him suffering from heart trouble and tuberculosis of the skin.

Berlin Rail Strike Enters Fifth Week

Berlin, June 17 (AP).—The Berlin rail strike ended its fourth week today without prospects of a settlement.

There were no new negotiations planned by the union, the city government or the Western Allies.

The West Berlin railyards are lying idle, 40 loaded supply trains are outside the city, unable to enter. The elevated passenger trains which normally carry a million fares daily are halted.

Union officials said they were bound by the overwhelming vote of the 14,000 strikers to refuse any compromise that falls short of 100 per cent wage payment in Westmarks, union recognition and pledges against reprisals.

The Soviet-controlled Reichsbahn (railway) indicated through a spokesman it had made its final offer—60 per cent wages in Westmarks, the remainder in Russian Eastmarks which have one fourth the value of Westmarks, and a promise there would be no reprisals.

In the meantime the Allied airlift brought another 8444 tons of supplies to West Berlin.

Hungarians Starving Foes, Ex-Envoy Says

Houston, Tex., June 17 (AP).—An American diplomat from behind the Iron Curtain today pictured Communist Hungary as a land of silent terror. There, he said, common people who displease the Communists lose their jobs and are left to starve.

This report was given by Selden Chapin, former American minister to that country. Chapin left Budapest last February after the government there had demanded his recall on the grounds he had conspired with the Catholic prelate, Cardinal Mindszenty.

Mindszenty was sent to prison on charges of working against the government, charges which Chapin branded as "scurrilous."

"The Hungarians," he said, "are kept under close surveillance. There are the usual block leaders; all apartment houses and even most private houses are required by law to have a house man, or sort of super janitor, who reports on the comings and goings of his people.

"If a Hungarian's behavior is reported to be out of line, economic pressure is applied. He finds himself out of a job, and after a time he finds that no one else will hire him.

"A citizen in political disfavor may lose the privilege of buying at state stores and restaurants, where prices are low. Eventually a time comes when there is nothing left to sell, and no source of income. Then he and his family starve.

Can't Buy Drugs

"He may not buy penicillin or other essential drugs. His children may even be denied entry to the now nationalized schools. It works."

Chapin declared "despite all the ballyhoo about Communist labor unions, labor in Hungary has lost the right to strike and the few instances of workers protesting against the speed-up piece rate were never even mentioned in the Communist press, even though blood was shed."

As for the future of eastern Europe, Chapin said, "it's hard to see at the present time what might happen to alter the Communist control." But he declared that if present American foreign policies, including the European Recovery Program, are successfully followed through, a "strong economic magnetism" would work on the Russian satellite countries.

Drug Kills Pain From Bee Stings

Thephorin, an allergy reaction drug, gives almost immediate relief from the pain of bee stings and ant bites, a New Jersey physician reported to the profession.

Dr. William Theodore Strauss of Upper Montclair, N. J., describes the pain-alleviating power of the drug in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

In eight cases in which an ointment of the drug was used for stings and bites, he reported, the patients obtained relief in one or two minutes.

Prague Police Seize Records Of Archbishop

By Richard Kasischke

Prague, June 17 (AP).—The Communist government toughened its campaign against the Catholic Church today by putting Archbishop Josef Beran under house arrest.

Three well-known Prague priests also were under arrest after police raided the consistory in the Archbishop's Palace to seize church records.

The 60-year-old archbishop was kept under police watch.

Diplomatic informants speculated on whether he might also be taken to confinement elsewhere if he continued resisting what he calls a government aim to control Catholicism in Czechoslovakia and to set up a new "State Catholic Church."

One diplomat familiar with the archbishopric said Archbishop Beran last Saturday discussed with some of his bishops the advisability of naming a temporary successor "in case," he said, "I am soon arrested."

Churchmen said recent estimates placed the number of priests under arrest at about 150 in the whole country. This figure now may be higher as a result of the government campaign to high-pressure allegiance from priests and laymen for its own sponsored Catholic Action organization.

It could not be learned whether anyone was getting in to see the archbishop in his palace office.

Foreign correspondents saw the palace reception desk and telephone switchboard had been taken over by security police.

All that could be learned from police was a statement saying Archbishop Beran was still there.

Nothing could be learned of what happened to two priests seized in the police search of the consistory Tuesday and Wednesday.

Navy to Send 3 New Warships On Norway, Denmark Visits

London, June 17.—The U. S. Navy announced today it will send three of the newest American warships on visits next month to Norway and Denmark.

The heavy cruiser Columbus and the destroyers S. B. Roberts and O'Hare—all built since the war—will show the American Flag at Oslo July 16-21 and at Copenhagen July 22-27.

The announcement came shortly after the big United States battleship Missouri arrived with an escort of nine destroyers and mine layers at the British Royal Navy base in Portsmouth for an eight-day visit.

A dispatch from Moscow today reported the Communist Party paper Pravda gave prominent display to a dispatch from Stockholm he claimed: "Maneuvers of fleets of Britain and Scandinavian countries in northern waters."

The Pravda story quoted the Swedish newspaper NY Dag as saying:

"It is possible the military leadership of the Atlantic Union has placed before naval forces of the Scandinavian countries special problems as the result of which these forces will not act in regions where forces of the remaining countries participating in the Atlantic Pact are acting. The Swedish government even at the present time tries to convince the Swedish people it allegedly has not tied Sweden to the North Atlantic bloc."

Sweden did not sign the Atlantic Pact.

Admiral R. L. Conolly, commander-in-chief of United States naval forces for the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, will be in the Columbus on the trip to Oslo and Copenhagen.

Communists Admit War Lords Have Joined West China Fight

San Francisco, June 17 (AP).—New evidence that the Moslem warlords of China's northwest have joined the war against the Communists and are engaged in large-scale fighting came today from the Communist radio.

A Red broadcast heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press asserted that more than 4000 troops of Gen. Ma Pu-fang had been wiped out in a three-day battle immediately northwest of Sian.

It said forces of his cousin, Gen. Ma Hung-kwei, also were engaged when each sent a full army group (a total of possibly 150,000 men) to cover the retreat of Gen. Hu Tsung-nan's Nationalist regulars from Sian.

Total Nationalist losses were put at 10,000 men.

Capital of Shensi Province, Sian is about 800 miles northwest of Shanghai. The Reds took it last month and said they were pursuing the Nationalists westward, but today they put the scene of conflict only 20 miles northwest of Sian.

Ma Pu-fang is governor of Tsinghai Province, and his cousin Ma Hung-kwei governs Minghsia. Both provinces are huge semi-isolated regions which the Mas have ruled for many years. Nominally they pay allegiance to the Nationalist government, but in practice are autonomous.

The Nationalist military spokesman at Canton said yesterday that Ma Pu-fang had joined the fighting. This spokesman credited him and Nationalist Gen. Hu Tsung-nan with inflicting 23,000 casualties on the Reds while losing only 2000 of their own men in springing a notable trap on the Communists west of Sian.

Judy Feared NKVD Was Trailing Her

ing for the Department of Justice, the United States Government. An American citizen—being trailed by the Russian secret police.

"'What are they going to do,' I asked him, 'kill us?'"

"What did he say?"

"He told me to calm down—he was always telling me to calm down. He said we'd go to Luchow's and eat. I told him no, I was going to settle this thing between us (their love—but Gubitchev's already being married) once and for all.

"I was too agitated to go into a restaurant."

"You mean agitated by his wife's detectives and the NKVD?" Palmer asked.

"Yes—I told him I didn't want to go into a restaurant and make a public exhibition."

All this was perhaps an hour or so before FBI agents, who had the pair under surveillance since January, closed down on them near New York's Bowery.

Tells of Being Stripped

She had no idea what the arrest was for, Miss Coplon testified, and she went on to describe her version of what happened at FBI headquarters on the sixth floor of the U. S. Courthouse, Foley Square, New York:

"Did there come a time," Palmer asked, "when you were taken into a room and stripped?"

The dark eyes of the trim, 5-foot, 100-pound, 28-year-old brunette flashed.

"Yes," she said after a moment, her face now half anger, half sadness.

"By whom?"

She identified them: Miss Sappho Manos, clerk in the New York office of the FBI, and Miss Genevieve Chara, office nurse.

Q. Tell this jury what they did.

A. Miss Manes held me while Nurse Chara undressed me.

Q. Did they pull the clothes off you?

A. They did. I asked them if that was necessary and they said "Oh, yes." Then I asked them, "Do you want me to do it?" and they said "Oh, no."

Q. In all your life before had you been undressed by a strange woman?

A. Never.

Q. You've never been undressed by a strange woman and you've never been in a courtroom before?

A. That's true.

Prosecution Objects

Q. Miss Manos called you a dirty spy, didn't she?

Prosecution flamed up to object and the question was stricken.

Q. Now tell this jury what they did when they undressed you.

A. They probed around all over by body. They opened my mouth to find out what was in it—I don't know what they expected to find. Then they said—"you can get dressed."

Q. Now there came a time when you were brought back into the room where the agents were?

A. Yes. Someone would come in and say something about a man. Then at another point, the word "Russian." Another point, the word "papers." It was my impression they wanted me to think this was a confession made by Mr. Gubitchev. They kept running in bringing drafts, passing them back and forth.

Q. So they started examining you.

A. Yes. The nurse gave me some aromatic capsules and told me they would be good to take if I felt faint.

Q. Did they tell you about your right to have a lawyer?

A. Yes, Mr. Miller (Special Agent T. Scott Miller, who has been in the courtroom every day, right behind prosecution counsel) told me I had a right to have a lawyer, a right not to answer any questions because it might be held against me in a court of law.

Q. After Mr. Miller told you that, did you ask for a lawyer?

A. Yes—he said we'd come to that, or words to that effect.

Describes Examination

Miss Coplon went on to detail the way in which she said FBI agents examined her. It went on until 3:30 a. m. for a total of about five hours, she said. FBI agents have testified the examination lasted only from 11:30 to 2:30 a. m.

She identified as present at the questioning Miller and Special Agents Brewer Wilson and Roger W. Robinson. Her account of the questioning those early hours of March 5 was in great variance with the account given by FBI agents.

They began in a rather friendly manner and voice, she said.

"I kept telling them 'No comment until I see a lawyer,'" she said. "Then as they kept on trying to get me to talk I simply said 'No comment.'"

Agent Shouted, She Says

Then came what she described as a stark moment. Robinson, she said, shouted with such suddenness and volume that even Agent Wilson jumped from his chair, startled. Robinson, she testified, suddenly turned to her and shouted:

"What do you mean by 'No comment.' You're just a piece of trash. I've had a lot of trash in that chair. I've had crooks, racketeers, white slavers, all sorts of trash in that chair. Who do you think you are, answering 'No comment'?"

Describing it as a "grueling night," Miss Coplon said:

"I asked them, 'How much longer is this going to go on?' I said, 'Can I have a lawyer or not?' They were giving me all kinds of excuses . . .

"When I asked for a lawyer Mr. (Agent) Robinson said, 'Mr. Miller's a lawyer, speak to him, we have a lot of other lawyers around here too'.

"And someone said, 'Do you think it's nice to wake a lawyer this time of morning?' Just another excuse they used."

The questioning ended about 3:15 or 3:30 a. m., she testified.

"I said to Robinson, 'Can I go to sleep?' He said 'Sure.' I said 'Where?' He said 'Go to sleep in the chair.'"

"In the chair in the room where all these men were," Palmer said.

Mother Sobs Quietly

All through this testimony, the defendant's mother, the 56-year-old lady in black, sobbed continuously though quietly in her chair in the lawyers' section.

Special Agent Miller, whose testimony about that evening of March 4 and morning of March 5 is in such sharp variance with Miss Coplon's, sat looking studiously at her, not changing expression.

She said the agents did tell her she could lie down in the nurses' room but her arraignment was about due and she suspected a trick. Finally her lawyer came, she said, and finally she went into the nurses' room to rest. But, she claimed:

"The nurse kept up this talk, what was I doing with my life when I could be so glamorous like Miss Bentley. Then Miss Manos came in and they discussed the St. Patrick's Day parade."

"So you didn't get any sleep," Palmer picked up, "on account of these ladies having all this interesting chat. All this pounding and this whole terrifying atmosphere alternating with this sweetness from the nurse. Now I want to pass out of this room where this gruelling experience took place . . . But what about newspapers?"

Offers Newspapers

"Mr. Robinson," Miss Coplon said, "made it a point of coming in and holding up big tabloid newspapers like the New York Mirror and asking, 'Interested in reading?' I said no. They had nothing in it about me by then."

An especially dramatic moment occurred that night, according to Miss Coplon's testimony, though she did not describe it as such.

In the building that night was a fortyish Fordham University graduate named Raymond P. Whearty, a man who has devoted his life to Government service. She did not know he was there.

He had once been her boss in the Foreign Agents Registration Section. He had called her Judy. He had joined in giving her a luncheon at Hogate's restaurant here as a sendoff to Europe. He had got her a raise in her job.

In these days, it must have seemed impossible that the day would come when he would be her prosecutor, when she would be charged with using the job he helped her advance in to steal her Nation's secrets to give to Russia.

The day was near at hand that night. Whearty was in the building in his capacity as first assistant to the Attorney General in charge of the criminal division of the Department of Justice. He was there in connection with what was to be the famed "Coplon case."

Later he was to be her prosecutor—though he tried to get out of it because he felt "a degree of relationship there."

The time came that morning of March 6 when Judith Coplon went into court in the same building housing the FBI. It was after 4 a. m. She and Whearty met then and, she testified, he said to her:

"Judy, here's a subpena."

Whearty Makes Notes

At a table 7 feet from her, Whearty, now prosecuting her as a charged spy, sat making steady notes for cross-examination.

From the FBI, Miss Coplon went for a week to the Women's House of Detention in New York, she said. There, she said she sent for a list of things she needed from a valise she had checked at the railroad station on arriving in New York.

"I particularly wanted a change of underwear," she said, "and there was a comb and make-up on the list. They gave me the underwear but the jail matron broke the handle from the comb before she would give it to me. They wouldn't give me make-up."

Palmer: "So all you got out of that list in connection with your constitutional rights was . . ."

"Some underwear and a piece of a comb."

"In connection with your constitutional rights some underwear and a piece of comb," the ball-shaped Palmer repeated.

On Loyalty Standards

Whearty's name had come in startling fashion into Miss Coplan's testimony earlier in the day.

She declared he and other of her Department of Justice associates had found "revolting" the loyalty standards established by Attorney General Clark.

She was talking about the time Wheaty was head of the Internal Security Section and Foreign Agents Registration Section in which she worked.

Part of her job was to recommend organizations for the Attorney General's subversive list and she made such recommendations for several organizations which reached the list, she said.

Q. What did Mr. Whearty tell you regarding his opinion of the subversive list program?

A. When we got the standards, around December of 1947 I think it was, we felt it was capricious and un-American. We felt pretty sick about the standards that they were a violation of civil liberties, this doctrine of putting people on the list who would be blackened . . .

Q. You felt sick over the idea of becoming spies yourself to blacken people?

A. We all felt the standards were revolting as far as the rights of individuals were concerned. The idea that because of these standards and individual who happened to give money to a particular relief group, simply because of that, he might be thrown out of a job . . . it was revolting. We ourselves under this order were going to sit down and say an organization was subversive. We didn't know who set up the standards—probably lawyers.

Q. And Mr. Whearty?

A. Mr. Whearty looked at the standards and said he would like to become a member of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Another Defense Surprise

Another defense surprise involving still another of Miss Coplon's former bosses in the Department of Justice came from her testimony late in the day.

In cool, even tones she related that William E. Foley, chief of the Foreign Agents Registration Section, insisted on March 4 that she take down and put in her purse extracts from a secret FBI document.

Her handwritten notes on the document, a "plant," were found in her purse when she was arrested that night in New York.

When Foley showed her the document at the Department of Justice, she said, she told him she was going to New York that evening. He told her to go ahead and make the notes, she said, so she could work on the document over the weekend. She said he watched her put it in a flap in her purse.

Such "odd" things "fell into place" only after her arrest and indictment, she said.

'Top Secret' Report

Another such "odd" thing, she testified, concerned a "top secret" report on Communist intelligence activities in the United States, notes on which also were found in her purse.

The story on this one started back in January, at which time she also was under surveillance by FBI agents on her trips to New York.

At this time, she said, her boss Foley came into her office one day carrying the "top secret" FBI report.

Q. Had you up to this time ever seen a "top secret" report before?

A. Never. Mr. Foley came in and told me he had a top secret report on Communist espionage in the United States. I said "Top secret? Is it something about the atom bomb?" The highest thing I'd ever seen before was "confidential." Around our office Mr. Foley said "hot" meant confidential—a lot of "confidential" reports were a laughing matter in the office. We'd read in the papers about the Un-American Activities Committee having Miss Bentley testify about the Arthur Adams espionage case and the next day we'd get a "confidential" report from the FBI.

Q. Often it was in the newspapers before it got from the FBI to the Internal Security Section?

A. Yes. Mr. Foley came in that day and said he had a top secret report, he made a specific point of it. Later in the afternoon he came in and said maybe I shouldn't look at it because it was top secret. I thought he was kidding. It sounded like those stories about the Army.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. I mean about the Army labeling everything top secret—including newspapers. Anyhow, a few days later he came in and threw the report down on my desk grandiloquently—the first time I'd ever seen it. It had a black cover with silver letters. He told me to glance through it. I couldn't understand why he was making all the fuss. I looked through it hurriedly—it was old stuff mostly. It was an odd situation. I couldn't understand his rushing in with it, then rushing out after telling me to glance at it briefly, then taking it away . . .

Q. And it was in this sero-comic vein that you were writing your book. The sero-comic vein in this about the "top secret" report?

(One of the defense contentions is that Miss Coplon, when she copied from secret Government documents, did so to gather material for a novel on the Washington scene and not to spy for Russia.)

Q. Have you come to the conclusion since that that "top secret" document was a "decoy" also?

A. Yes.

At the time she met Gubitchev, Soviet U. N. engineer, she had become fed up with her Department of Justice job and was about ready to seek a job with the United Nations, Miss Coplon said.

Tired of Justice Department

"Before I met Gubitchev I was sick and tired of the work," she testified, her words coming easily. "Then beginning in January (surveillance on her and Gubitchev was under way then, unknown to her), the way news was broken to me, the cruel and sadistic sort of way, the way Foley did, telling me material was not to be shown me, all this especially as they owed me hours and hours of time. I thought the world had come to an end by their reaction one day in February to my audacity of taking 2½ hours off the day before.

Q. Where did you go?

A. To get a permanent. I had told one of Mr. Foley's secretaries I was going and after I had my permanent I called the office as I usually did. They said Mr. Foley was raising a rumpus because I had been off two-and-a-half hours without telling anyone, even though I had told someone. Another time I left at 10 minutes till 5 and Mr. Foley got furious at that. I have since decided he was telling FBI agents when I was leaving the building so they could take up surveillance.

Dressed in Black Suit

On the stand yesterday, Miss Coplon was dressed in a neat black suit, a white blouse muffled at her throat. Her dark, soft-looking hair, one of her most attractive features, was held in place on the top by two barettes, her curls tumbling sideward to frame her rather small face.

Her face . . . a paleness dominated through the slight coloring, her face projected, small, looking out over the filled courtroom, outside of which hundreds more waited for a glimpse of her.

Her eyes, dark eyes, behind which lie the answers to so many questions people all over the world are asking these days, and mainly one question: Was she or was she not a spy against her country?

The eyes seemed masked, unrevealing for the most part. Flashing when she told of being stripped against her will. Cool as she denied the Government's charges, laid down her defense of "entrapment."

But nothing was more striking than the great fluency with which she testified. Her enunciation was faultless, almost never was there a moment's hesitation in answering. Never the slightest faltering as she talked on. The answers were sometimes five-minutes long — markedly intelligent descriptions, for example, of the exact nature of her work in the Department of Justice as a political analyst.

She will be testifying again Monday on her own behalf.

There comes then the time when Prosecutor Kelley will have her under cross-examination.

Cease-Fire Talks In Capital Aim Of Indonesians

Pangkalpinang, Bangka Island, Indonesia, June 16, (Delayed).—Indonesian Republic leaders said today the Dutch would have to return them to their capital at Jogjakarta, Java, before they could work out details for a cease-fire.

President Soekarno and Premier Mohamed Hatta have been held on this island off Sumatra since the Dutch took Jogjakarta last December.

Agreement to restore the republic in return for a cease-fire on the part of Indonesian guerillas was reached under U. N. mediation May 7. Talks on implementing such agreement dragged on five weeks and have bogged down in another deadlock.

"The Dutch want us to accept details of a cease-fire agreement now while we are in Bangka and then urge the full agreement on our government after it is restored," the leaders said jointly. They said flatly the Republican leaders could not do that.

Committeeman Calls Book Check In Ohio a Blunder

Representative McSweeney (R., Ohio) says the House Un-American Activities Commtitee, of which he is a member, "blundered badly" in handling a spot check of textbooks used in colleges in his State.

"The committee now has explained to them," McSweeney said, "that no reflection was intended when it singled out five from about 50 Ohio schools for the check.

"The committee blundered badly, however, in allowing staff members to write the letters which asked the institutions for lists of certain types of textbooks and books in their libraries used in the students' studies. The letters were terse to the point of being curt, and did not disclose that this was only a spot check."

The colleges singled out, he said, were Wooster, Antioch, Oberlin and Wilberforce and the University of Toledo.

He said they now have letters from the committee explaining the nature of the survey, which he said is to determine whether any objectionable material is finding its way into textbooks.

"I have every confidence in our Ohio schools," McSweeney told a reporter. "I have heard of nothing to indicate there has been any infiltration of Communist influence."

N. Y. Regents Brand 6 Groups Subversive

Albany, June 17 (U.P.).—The State Board of Regents has listed at least six organizations as subversive and will bar their members from holding teaching positions in New York's public schools, it was learned reliably today.

The Communist Party in the United States topped the list. Others declared "definitely subversive" included:

The Communist Political Association, the German-American Bund, Socialist Workers Party, Workers Party, and the Young Communist League.

5 In One Family Get Rochester U. Degrees

Rochester, N. Y., June 17 (U.P.).—Some sort of a record may be set here Monday when five members of one family receive degrees at the University of Rochester's commencement ceremonies.

The quintet of sheepskin recipients are Caroline Nell Yaude and her husband, Walter L. Yaude; her brothers, John and Robert, and Robert's wife, Shirley Gott Neel. All will receive A.B. degrees.

Three other members of the Neel family, Virginia, 21; Diana, 20, and William, 18, still are attending the university.

Joint Atom Committee to Hear Loyalty Case 'A' In Secret

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The first Atomic Energy loyalty case, designated by Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) as "Case A," will, like all others, be explored in closed sessions of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) announced yesterday.

McMahon said that since the identity of "Case A" has never been disclosed in the public press or radio there was no reason for treating it differently from the others which the committee has announced it would examine in closed session.

McMahon's announcement came after an executive session during which the committee discussed charges by Representative Melvin Price (D., Ill.) that an article by William Bradford Huie in this month's issue of Nation's Business violated security.

Has Confidence in Teeple

The committee also discussed the fact that the name of David S. Teeple, former committee aide now on loan from the Air Force to assist Hickenlooper, was mentioned in the article.

"The committee has authorized me to state, "McMahon said, "after hearing from Mr. Teeple, that it has full confidence in Mr. Teeple."

A public hearing followed the closed session to discuss the unanimous report of the full joint committee that the commission's contract to build a 10-million-dollar natural gas pipe line to its Oak Ridge (Tenn.) plant is unwarranted and wasteful.

Commissioner Sumner T. Pike served notice the commission does not intend to abide by the recommendation of the committee to abandon the project.

Committee Wrong, Pike Says

In this case, Pike said, "the commission is right and the committee is wrong."

Pike said the saving to the Government at present prices over the cost of the coal required would be $1,250,000 a year.

Representative Chet Holifield (D., Calif.) agreed with Pike that savings to the Government might result.

Later, however, Holifield said he agreed with McMahon that the Atomic Energy Act should be amended to give the committee power to control the expenditures by the commission in the same manner as the Armed Services Committee, for example, passes on authorizations for the armed forces.

Coal Strikes Feared

Pike said the commission was convinced that the supply of natural gas, piped from Texas, would be more reliable than dependence on coal. He said there was "doubtful" assurance of steady coal supplies because, "whether you call them strikes or not, work stoppages are frequent."

Pike contended the pipeline would not be more vulnerable to attack than a railroad which hauls coal. He said he believed chances of a strike cutting off gas supplies were extremely remote.

In any case, he testified, the plant could convert from gas to coal in 24 hours in case of emergency.

'Warner Hall' Fire Probed

Gloucester, Va., June 17 (A.P.).—Investigators today probed fire damage at Warner Hall, home of George Washington's grandmother, Mildred Warner. The building's north wing was gutted by flames yesterday.

Freedom Sought By U. S. for 'Spy' Jailed by Czechs

Prague, June 17 (A.P.).—The U. S. Embassy today said it is trying to obtain the release of an American Navy veteran sentenced by a Czechoslovak court to three years' imprisonment on charges of spying.

The prisoner is 22-year-old John Hvasta, Hillside, N. J., who served as a chief petty officer in the Navy.

Hvasta was sentenced a week ago at a trial in Bratislava, where three persons were sentenced to death and 22 others given prison sentences of from eight months to 18 years.

He was a clerk in the U. S. Consulate General in Bratislava for three months during 1948. Embassy officials said he was discharged in July, 1948.

Judge Denies Plea For Hiss Acquittal

ing. 'On the contrary, I think the press has been very fair in this case."

Hiss, who until recently was the $20,000-a-year president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace—taking that post after he left the State Department in 1946—probably will not be among the defense witnesses called to the stand on Monday, Stryker said.

But Hiss, who flatly denies any Communist activity, will definitely testify later in his own defense, said Stryker. Mrs. Priscilla Hiss, who has sat beside her tall, handsome, 44-year-old husband throughout the trial, may also testify, it is believed.

Chambers, an admitted courier for a Communist spy ring which provided documents for Russian agents, has stated in his charges that Mrs. Hiss typed many of the documents which have been introduced as evidence against her husband.

Witness Supports Chambers

Two defense witnesses have already appeared, out of turn. They testified yesterday as character witnesses for Hiss.

The last prosecution witness today was Benjamin H. Firsheim, a stenotypist employed by Ward & Paul public stenographers in Washington.

His testimony showed that Chambers was correct when he contended that there was an error in a hearing record of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Chambers, who touched off his charges against Hiss before that committee last August, was quoted in the record as having said that in December, 1938, he went to see Hiss at his "Dent Place" home and tried to talk him into abandoning the Communist Party.

In his testimony here on June 6, Chambers declared that the record was wrong. He stated he had not said "Dent Place" but said "Volta Place."

Misinformed on Street

The point became significant in the case, for there is no evidence the Hisses lived on Dent pl., which is two blocks from Volta pl., in Georgetown, where they resided starting in December, 1937.

Firsheim said he could not hear the address well when Chambers testified on August 25, and put down the phonetic stenotype spelling for Valt," noting that it was questionable and should be checked.

Later he "consulted with someone—I think it was a member of the committee staff," and said he was told that "Dent" was the correct word. Firsheim said he superimposed "Dent" over the "Valt" in his notes.

As the trial goes into its fourth week on Monday, it is estimated that the defense will require a week or more to present its case. The defense has yet to provide its answer to the obvious question of where Chambers obtained copies of 1938 State Department documents in evidence.

Written on Hiss Typewriter

These include 65 typewritten exhibits 64 of which, the prosecution charges, were prepared on a typewriter owned by the Hisses; 4 handwritten documents admittedly in Hiss' writing, and eight microfilmed documents involving 56 pages.

Many of the documents were the kind which normally passed across his desk when he was assistant to former Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, Hiss concedes.

The only defense contention on this score, so far in the trial, has been that dozens of persons in the State Department had access to similar papers.

Henry Julian Wadleigh, former State Department economist, dramatically testified yesterday that starting in 1936 and ending early in 1938, he willingly supplied secret papers which came over his desk to Chambers and another espionage source.

Wadleigh denied that he ever gave Chambers any typewritten copies of messages, or handwritten memorandum similar to those in evidence. He said he had no recollection of having seen any of the microfilmed documents, and said it was "highly improbable" that he gave them to Chambers.

eliminate the well-recognized waste and duplication that characterize its spending."

Tydings is cooperating with Secretary of Defense Johnson to push the bill along as "fast as possible."

"I think it has a good chance for favorable consideration," Tydings told a reporter. He noted that President Truman had earmarked 400 million dollars for the pay hike and the House kept about 100 million dollars under this estimate.

"After all, this is the first major change in military pay standards since 1908," Tydings said.

Post-Birth Shock

London, June 17 (U.P.).—Nat Sibold, singer with the Skating Vanities show here, was notified today that his wife had given birth to a baby in Detroit. He grabbed the phone and ordered 40 cigars. The bill was a shock. No one told him good cigars cost $4 each here.

Singer's son gets license to wed Cornell coed

New York, June 17 (AP).—Paul Robeson, jr., 21-year-old son of the Negro singer, took out a license today to marry Marilyn Paula Greenberg, a white, 21-year-old Cornell University graduate.

Robeson also is a graduate of Cornell, where he was a star athlete.

The license application said the marriage is scheduled for Sunday, with the Rev. John W. Darr, jr., officiating.

Mrs. Rae Greenberg, mother of the bride-to-be, signed a certificate of consent.

Robeson listed his occupation as electrical engineer. His father returned yesterday from a tour of Europe, including Soviet Russia, where he said he was warmly welcomed.

The Rev. Mr. Darr said Miss Greenberg attended Cornell with Robeson but graduated ahead of him. He graduated this month.

Young Robeson was a star high jumper. He played halfback and defensive end on the Cornell football team.

Children Picket for Jailed Reds

New York, June 17 (AP).—Children marched with adults as pickets today in a "Father's Day" demonstration at the Federal Court House in behalf of three jailed Communist leaders.

The three are defendants in the Communist conspiracy trial.

About 50 persons took part in the picketing, sponsored by the New York State Civil Rights Congress.

One boy carried a placard reading, "My daddy is no tattletale, let our daddies out of jail." A sign carried by a little girl read, "My daddy isn't free. There is danger to democracy." Participants said the two were not children of the men in jail.

John Gates, editor of the Communist Daily Worker, was sentenced to 30 days for refusal to answer a question.

Two other defendants, Gus Hall and Henry Winston, also were held in contempt after they loudly protested Gates' sentencing. Their bail was revoked

Police Readied For de Gaullist, Red Clash

Paris, June 17 (NYHT).—Minister of the Interior Jules Moch has ordered 20,000 Paris policemen and several thousand security guards to be on the alert to prevent clashes Saturday between Communist and De Gaullist demonstrators.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle will speak at a ceremony inaugurating the Avenue Du General LeClerc. Saturday is the ninth anniversary of the launching of De Gaulle's resistance movement.

Ostensibily this is a municipal ceremony, sponsored by Mayor Pierre de Gaulle, the general's brother.

The Communists have announced a counter-demonstration, to be held less than a mile away. The Communist newspaper L'Humanite shouted this morning: "Paris will not leave the factious ones in possession of the streets of the capital."

Soviet Rebuffs U. S. On War Prisoner Note

The Russians have refused to tell the United States how many German prisoners of war they still hold, or how many died in captivity. Furthermore, the Soviets say they want to hear no more about the matter.

Moscow's attitude was disclosed yesterday when the State Department published the latest Soviet note on the long-standing controversy. The department issued with it a statement renewing the United States charge that Russia still holds "several hundred thousand" German prisoners.

Moscow's note, received June 4, served notice that the Soviet government does not propose to carry on the controversy further. It asserted that the United States, Britain and France were to blame for what Moscow said was a failure to work out a four-power plan for repatriation of prisoners.

The State Lepartment declared this was "misrepresentation" and added:

"Four years after the termination of hostilities with Germany, there still remain in Soviet custody several hundred thousand German prisoners of war. The Soviet government makes no mention in this note of any plans to return to their homes this large number of unrepatriated German prisoners of war."

The three Western powers have been prodding Russia about the prisoners for months. In March, the United States again raised the issue.

The new Soviet note, in reply to that American note said:

"The Soviet government cannot agree with arguments brought forward in the embassy's note in justification of disruption by the governments of United States, Great Britain and France of the preparation of a plan for repatriation of German war prisoners. Considerations brought forward in this note do not disprove the indisputable fact that the plan in connection with which repatriation of German war prisoners should have been carried out was not worked out by the control council through the vote of representatives of the United States of America, Great Britain and France.

"The Soviet government again affirms that in virtue of the facts brought forward in the memorandum of the Soviet government of January 24, 1949, it does not see any necessity to enter into further examination of the questions raised in the note of the embassy of the United States of America of March 15, 1949."

Community Loss

Union carpenters in Washington and nearby areas have been on strike since June 1 and the building laborers' union since June 2. For both of them the point where loss of pay begins to exceed the amount that might be gained in higher wages for the rest of the year has long since past. Together these two unions comprise about 7000 workers, and their walkout has the effect of keeping another 10,000 to 15,000 construction laborers from working.

The issue in the carpenter's strike is the increase they ask from $2.40 to $2.50 an hour. For the building laborers it involves a raise from $1.35 to $1.50 an hour. In both instances the Master Builders Association, representing the large contractors, has refused to go beyond the present scale. Up till now the immediate parties to the struggle have not budged on the basic wage issue. Efforts of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in several meetings over the past few weeks have not availed. But the costs all around in having almost all work stopped on close to 100 million dollars of construction in the District are so great that the community is now agitating for a settlement.

The problem with the employers is the primary one of the unwisdom of incurring higher costs at a time of "disinflation." Gone are the days of up-and-up prices which made upward adjustments in wage levels inevitable. The old living-cost argument is no longer valid, and, besides, the builders cannot consider the problem as one involving them and the carpenters and building laborers alone. Some dozen other construction unions are standing by, waiting upon the outcome of the present conflict in order to determine their own actions. For some of them contracts have already expired; for others contracts will shortly come due. It may be that Thursday's action of the sheet metal workers' union may signify a break in the present deadlock. The sheet metal workers, accepting the signs of the times, have just renewed their contract at the old rate, though expiration was not due till July 1.

Pushkin's Progress

For reasons not entirely clear to outsiders the whole Soviet apparatus of propaganda was at work for months in preparation for the sesquicentennial of the birth of the famous Russian poet and novelist, Alexander Pushkin, celebrated last week in Moscow. Details of the celebrations are now available. The general tenor of the propaganda was that literature is something invented by Pushkin, without any assistance from Chenier, Byron, Hoffmann or any other decadent bourgeois romantic. There was of course nothing particularly surprising about that part, since it is now de fide that all the great advances of art, science and civilization generally have been owing to some proto-Communist Russian genius. The real mystery is why Pushkin should be approved as an object of veneration to the faithful, when Dostoievski and Tolstoi have come to be considered tools of a reactionary clericalism and even Turgenev and Gogol have lately assumed the character of agents of Wall Street or Trotskyite sabotage.

We regret that at this point we are still unable to explain the apotheosis of Pushkin in terms of the current party line. It is true of course that his work marks the beginning of a really national Russian literature, for his great predecessors, Lomonosov and Krylov, were very strongly under the influence of the eighteenth century French classicism, and would have liked nothing better than to have been considered representative Europeans. But it is also true that Pushkin, in both his poetry and his personal life, was an imitator of Byron, and thus he seems a much less pure embodiment of the Slavic genius than the excommunicated Dostoievski.

Nor was Pushkin wholly Russian even by race. Like his French contemporary, Dumas, whom he resembles in some other respects, he had African ancestors. His maternal great-grandfather was Ibrahim Hannibal, an Ethiopian, who became the protege of Peter the Great. Pushkin himself was very proud of this heritage, and in fact celebrated it in a story that he did not live to complete, but which was evidently conceived as a sort of Othello with a happy ending. There is no doubt that the institution of Negro slavery was one of the reasons of Pushkin's bitter dislike of America and Americans, of which, of course, the most was made during the celebration.

Pushkin was an intimate friend of the conspirators who participated in the abortive Decembrist insurrection of 1825, following the death of Alexander I. They are celebrated in his narrative poem Eugen Onegin. The ultimate purposes of the Decembrists are not exactly clear, but it is hardly likely that they aimed at a police state on the Communist model; rather they seem to have envisaged some sort of bourgeois liberal state on the English constitutional model. Anyway, Pushkin was soon forgiven by Nicholas I for whatever sympathies he might have had with the Decembrists, and his liberal sympathies had not been strong enough to prevent him from celebrating the monarchical principle in Boris Godunov, which Moussorgsky afterward made into the famous opera.

FBI Standards

At his press conference on Thursday, President Truman agreed there might be something useful in a reporter's suggestion that investigative reports be protected by law from publication. Insofar as such reports genuinely affect the national security, publication of them is already effectively forbidden by the Espionage Act. Insofar, however, as they affect only the reputations of individuals, protection by law is exceedingly difficult to contrive. It runs the risk of being so sweeping as to inhibit press freedom as in past attempts to forbid publication of any material which an executive agency might choose to classify as confidential. Besides, an investigative report, to be useful, must often be made available to numerous individuals in the Government; experience has shown that in such circumstances leaks are inevitable, and it is commonly impossible to fix responsibility for them.

The protection of individuals from unjust charges contained in investigative reports must be sought in the first instance, therefore, in the preparation of the reports themselves. These reports ought not to contain groundless gossip of an obviously trivial nature, even if they are seen only by authorized Government officials. It is an unfortunate truth that in some of the documents disclosed by the melodramatic turn of the Coplon trial, the FBI has been guilty of extremely sloppy reporting. There can be no justification whatever, for example, for putting into a formal report, on the basis of which a person's loyalty is to be judged, the unchecked observations of a neighbor that he entertained Army officers under suspicious circumstances or typed mysteriously behind closed blinds during the day or garnered his newspaper from the front porch in inadequate attire of a Sunday morning. If such allegations have any meaning at all, they should be checked by the FBI. If they have no meaning, then they have no place in an investigative report.

This is by no means to say that the FBI ought to determine the loyalty or disloyalty of persons it investigates—something which J. Edgar Hoover has always wisely avoided any attempt to do. No police agency should be in the business of passing judgment. But there is an inescapable element of evaluation in the decision to investigate a particular person and in the determination of what constitutes relevant and substantial information concerning him. The mere fact that the FBI includes material in one of its reports suggests that this respected agency deems the material to be of some significance and that it has confidence in the credibility of its confidential informant.

From the nature of some of the reports disclosed in the Coplon trial, it now seems clear to us that standards need to be established to govern the FBI's investigative procedures. For this reason, we heartily indorse the suggestion advanced editorially by the Providence Journal that the President appoint a special commission of eminent citizens to make a thorough study of FBI practices and recommend procedural safeguards which will protect individuals from unsubstantiated allegations respecting their loyalty.

Reflections On Prices

Readers may recall the controversy in these columns last March when, contrary to the President's assertion, we said metal prices were on the way down. During the early part of 1949 copper was selling for 23.5 cents a pound, and some sales were being made at premium prices as high as 26 cents and 27 cents. Since then copper has dropped to 16.5 cents per pound, a decline of 30 per cent. Zinc prices, too, have fallen from a 1949 top level of 17.5 cents per pound to 9.5 cents, and lead, which was quoted at 21.5 cents a few months ago, has skidded down to 12 cents per pound—declines of about 46 and 44 per cent, respectively.

Price recessions of such magnitude occurring within a few months have led to curtailment of mining activity and loss of employment. Such adjustments are painful, but they are the inevitable result of a return to more normal market conditions of demand for these metals. As the Monthly Review of the Kansas City Reserve Bank points out in a discussion of conditions in the Tri-State zinc and lead industry, metal consumers have built up inventories far beyond their needs and sometimes at "prices beyond all sense." Hence a sudden falling off of buying that does not necessarily reflect correspondingly sharp declines of activity in industries that use nonferrous metals in their manufacturing processes.

As a matter of fact, even at present levels, copper, zinc and lead prices are far above prewar levels and higher than they were during the war years, although marginal high-cost producers received considerably more than the going price for their output during the war period in the form of Government bonuses designed to stimulate output. Copper prices, for example, are still 4.5 cents above the OPA ceiling. Lead prices today are nearly twice as high as during the war years and are 2.5 cents above the peak reached in 1920 before the collapse of the inflated price structure that was a legacy of the First World War. Finally, zinc, despite that recent price drop of 46 per cent, is as high as it was at the top level of 1920.

The obvious conclusion to be drawn from an analysis of such price changes is that they are healthy correctives of price distortions that tend to impede instead of to hasten a return to a sound postwar economy.

Budget For WHO

In its first year of full operations the World Health Organization is functioning on a budget of about five million dollars. Of this the United States contributes about 38 per cent. The sum of $1,920,000 was fixed by Congress as this country's maximum contribution, and American members of the WHO finance committee found that the existence of this limit hampered them in negotiating the percentage allotments. Other countries knew what to expect from the United States and stood pat on minimum shares for themselves.

On Monday the Assembly of WHO met in Rome to work out, among other matters, a budget for the calendar year 1950. As is to be expected in the case of an organization just beginning to tackle an immense job, the second-year budget is expected to show a rise. Somewhere between seven and eight million dollars is the estimated total. Of this the United States' share—on the same percentage—would be around three million dollars.

But the American delegates have yet to know whether the contribution to be made by this country can be more than last year. The importance of WHO'S work in public health matters and the leadership of the United States in health and medical resources would make refusal of an increased contribution by the United States a national disgrace. The real problem then is to have an early decision on whether to put a legislative ceiling on the contribution at three million dollars or to leave the United States share for negotiation.

The latter choice seems preferable. The American representatives can be trusted not to give the shirt off Uncle Sam's back. In fact, what they would like to do is to press other member countries into taking up a larger share of the budget. This requires freedom to negotiate. It can't be done when our bargaining position is announced in advance as limited by the congressional authorization. The question is before the foreign policy committees at both ends of the Capitol now. It should have been acted on before this. With the WHO Assembly already beginning, further delay is deadly.

Coal Controls

Northern coal mine operators are sponsoring a plan to set up a single coordinator for the industry to represent them in negotiations with John L. Lewis. There is a strong suspicion (though the operators deny it) that the proposal is a first step toward formation of an organization that would attempt to stabilize the industry by allocation and control of output. That would suit Mr. Lewis very well, indeed, for he has long favored some system that would enable the industry to shift the cost of higher wages for his miners to the public by charging higher prices for coal. By setting up a monopolistic form of organization, moreover, he hopes to keep high-cost marginal mines in operation and reduce unemployment in the industry.

Apart from the fact that agreements of this kind would run afoul of antitrust laws, they would discourage efforts to increase the efficiency of the coal mining industry, encourage the use of coal substitutes, and add to the production costs of coal-consuming industries. This will no doubt come out in the hearings which a subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee will soon open on the proposal. Representatives of the Southern operators are expected to attack it as a form of monopolistic control. Moreover, Senator Robertson, who instigated the inquiry, says that its chief purpose is to ascertain whether the plan violates the provisions of the antitrust laws. The committee will also consider its effect on the interests of consumers and small business.

We hope that the committee will make an exhaustive probe and that its findings will be extensively publicized. For an aroused public opinion is the best protection against the kind of collusive restraint of trade that Mr. Lewis certainly, and some operators maybe, are prepared to indorse under the misleading designation of industrial stabilization.

AT DAWN

Let us step lightly into the approach of day;
the shadows, grey and curbed across the disc of chill, late darkness,
rise in their starkness
ready to pounce upon unwary prey.
Step lightly, therefore, lest you should be caught with eager body taut
to meet the morning's challenge, and away.
Across the west a willful star still swings;
again a small bird sings;
and, where a hunter's moon last evening
swung,
the waking hours give tongue

"School Book Probe"

While in the opinion of the writer, Mr. Marquis Childs at times has failed to appreciate legal principles, it is my belief that he has done a real service to the public and to members of the Sons of the American Revolution (of which the writer is a member) by his timely and able criticism of the petition said to have been made by the national council of that society, in his June 14 column.

We cannot assume that members of the Sons of the American Revolution are any better qualified by education or heredity than are the members of the House Un-American Activities Committee to determine whether or not any educational institution in the land has made an intelligent selection of its textbooks. As a lawyer (retired) having witnessed the committee's disregard of the rules of evidence in the past as observed by courts of law and its contempt for the constitutional rights of the citizen in its open sessions, it is not believed that an educated American will have much confidence in a judgment of such committee as to what textbooks should be used by our colleges and universities.

It is doubtful that a majority of the members of the Sons of the American Revolution and especially of those with collegiate education would favor the demand of the national council, referred to by Mr. Childs, if given the right to express their views. HUBERT E. PAGE.

Opposition To DPs

Hans Freistadt, an avowed Communist, secured a scholarship, financed by American taxpayers, for advanced study in atomic research.

Freistadt is a "DP." He has been in the country but a few years. In that time he has secured American citizenship, a university education, a teaching commission at the University of North Carolina, and the Atomic Energy Commission scholarship.

Tremendous pressure has been brought upon Congress for admission of DPs. Senator Langer of North Dakota has charged that 23 paid lobbyists have been at Washington working to force enactment of such legislation. Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska charges that large numbers of such immigrants are being brought in illegally. National Commander of the American Legion Paul Griffith stated, as early as 1947 that such illegal immigration had "become a lawless flood."

In spite of our unfortunate experiences with DPs who have managed, legally or illegally, to get into the country, Congressman Emanuel Celler of New York has introduced into the present Congress a bill providing for the admission of 400,000 displaced persons in addition to the legal immigration quotas.

Patriotic organizations, such as the Sons of the American Revolution, are opposing Congressman Celler's effort vigorously.

Hawaiian Blockade

When the Kremlin blockaded Berlin, President Truman set in motion the Berlin airlift, a highly successful countermeasure.

When the minions of the Kremlin put into effect a blockade of the Territory of Hawaii, official Washington stated to the half million Americans stranded in mid-Pacific, all surface communication being prevented by Harry Bridges et al, that the problem is local and is a wage dispute and calls for local solution.

This is certainly not the case because the various mainland union officials have definitely stated otherwise, openly. For instance, Henry Schmidt stated at an open air meeting, called by the dairy farmers, in effect that when the present strike is settled, it is the intention of the union to call another strike, after a brief interval.

A strike of the workers on all sugar plantations is in the offing and in this connection Jack Hall said the purpose is to burst big business and to allay any fears the workers might have as to how that would affect them, stated that the Government would then take over the plantations.

This is no mere squabble about rates of pay but is a deliberate attempt to destroy the economy of the Hawaiian Islands and if Washington continues to regard the matter as just another strike, the ILWU will, in all probability, achieve its objective.

President Truman says that he lacks authority to interfere, which naturally raises the question, by what authority was the Berlin airlift inaugurated? And why cannot the same or similar authority put into effect normal communication between the mainland and Hawaii?

Statehood to which we are entitled has so far been denied us, rendering our position in our crisis, helpless. It is therefore the duty of the United States Government to take steps to start the normal flow of vessels between mainland United States and Hawaii.

Recreation Decision

About the only thing that can be said for the text of the statement made public by the Recreation Board is that it is a most pedestrian attempt at rationalization. They call it (the statement) a clarification—an interpretation. Frankly, they leave me confused.

Might I ask for the citation that supports their contention that in "the public schools . . . segregation is required by law?" And could someone define the board's use of the word "extremist"? I have an uncomfortable feeling that I might be called an "extremist" by them, and I'd like to know what they mean, because, you see, I believe people accept what they find with more or less grace, as witness the riotless Dupont Theater, Union Station, Rock Creek Park, et al.

"Gossip And The FBI"

I would like to compliment you on your fine editorial of June 14 entitled "Gossip and the FBI." As you pointed out, the FBI was simply performing its duty and did not slander Mrs. Condon in any way, since it was opposed to and not responsible for the publication of the objectionable material.

It appears as if the Condons can only blame their own indiscretion. For while they as individuals have the absolute right to associate with whomever they please, Mr. Condon assumed certain responsibilities (one of which is the security of this country's most vital secrets) when he assumed the directorship of the National Bureau of Standards, and therefore, it is even less proper for him and his wife to maintain social relations with the Bulgarian Embassy, than, for example, Police Chief Barrett to maintain social relations with well-known "numbers men" here in this city.

One wonders if Dr. Condon is not more interested in discrediting the FBI than he is in preserving his own reputation.

"Misconceptions About Spain"

Your June 3 issue carried a letter from Senor Pablo Merry Del Val, cultural relations counselor of the Spanish Embassy, concerning the origins of the rebellion which overthrew the republic in Spain.

He pretends to establish an arbitrary distinction between the period when Don Niceto Alcala Zamora was President of the Spanish Republic and the period when Don Manuel Azana held this highest office. The letter presents the first stage as a democratic and moderate period, and the second as demagogic and anarchic. Incidentally, let me say that Don Niceto Alcala Zamora died in exile a few months ago because he would not live under the regime of Franco who had confiscated his property.

The first military uprising against the republic took place on August 10, 1932, when Senor Alcala Zamora was President, and the rebellion was led by General Sanjurjo, the same man who would have led the 1936 revolt had he not been killed in an air crash. No one was given the death penalty by the republic in retaliation for this uprising. Compare this clemency with the violence of Franco Spain!

The elections of February, 1936, were honestly won by a popular front against the government in power, which resigned, recognizing that it had been legitimately defeated.

The leader of the opposition against the legally elected popular front government, Senor Calvo Sotelo, was not assassinated by uniformed government police, but instead by a civilian who was not a government agent, as was revealed by a subsequent judicial investigation. The uniformed government police violated parliamentary immunity by arresting Senor Calvo Sotelo at his house without proper orders. Also, they were later at fault in failing to arrest the murderer who killed Sotelo as he was being taken to police headquarters whose chief of police, Lieutenant Castillo, had been assassinated a few hours previously by followers of Senor Calvo Sotelo's political party.

If it were certain that "people of all kinds of political thought, in union with the army, launched the popular rising" as Senor Merry Del Val affirms, it would be incomprehensible that the struggle would have lasted 32 months and even more incomprehensible when you take into account the fact that Hitler and Mussolini helped openly with military aid in this enterprise. The truth is that the army, backed by reactionary groups, followers of nazism and fascism, struck out against the people.

The Spanish Socialist Party never was absorbed by the Communists. The truth of the matter is that there were some "fellow travelers" among the Socialists.

No "leader" of the Socialist Party left Spain during the war, except those who were appointed by the government to serve in foreign countries in diplomatic capacity.

Senor Merry Del Val cites in an exaggerated fashion statistics on assassinations which took place in the Republican dominated zone, and remarks the religious victims. But he fails to state the number of assassinations in the zone dominated by Franco's army, where many priests were also among the victims, as well as Protestant ministers of several provinces. As a Spaniard, I am ashamed of the assassinations on both sides, while Senor Merry Del Val seems to regret only those on one side.

Improving City Life

By Malvina Lindsay

Din Versus Bathtubs

MOST OF the world is finding itself unable to keep people "down on the farm," as industrialization grows and robots displace hired men. Hence belatedly there is wide concern as to how man can live an anthill existence and retain the human dignity and liberty being so widely talked about.

For technology has not alone brought bathtubs, incinerators, air conditioning and pushbutton heat to city dwellers. It has also brought the noise of apartment house plumbing, of alley truckloadings and catfights, of street cars and motor cars below and airplanes above, and of neighbors' radios, tapping heels, late parties and family spats. It has brought the bleak monotony of row houses and apartment buildings, the narrowing economic segregation of classified neighborhoods and self-centered cubicle living. It has brought crowding, bustle, din, tension, all of which are increasing.

Hence in this country architects, acoustic experts, city planners and sociologists are asking: What can be done to help the city catch up with man's intangible needs? They recognize there is no going back to the so-called simple life. Nor will decentralization solve the problem. For even in many suburban and rural communities there are also problems of noise of neighbors, of dwellings geared to nineteenth century living, and of regimented sterile surroundings.

WHAT IS MORE, a large per cent of the population will continue to live in cities for a long time to come. This country now has around 84 million city dwellers, more than three times as many as are on farms. Nor is everyone going to find haven in suburban communities and in what is known as countryside living despite present trends that way.

And, aside from the economic angle, the city offers many advantages in education, culture, health facilities, entertainment, stimulating companionship. Cities could and should offer the most pleasant and self-developing type of living for many people.

Noise is one of the first hurdles to be taken in improving cities. For modern "progress" threatens to increase this menace unless man demands protection of his ears and nerves. Acoustic authorities hold hope that increased use of buses and subways will reduce street noises. Airplane noise may be somewhat abated if certain experimental planes with more blades for propellors (so the propellors need not go so fast) prove successful.

Quieter houses and apartments may be harder to get. The sounds of voices and of plumbing, of footsteps, and of door slammings are such that few city dwellers ever know what the prolonged soothing stillness of a home can be. There is great need for research to find lightweight, inexpensive wall materials that will deaden sound. Possibly the research provided in the Nation's new housing bill will point the way to this.

ONE DISTURBING present trend in cities is the stark monotony of many big housing projects. Another is the failure to build up well rounded versatile communities with facilities for families of differing ages, sizes, incomes. Some architects believe a widespread revolution in home design is necessary to meet present demands of city life. For lack of domestic help, the coming of television, the lengthening of the age span and the growing need for privacy as life becomes more crowded—all these call for houses designed for tomorrow, not yesterday.

A change in people's attitude is first of all necessary if the cities are to be made more habitable. Instead of accepting din and crowding as necessary evils of city life, citizens could rebel against them. Much unnecessary city noise could be eliminated if city dwellers demanded it with sufficient vigor.

Also new attitudes toward housing could work much change. Tradition and folklore still have a stranglehold on much home design to the detriment of convenience, comfort, privacy, quiet. Acoustic experts say much advance has been made in providing quiet apartments and row houses in countries, such as England, Holland, Sweden, where per capita income is lower than in the United States. In those countries housing is regarded with more relative importance in the scheme of living. It gets about 30 per cent of an individual's income. Here it gets about 20 per cent.

One challenge the city life of tomorrow must meet is to provide homes which, while integrated to increasing community life, also offer the moat and drawbridge protection of soul that people need increasingly while living in a crowd.

Washington Calling

Disclosure Of FBI Documents

IN THE SNARL of rumors rising like a black cloud out of the mass of FBI documents tossed into the espionage trial of Judith Coplon certain essential facts have been ignored or lost sight of. Here, from an authoritative source, is an account of what led up to the disclosures so deeply disturbing to almost everyone involved and especially to those who were given a new smearing in the headlines.

Childs

This account points up the contrast with the conduct of the Alger Hiss trial in New York. It underscores the vital role of the trial judge in these difficult cases.

GOVERNMENT lawyers handling the Coplon case came to Attorney General Tom Clark after Archibald Palmer, counsel for the defense, had made his demand that all FBI documents be put into evidence. It was apparent that Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves might accede to this request.

Clark felt that he should read over the voluminous FBI file. The file is the FBI's raw material, containing all possible information, including hearsay and gossip, that the agents can put together on a case. The reports in the Coplon case were hundreds of pages in length.

The weekend on which he undertook to read the reports was for Clark a particularly crowded one. He had agreed to take part in a Celebrities Golf tournament for a charity and he had two other engagements that he felt could not be broken.

Except when he was actually filling these engagements Clark spent virtually every hour of the weekend going over the FBI reports. It was obvious that most of the material they contained was entirely irrelevant to the trial of Miss Coplon.

With Government counsel the Attorney General then proceeded to work out what he thought was the proper and effective procedure to keep from the public the irrelevant raw material contained in the FBI's confidential files. The first move was to ask Judge Reeves to keep out the reports entirely as irrelevant.

If this failed, the second line of strategy was to ask the judge to admit only those portions of the reports that might, in the judge's opinion, be immediately relevant to the trial. The Government's charge is that Miss Coplon copied onto data slips, alleged to have been found in her handbag, a sentence or two from various FBI reports that she thought would be of special interest to the Russians.

These dealt for the most part with persons suspected of furnishing information to Soviet agents. Thus only one sentence had been copied out of the voluminous report that furnished so many irrelevant headlines about Hollywood film stars.

After Judge Reeves ruled in favor of the defense, he was then asked to allow in evidence only the few relevant passages from the reports. In order to make such a ruling the judge would have to pass on what was relevant and what irrelevant and that would have meant reading those voluminous documents.

This the judge declined to do. Perhaps it was too much to ask of any judge. Judge Reeves is nearly 76 years old. He has been on the Federal bench for 26 years.

The harassing, difficult trial would inevitably put a severe strain on a man of Judge Reeves' years. The law provides that Federal judges may retire on full salary at the age of 70 after 10 years of service.

WHILE THE ISSUE as put up to him was less taxing, Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman in the Hiss trial met it in a different way. He declined to permit defense counsel to subpena FBI records that were not directly relevant to the case.

This would seem to be the only sensible procedure. That J. Edgar Hoover should be exercised at publication of the voluminous and unscreened material assembled by his agents is not surprising. So much of the material was unsubstantiated gossip, rumor and hearsay. It is Hoover's contention that any Government official using the material would screen out the gossip.

The press has something to answer for in this connection, it seems to me. The raw material of the FBI reports was translated into sensational headlines with little indication for the guidance of the reader that these were not conclusions reached by the FBI but merely the stuff to be ground through the security mill. More responsibility all around would be helpful.

1000 Women Finish Md. U. Rural Course

College Park, Md., June 18 (AP).—It was "commencement" today for 1000 Maryland women who have been going to school this week at the University of Maryland Rural Women's Short Course.

Some 500 guests joined the "students" for the final ceremonies and 174 of the women trooped up to get diplomas for completing their studies by attending four of the annual sessions.

It was the largest graduating class in the 23 years that the university's College of Agriculture has conducted the week of lectures, conferences, and demonstrations.

The students are leaders among the 14,000 women who work in the homemakers clubs sponsored throughout the State by the Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, handed out the certificates. He also awarded pins to 28 women who have attended eight of the annual short courses.

The Rev. T. Guthrie Speers of Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church in Baltimore sent the women away with an inspirational talk on "the home."

'Home,' he said, "has been sentimentalized. We have lost our appreciation of the real value of a good home. It is the handle by which each one of us can take hold of world problems and carry our share of the responsibility."

The home, he went on, is the first place where you learn the use of the word "our" instead of "my."

After their classes and the graduation ceremony was over the women took off on sight-seeing tours to Washington and Mount Vernon.

Court Strips Auto Clubs Of Tax Exemption

By The Associated Press

The United States Tax Court today backed up the Internal Revenue Bureau in stripping from automobile clubs the tax exemption they enjoyed for years as nonprofit, cooperative type groups.

Six of the court's 16 judges dissented, but the majority said the clubs lost exemption status by "rendering of services of a commercial nature to members at a lower cost than they would have to pay elsewhere."

A club doing so "thereby competed with others rendering similar services as a regular business for profit," the opinion continued, declaring that meant engaging definitely "in business of a kind generally carried on for profit."

This reasoning was applied in a decision requiring the Chattanooga Automobile Club, an affiliate of the American Automobile Association, to pay $141 in income tax for the 12 months ended September 30, 1944.

It was reaffirmed in another decision requiring the Keystone Automobile Club, which operates in parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, the District of Columbia and Virginia, to pay $13,242 in income tax and $12,905 in excess profits tax for calendar 1943.

Dissenting judges held the clubs were "primarily an agent for a group who have combined resources to obtain services at less cost than when acting individually," and therefore nonprofit organizations.

Threat Sends Gamblers Out Of Mt. Rainier

Mount Rainier's threatened crackdown has started a general exodus of gamblers from the Maryland town, Police Chief John W. Wise said yesterday.

Wise, ordered by Mayor Herbert W. Reichelt to move in on the establishments of "known gamblers" after they had been warned of the impending crackdown, said the warning apparently has served its purpose "to some extent, at least."

The police chief said at least three persons, whom he warned personally, and who in turn asked if they might have "a couple of days to straighten out our affairs," have moved out of Mount Rainier since the warning.

He said there were indications others were preparing to move, and added that a number of places shielding suspected gambling operations "apparently have closed up."

Wise was instructed by Reichelt to warn the gamblers before he struck because the mayor felt "it was the only fair thing inasmuch as these people apparently have been permited to operate without interference in the past." The mayor has been in office since May 9, a week after he was elected on a pledge to rid the community of lawless elements.

Police have staged no raids since the initial warnings were issued, but stand ready to move whenever there is any indication the warnings are not heeded, Chief Wise said.

$831,450 Net Of Gambler In Five Years

Fairmont, W. Va., June 17 (AP).—One of William G. Lias' gambling establishments made a five-year net profit of $831,450, a government witness testified today.

The figures were given by Harold E. Young, Internal Revenue agent stationed at Wheeling, for the Market st. club in which he said Lias was a partner.

The club has been identified in court testimony as a horse race booking and gambling establishment located above Zeller's Steak House—another Lias enterprise—in Wheeling.

Young did not give Lias' share of the net profit for each of the five years, 1942 through 1946. This is the period during which Lias is accused of short-changing the Government more than one million dollars in income taxes.

The agent related that in 1942, Lias' share was $20,706.70 from total net profits of $65,525. In that year, he said, the club's books showed a gross profit of $801,969.10, with deductions of $675,434.35, of which about half was in payment of successful bets on horse races. Other operating expenses brought the gross profit down to $65,525.

Earlier in the day Judge Harry E. Watkins overruled a defense motion to strike out a Lias offer to compromise some back-tax claims. Left in the record was Lias' offer, dated March 31, 1941, to settle for $2500 his taxes for 1934, 1935 and 1937, amounting to $6,785.50.

College Head Hits House Group For Textbook Investigation

Lexington, Va., June 17 (AP).—Investigation by the House Committee on Un-American Activities of college textbooks was cited today as "an example of what Federal control can mean to education."

President Francis P. Gaines of Washington and Lee University said in a bicentennial address that he did not lack respect for Congress and that he commended it for its handling of political matters.

"But can you imagine," he told 1500 alumni, "a group of erudite Congressmen telling us what books our professors may use in the teaching of our courses in comparative literature and social anthropology?"

Gaines reminded the alumni that "the sacred manuscripts of our religion admonish us that only by knowing the truth shall men be free."

Gaines said that "in these fateful days, society is a furious maelstrom in which social procedures and agencies are being whirled blindly toward a dominating center—the Federal Government."

Washington and Lee men who came from around the globe to celebrate their alma mater's 200th birthday roared cheers when Gaines said that he paused "to register opposition to Federal aid to education in any form."

Gaines deplored an attitude which he charged to the American people of "letting the Federal Government pay the bills and letting the Federal Government have the control."

"The most dangerous of all is the concept of education as a function of the Federal Government," he warned.

Christopher T. Chenery of New York, executive chairman of the national bicentennial orangization, presented to the university a scroll listing donors to the university's Third Century Fund campaign.

Entitled "Builders of a Third Century," the scroll will be preserved among historical documents at Washington and Lee. It contains the names of 3424 alumni and 787 other friends of the university who made gifts to the 200th anniversary fund.

To four retired professors went citations of "affectionate greetings" from their former students in recognition of their collective service of 172 years of teaching young men.

Those honored were 89-year-old James Lewis (Daddy) Howe, professor emeritus of chemistry; 73-year-old Robert Henry Tucker, retired dean of the university and former professor of economics; 73-year-old Livingston Waddell Smith, professor emeritus of mathematics, and 71-year-old Glover Dunn Hancock, whose retirement as dean of the W. and L. school of commerce was announced last week.

The patriarchal faculty members were cheered wildly by the hundreds of graduates they had taught through the years.

Rain washed out the alumni parade which was to have marched by classes through the campus to a barbecue on the front lawn. The barbecue, however, attracted an estimated 2000 visitors.

had applied for time to testify. He said no further hearing days beyond June 28 had been scheduled.

The Federation of Churches resolution for home-rule action was adopted at a board of directors' meeting at 1751 N st. nw.

The directors include more than 100 religious leaders, both clergy and laymen. Their resolution said: "We hereby reaffirm our action relative to home rule in the District and urge the House District Committee to bring the matter of home rule before the House of Representatives for action."

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington and president of the Federation, is forwarding the board's resolution to Chairman McMillan.

The board's action was applauded by Culver B. Chamberlain, president of the Central Suffrage Conference. He said:

"This is a great social and moral issue and I am gretly gratified to have the religious leaders of Washington take so bold and forthright stand on the matter."

3. No directory listed Randle and Crane as a real estate firm. There are no business signs of any kind at the company's New Hampshire ave. address.

4. The four telephones had been used to make as many as 120 calls a month to one house where Government officials seized a racing ticker during a raid last March.

Two Conflicting Opinions

Edmund L. Jones appeared for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and David Hart for Day. Jones adopted 11 affidavits prepared by Assistant United States Attorneys Ross O'Donoghue and Samuel Abrams as his evidence.

The Government is now faced with two conflicting opinions from the District Court bench on the right of a Maryland resident to enjoin removal of his telephone for violation of District laws.

Removal of approximately 315 more telephones, more than 50 of them in Maryland, remains to be settled in court.

Ex-RFC Official Denies Loan Got $30,000 Job

Waltham, Mass., June 17 (U.P.).—John J. Hagerty denied today there was anything improper in his leaving a $10,300-a-year Reconstruction Finance Corp. job to head the Waltham Watch Co. at $30,000 annually after the RFC granted the concern a six-million-dollar loan.

Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), charged in Washington yesterday that the watch manufacturing firm hired Hagerty while it was seeking the loan and he was New England RFC director.

Hagerty said he did not recommend the loan while he was an RFC official.

slum housing—that it its purpose."

5. "Nothing could be further from the truth" than claims that "Government housing would be imposed" on communities regardless of local wishes. Only local agencies could initiate any housing project under terms of the bill.

6. There is no surplus of private housing for low-income families since the average rental of private projects financed in 1948 by the FHA was $87.50 a month, "clearly beyond the means of a family with an annual income of less than $4000."

7. Provisions in the bill that contributions of local governments may be in the form of tax exemptions merely follow what already is uniform practice.

8. The "hoary old chestnut" that public housing would encourage indolence and shiftlessness is disproved by the fact that "thrift, industry and initiative are encouraged, not discouraged, by clean and decent housing."

9. Claims that public housing is "socialistic" are false. Public housing as provided for in the bill would strengthen, not weaken, private enterprise since "private builders, operating under contracts, will construct all of the housing projects . . ."

Throughout his long 3500-word letter, Mr. Truman dipped into a vocabulary reminiscent of his successful 1948 campaign. He declared that "a little group of ruthless men" was responsible for anti-housing propaganda, not the majority of those in the real estate business.

After recounting the country-wide support public housing has received from public and private agencies alike, Mr. Truman said:

"Yet the real estate lobby, short-sighted and utterly selfish, continues to cry 'socialism' in a last effort to smother the real facts and real issues which this bill is designed to meet.

"These attempts to mislead and frighten the people and their representatives in the Congress — these false claims designed to prejudice some groups of the people against others—these malicious and willful appeals to ignorance and selfishness—are examples of selfish propaganda at its worst."

Housing Poll Results

The United States Savings and Loan League, foe of the Administration's public housing bill, yesterday produced a poll that it said shows:

That the public, by a 5-to-3 edge, considers itself in favor of Government housing as a general proposition, but is indifferent, uninformed, misinformed and confused about "the basic purpose and operating principles of Government housing."

The poll was based on interviews with 2248 persons who, the league said, represented a cross section of all classes.

When asked specifically about "actual features" of the proposed legislation, the league said people register strong opposition along these lines:

3 to 1 against "expenditure of 15 billion dollars for Government housing over the next 40 years."

3½ to 1 against "use of tax money to pay part of the rent of Government housing tenants."

Maenner Makes Charge Of 'Political Housing'

Salem, Mass., June 17 (U.P.).—The president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards tonight accused President Truman of sponsoring "political housing."

Replying to the President's blast against the real estate lobby, Theodore H. Maenner said the bill under consideration is a "political vehicle" that will provide houses for "friends of the Administration."

"I've seen no sincere effort where they have tried to take care of the lower income groups," Maenner said. "We've been telling the truth in the fight against this bill and we shall continue to tell the truth."

He charged that the public housing the bill would provide "is political housing which gives a $32 discount on what the tenant normally would pay."

Maenner, here to address the Greater Salem Real Estate Board, said the real estate lobby that the President attacked "never has asked for a handout, never has asked for something for nothing."

He said there was "no question" about public housing being used for political patronage. He said the Government was entering into unfair competition with free enterprise because it "wrote off" 45 per cent of the cost as an "outright gift."

Michigan Abolishes One-Man Grand Jury

Lansing, Mich., June 17 (AP).—Gov. G. Mennen Williams today signed into law a legislative act to abolish Michigan's unique one-man grand jury system. It becomes effective next September 23.

Michigan has had the only one-man grand jury system in the United States for 32 years. The new law would replace it with a three-judge system, or a possible fall-back to the popular 23-man grand jury procedure.

Area Dairies Face Charges

although some laws give certain privileges to combinations of agricultural producers, "a combination of producers and distributors to eliminate competition and fix prices at successive stages in the marketing of an agricultural product is not privileged."

Justice James W. Morris agreed. Justice Wilbur K. Miller dissented.

The defendants were indicted in March, 1948, in what Attorney General Tom C. Clark described as a "major" achievement by the Justice Department's antitrust division.

Charges in Indictment

In the indictment, it was charged that the defendant dairies agreed to buy all their milk from the MVMPA and from no other source; that the MVMPA agreed to supply the dairies with their full requirements at identical prices; that the MVMPA, supplying 80 per cent of the area's milk production, refused to supply milk to any but the defendant dairies; that the defendants arbitrarily classify milk in three classes with no relationship to quality, and assign arbitrary prices to each class.

One count charged that when the MVMPA produces more milk than the dairies can sell at the agreed price, excess milk is diverted from the market, where prices would naturally fall, by converting it to ice cream, cheese, or other dairy products.

The indictment also charged that the defendants conspired to drive other dairies, who tried to undersell them, into bankruptcy or out of business by depriving them of adequate supply, interfering with transportation of milk to them, and taking away their contract business.

Judge Edgerton ruled that the Sherman Act would be 'emasculated" if some price-fixing agreements were allowed on the ground that they were designed to eliminate or alleviate "so-called competitive abuses," as the defendants had claimed.

"Any combination which tampers with price structures is engaged in unlawful activity," the majority opinion stated.

Premature Quads Die

Long Branch, N. J., June 17 (U.P.).—Quadruplets born four months prematurely late yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Coffrey died early today at Monmouth Memorial Hospital. D. C. Funds Bill Sent to Senate new building was fixed at $1,960,000.

For public welfare grants, the Senate restored to the bill funds for relief that were cut by the House. The Senate committee action boosts by $289,908 the amount that would be available for relief. Welfare officials had estimated the funds would permit continuing relief payments at present levels; without the addition they foresaw further percentage cuts in relief checks, now 12 per cent below standards keyed to a 1946 cost-of-living index.

For the Health Department, the Senate group added $694,770 to the House-approved total. Most of the increase is for Gallinger, including $298,550 for operating expenses, mostly for supplies, and $382,909 for equipping the projected new Pediatrics and Crippled Children's Building.

With the money bill, the committee presented to the Senate a report outling its recommendations.

The report pointed that half the cost of the proposed pay increase for city employes will go to making it retroactive to last July. The city will be paying a two-year pay increase cost in the next fiscal year, or a total of some 10 million dollars. Since the retroactive load will not recur in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1950, the committee advised the Commissioners to consider applying that five million dollars in their next budget to "needed capital improvements, such as school,s welfare institutions, sewer projects and others of high priority."

The committee also predicted that with the new revenue law, and with actual returns from previous laws bettering the estimates for the current year, the city will wind up next year "with a much larger surplus than was expected when the budget hearings were held in early April.

Other major increases approved by the Senate committee included: $245,132 for additional employes and supplies in the offices of the corporation counsel, assessor and collector, mostly for administering the new sales tax law; $297,200 for compensation and retirement fund expenses; $125,000 for rent control administration; $149,782 for school operating expenses; $107,300 for furnishing and equipping schools; $172,122 for the Recreation Department; $134,145 for police; $400,000 for police and firemen's relief; $39,134, for the Correction Department; $1,092,813 for the Public Works Departments, including $778,200 for sewer construction, and $141,899 for collecting garbage and trash, and cleaning the streets; and $10,000 for purchase of animals for the Zoo.

Protestants Back DP Drive Here

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Greater Washington Protestant churches, working through the Washington Federation of Churches, are observing June as Displaced Persons Month.

Goal of the one-month emphasis on the plight of the refugees is to have "each local church sponsoring a DP person or family."

In addition to the federation, which is acting as a general center of information, seven denominations have named pastors or lay members to help the churches learn about the steps to be taken in bringing DPs to this area.

4 Assurances Necessary

Under the law, four assurances are necessary for sponsoring a DP. These are: A home without displacing a resident, a job without displacing a worker; transportation from port of entry, usually Boston or New York, to point of resettlement, and assurance the DP will not become a public charge.

Church World Service, 214 East 21st st., New York 10, N. Y., is the interdenominational agency processing applications sponsored by church groups.

Actually, a specific individual must be the sponsor of a DP, so that although many church groups are backing such projects, an individual member or the pastor of the church is the nominal sponsor.

Twenty churches are listed on the "honor roll" of the federation for having sent assurances to Church World Service or their denominational headquarters.

This is what some of these churches have done.

Lloyd Holsinger, a member of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, 337 North Carolina ave. se., owns a chicken hatchery at Aquasco, Md. Working through his denominational headquarters and with the aid of his pastor, Dr. Warren D. Bowman, he has sent assurances for two families to live in his two four-room apartments and work at the hatchery.

The Men's Club of First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., heard from a DP now working in Washington of the plight of a family in an Austrian DP camp. The man was an expert cook, they learned, and the club has found him a job here.

A nonmember of the club who learned of the project volunteered to let the family live in his home. The club itself will be responsible for the necessary assurances for the family, which includes the man, his wife and two children. Gerald S. Radley, vice president of the club, will be the nominal sponsor.

Latvian Family May Come

A member of River Road United Presbyterian Church, 45th, Fessenden st. and River rd. nw., who now is stationed in Europe, wrote back about a Latvian family he met. The father was a former director of buildings and parks in Riga, and his 27-year-old daughter recently had completed dentistry training at the University of Heidelberg.

A displaced persons committee of the church has lined up a job for the man as a landscape gardener, and has several possibilities of a job for the daughter. The man, his wife and daughter will be invited to live with a member of the church until separate quarters are obtained.

"What else can a Christian do but bring them over?" the Rev. Harry W. Rankin, pastor of River Road Church, commented as he told of his church's plans.

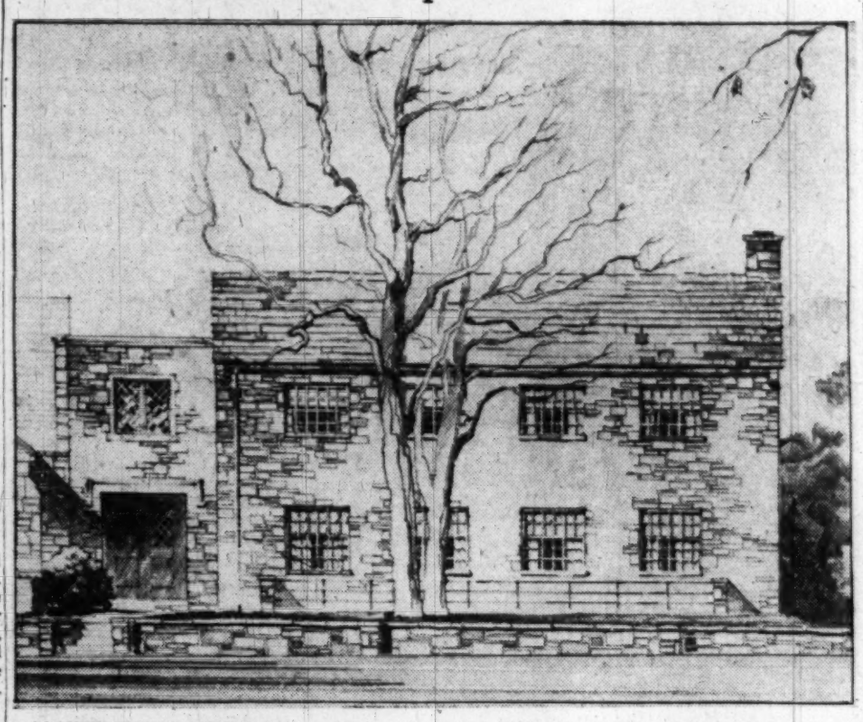
"Too many people have thought about it once and decided it was too much work and let the whole thing go." Mr. Rankin will be the nominal sponsor.

Lutherans Active

Lutherans have been particularly active in bringing displaced persons to the area. They work locally through the Lutheran Inner Mission Society, 738 Jackson pl., headed by the Rev. Donald F. Bautz.

Last month Pastor Bautz reported that 51 assurances of jobs and housing for 112 persons have been given by members of Greater Washington Lutheran churches. A total of 22 Lutheran displaced persons already have arrived here, he said.

Takoma Church's Proposed Parish Hall



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING—Designed to meet every need of the parishioners is the proposed parish hall building to be constructed by Trinity Episcopal Church, Piney Branch rd. and Dahlia st. nw. It will have 15 new classrooms for Sunday school, an auditorium, choir room, kitchen, parlor pantry, rector's study and offices. A $60,000 fund drive has been launched

Church of Our Saviour Plans June Festival

Refreshments, games and a dance in the parish hall will be features of a June festival at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, 16th and Irving sts. ne., Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p. m.

Crowning of the "Teen Queen" of the festival will be at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

St. Ignatius To Mark 100th Anniversary

One hundred years ago a Jesuit priest named Father Finotti crossed the Potomac to found St. Ignatius Church, Oxon Hill, Md., as a mission of St. Mary's Parish, Alexandria.

The little church, which continued as a mission until last year, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its founding at a solemn field mass at 11 a. m. Sunday. For 11 years before its creation as a separate parish St. Ignatius was a mission of the Church of the Assumption, Highview pl. and Nichols ave. se.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will preside and the celebrant will be the Rev. Charles E. Roach, pastor of the Church of the Assumption. The Rev. Edward J. A. Nestor, pastor of St. Francis Assisi Church, Baltimore, will preach the sermon.

During the mass, Father Roach will use for the first time a gold chalice molded for use in the church from gold and jewelry given by the parishioners.

A central part of the chalice is a large ruby, set in a celtic cross, which was given to the church by Mrs. Irene McConkey, for many years a member of the parish. The ruby formerly belonged to her son, James, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1932 a short time before he was to be ordained to the priesthood.

Following the mass there will be a dinner for visiting clergy in the parish hall. Representatives from religious houses in the archdioceses of Washington and Baltimore have been invited to the services.

The Rev. Patrick J. Begley, who was for many years a chaplain at Gallinger Hospital, was named the first resident pastor when the parish was created by Archbishop O'Boyle in June, 1948. The present church was erected in 1890.

Msgr. Motry Awarded High Church Honor

The Right Rev. Hubert Louis Motry, dean of the School of Canon Law at Catholic University, has been invested with the robes of domestic prelate by the Apostolic Delegate to the United States.

Msgr. Motry, who has been a chaplain for the Army Engineers at Fort Belvoir, Va., for 30 years, said yesterday that he will continue to serve as a chaplain.

His appointment as a member of the Pope's household was made by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, the Apostolic Delegate, at the anniversary ceremonies of the Pontifical College Josephinum at Worthington, Ohio, on June 4. Investiture ceremonies took place at the college on June 5. Msgr. Motry's fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

A native of Tiffin, Ohio, Msgr. Motry attended parochial school there and took his high school, college and seminary studies at Josephinum College. Later he taught there for eight years.

Msgr. Motry came to Catholic University in 1917 for graduate work, and received S. T. D. and J. C. D. degrees. He became a member of the staff of the School of Canon Law in 1923 and has been its dean since 1937.

He was instrumental in the establishment of the Canon Law Society of America, and for two years has been on the editorial staff of the Jurist, canon law monthly published at C. U.

Washington Jesuit To Say First Mass

The Rev. Stephen J. Laut, S. J., son of Stephen P. Laut and the late Mrs. Laut of 627 G st. sw., will be one of 24 Jesuit seminarians ordained at Woodstock College, Woodstock, Md., Sunday.

Father Laut is a graduate of Gonzaga High School and received his training at Wernersville, Pa., and Woodstock College. He will celebrate his first solemn mass at St. Dominic's Church, 6th and E sts. sw., June 26 at 10 a. m.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, will officiate at general confirmation services at 4 p. m. at the Washington Cathedral for new members of the church. The Rev. Crawford W. Brown, canon precentor, will preach at the 11 a. m. service.

Couples married by the Rev. M. P. German during his pastorate at Bethany Baptist Church, 215 Rhode Island ave. nw., will march down the aisle during a special services at 7:30 p. m. Mr. German will speak on "Wedding Bells" and afterward there will be a reception on the church lawn.

The summer schedule of services at Albright Memorial Church, Fourth and Rittenhouse sts. nw., will begin Sunday. Church School will be at 9:45 a. m., morning worship at 10:45 a. m. and vespers at 7 p. m. at Camp Scharfwood in The Glen, Md. The Rev. George E. Schnabel, minister of the church, will speak on "A Faith to Live By" this week.

"Rehabilitation of the Handicapped" will be discussed by Miss Frances Mason, director of rehabilitation of Goodwill Industries, at 11 a. m. before the Fellowship Class of Chevy Chase Methodist Church, 6401 Connecticut ave., Chevy Chase.

Dr. Raymond W. Miller, consultant for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, will speak to the Clyde Kelly Men's Bible Class at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase Circle nw., at 9:30 a. m.

"Appreciation Day" will be observed at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., at 10:50 a. m. Members have been invited to write letters of appreciation to some other member and to bring the addressed and sealed envelopes to the service. Following a brief dedicatory prayer by Dr. Harry L. Bell, the minister, the letters will be mailed by the church secretary.

Father's Day Sermon on Theme At 3 Churches

Father's Day will be the theme of sermons in three Washington churches on Sunday.

The Rev. F. Paul Harris, pastor of Eldbrooke Methodist Church, River rd. and Wisconsin ave. nw., will speak on "A Father's Love" at the first 8 a. m. summer service being held by the church. At 11 a. m. he will use "Father's Day" as his subject.

"An Understanding Father" will be the title of a sermon by the Rev. Robert K. Nevitt, the minister, at 11 a. m. at Lincoln Road Methodist Church, Lincoln rd. and U st. ne.

Dr. John W. Rustin will give a sermon for the family at his Father's Day services at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church at 9 and 11:15 a. m. Sunday. He will speak on 'Where Goes the Family?"

Calif. School Group Guests Of D. C. Church

Twenty-two young people from Oneonta Congregational Church, South Pasadena, Calif., last night were guests of Washington Pilgrim Fellowship youth groups at Westmoreland Congregational Church, Westmoreland cir. nw.

The California high school students last year raised enough money to make a good will tour to Scotland, England, and France, where they conducted 45 church services and directed 21 youth conferences.

From the money they raised speaking about their European experiences in the United States, they earned enough to invite five British young people to the United States this summer.

Now they are on their way to the International Congregational Council, at Wellesley, Mass., which began yesterday and will continue through June 24.

At the council they will meet the British young people and take them back to California, conducting youth conferences throughout the United States during July.

Adviser of the Washington Pilgrim Fellowship, an organization of youth groups of Congregational Christian Churches in this area, is the Rev. Edmund R. Strait, associate minister of Westmoreland Church.

The Rev. Philip Gordon Scott, pastor of Westmoreland Church, is chairman of the executive committee of the Congregational Christian Church of the United States and will attend the Wellesley meetings.

Petworth Church To Install Pastor

The Rev. S. Lewis Morgan will be installed as pastor of Petworth Baptist Church, 7th and Randolph sts. nw., at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Among the Washington Baptist clergymen who will participate in the service are Dr. M. Chandler Stith, secretary of the D. C. Baptist Convention, and Dr. K. Owen White, pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church. A reception will follow the service.

Mr. Morgan, who succeeds the Rev. James P. Rodgers, formerly was at the first Baptist Church of Dunn, N. C.

School Cafeteria Dedicated Today

New cafeteria and kindergarten quarters recently added to Trinity Lutheran Church, Hyattsville, Md., will be formally dedicated at 8 p. m. today.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. Edwin E. Pieplow, pastor of the church. Guests will include Lutheran pastors from Washington, the board of education of Trinity school, officers of the congregation, and parents of children now attending the school.

Maryland Minister Called to Silver Spring

The Rev. Edgar E. Sexsmith, former minister of Rhode Island ave. Methodist Church and recently pastor of Buckeystown, Md., Methodist Church, has accepted a call to become associate minister of Woodside Methodist Church, 8814 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md.

Dr. Sexsmith will preach at 9 and 11 a. m. Sunday on the theme, "What Think Ye of Christ?" The Rev. Philip C. Edwards is pastor of the church.

Hamline Service

The Rev. W. W. Delaplain, executive secretary of the board of education of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at Hamline Methodist Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw.

Church in 83d Year

West Washington Baptist Church, 31st and N sts. nw., will observe its eighty-third anniversary Sunday at 11 a. m. The Rev. Charles B. Austin, pastor of the church for the past 26 years, will speak on "The Church Today."

Youth-Led Revivals Planned by Baptists

Ten Baptist Churches in Greater Washington will have simultaneous youth-led revivals June 19 through July 3.

Miller

Tonight at 7:45 o'clock a rally sponsored by the 10 churches will be held at Metropolitan Baptist Church, 6th and A sts. ne. Bill Moore, a member of Congress Heights Baptist Church and chairman of the youth evengelists, will preside, and Don Miller, Baylor University student, will be the speaker.

Each of the churches will hold nightly meetings at 8 p. m. Leaders of the meetings will be student preachers and singers from Baylor University, Waco, Tex., and members of the local churches.

Revivals will be held at the following Baptist Churhes: Anacostia, 13th and W se.; Bethesda, Wilson la. and Melrose ave.; Centennial, 7th and I sts. ne.; Fountain Memorial, 2214 Naylor rd., se.; Congress Heights, Esther and Brothers pls. se.; Fifth, 609 E. st. sw.; Metropolitan, 6th and A sts. ne.; Luther Rice Memorial, 5301 North Capitol; Second, 17th and East Capitol, and Wilson Avenue, 3610 41st. ave, Colmar Manor. All these churches are also planning vacation Bible schools at 9 a. m. each day.

Added Exemption

Bill Reduces Ministers' Income Tax

Representative L. Gary Clemente (D., N. Y.), has introduced legislation in the House which give ordained ministers an additional income tax exemption of $600.

The bill was referred to the House Committee on Ways and Means. It provides for the additional exemption for taxpayers if they are "duly ordained" ministers of religion.

The bill describes a duly ordained minister as "a person who has been officially ordained, in accordance with the ceremonial, ritual, or discipline of a church, religious sect, or organization established on the basis of a community of faith and belief, doctrines and practices of a religious character, to preach and to teach the doctrines of such church, sect or organization and to administer the rites and ceremonies thereof in public worship."

It further provides that the minister be one who "as his regular and customary vocation preaches and teaches the principles of religion and administers the ordinances of public worship as embodied in the creed or principles of such church, sect, or organization."

Fr. Willoughby To Sing His First Solemn Mass

The recently ordained Rev. Malcolm Willoughby, O.P., will celebrate his first solemn mass Sunday at 10 a. m. at St. Dominic's Church, 6th and E sts. sw., where he received his first Holy Communion, was confirmed and ordained.

Father Willoughby will be assisted by the Rev. Raymond J. Dewdney, O. P., of St. Dominic's as deacon, and the Rev. Charles R. Auth, O.P., of the Dominican House of Deacons, as subdeacon. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Casimer Zvirblis, O.P., S.T.L.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Willoughby of Cabin John, Md., he attended St. Dominic's School and St. Paul's Academy, and is a graduate of Providence College. He received the habit of the Dominican Order August 15, 1942, at St. Joseph's College, Somerset, Ohio, and received his theological training at Dominican College here.

Brussels Pact Group Holds First Session

Luxembourg City, June 17 (AP).—The five-power Brussels Treaty consultative committee held its first session today but put over until Saturday the main items on its agenda.

Paul Henri Spaak, Premier of Belgium, said French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin had given their benelux colleagues a fill-in on the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting in Paris.

One item on the committee's agenda is coordination of the five nation's defense within the framework of the North Atlantic Pact.

Vacation Bible School To Open on Monday

The opening session of the Thomas Circle Daily Vacation Bible School will be in the parish hall of Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas cir., at 9:30 a. m. Monday.

The two-week school is being conducted under joint sponsorship of Luther Place Church and National City Christian Church.

Novena Scheduled

St. Stephen's Church, 25th and Pennsylvania ave. nw., will conduct a novena in honor of Mother Cabrini from June 29 through July 7. Services will be at 5:20 and 7:45 p. m. with masses at 6:30 and 7:30 a. m.

U. S. Funds Asked For Research In Eye Diseases

The Government yesterday was asked to boost appropriations for research in eye diseases.

Mildred Wiesenfeld of New York, director of the National Council to Combat Blindness, said eventually private agencies can do the job, but "the immediate need is for Federal assistance."

Miss Wiesenfeld said in a statement prepared for the House Interstate and foreign Commerce Subcommittee that the Federal Government spent 38 million dollars in 1948 for blind relief, but only $70,000 on research. The committee is studying health legislation.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, honorary chairman of the council and president of the World's Christian Endeavor, called the eye research movement "one of the most vital and timely of all."

Convention Unit Heads Named by Young GOP

Henry V. Poor of New York City, yesterday was named chairman of the platform and resolutions committee of the Young Republican National Federation convention, to be held in Salt Lake City, June 23.

David Williams, Concord, N. H., will head the constitution and by-laws committee; Earl Snyder, Crawfordsville, Ind., the rules committee, and Ed Trepinski, Toledo, Ohio the credentials committee.

Revival Services Set At Memorial Baptist

Revival services will be conducted in the new chapel building of Memorial Baptist Church, Arlington, N. Glebe and Ditmar rds., at 8 p. m. Sunday through Friday.

Speaker at the meetings will be the Rev. James R. Bryant, executive secretary of the Virginia Baptist Board of Misisons and Education, Richmond.

437 DPs to Arrive In New York Sunday

Some 437 displaced persons will arrive in New York Sunday on the Army Transport Mercy to find homes in 31 States, the International Refugee Organization said yesterday.

Among them are 62 children under 6 and 40 between 6 and 16.

Kentucky U. Opens Classes To Negroes

Lexington, Ky., June 17 (AP).—Admission of Negro students to classes at the University of Kentucky will begin this summer in the graduate school.

The university announced it would admit "a number of Negro citizens of Kentucky who have been found qualified to continue their education at the graduate level."

Lyman Johnson, Louisville Negro high school teacher, last March won a Federal court ruling requiring the university to open its graduate school to him. In a suit he contended he could not get equal opportunity elsewhere in the State.

(Kentucky law had prohibited Negroes and whites from attending the same school.)

The admission of Negro students does not apply to undergraduate students, since they may enroll at Kentucky State College for Negroes at Frankfort.

The university since agreed to open its law, engineering and pharmacy colleges to Negro students with certain basic qualifications.

Jury Impaneled to Hear Steelworker Riot Case

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 17 (AP).—A jury of three men and 11 married women was impaneled today to hear testimony in the trial of eight United Steel Workers (CIO) union members on riot conspiracy charges.

The jury will start hearing testimony Tuesday.

Defense attorneys have indicated they will contend that any violence in the union raid last of December 1 on struck plants of the Shakespeare Co. here was unintended.

During the raid seven persons were injured, cars overturned and property damaged.

U. S. Lynchings Feed Soviets, Senators Told

By The Associated Press

Senators were told yesterday that "every lynching, every riot, every racial or religious disturbance" in this country" has fed the Communist machine."

The statement was made to a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee by the Right Rev. Maurice S. Sheehy, head of the department of religious education at the Catholic University of America.

He was the first witness as the subcommittee began hearings on legislation to set up a civil rights commission and generally strengthen civil rights legal machinery.

There appears to be little chance for action on the proposal at this session of Congress. The controversial civil rights issue already has touched off one Senate filibuster this year.

Father Sheehy, in indorsing the measures before the subcommittee, said:

"Propaganda emphasizing American weaknesses in civil rights may help spell the difference on some occasions between new nations aligning themselves with the Soviet system or the American way of life."

Senate Passes Alabama Law To Ban Masks

Birmingham, Ala., June 17 (U.P.).—The Alabama Senate, on an urgent demand by Gov. James E. Folson, passed a bill forbidding the wearing of masks today as public indignation mounted over hooded outrages in the Birmingham area.

The Legislature acted quickly after veterans' groups, stirred by the flogging of a former sailor, moved to form their own "Committee Against Crime and Violence" in the absence of adequate laws to deal with the hooded terror.

The Senate at Montgomery passed the bill, prohibiting public masking except by children and carnival revelers in Mobile, by a 23-to-3 vote. It goes to the House which is in recess until Tuesday.

Folsom also notified Attorney General A. A. Carmichael's office to revoke the charter of any organizations in Alabama whose ritual involves public masking. He said "certain hooded organizations, by whatever name known, have committed unlawful acts of violence and intimidation against citizens of this State."

"Inasmuch as there are several factions of such organizations through the State, each of which denied any knowledge of or participation in such unlawful acts . . . I ask the attorney general to begin legal action to revoke the charters immediately," the Governor's note said.

He attached the articles of incorporation of one such organization, but its name was not revealed by the Governor's office in Montgomery. His message presumably referred to the Alabama Ku Klux Klan Federation as well as several offshoots of the old Klan, which are reported chartered in this State.

B. G. Stovall, the Navy veteran who was lashed with a leather belt Tuesday night, said a friend who claimed to represent 100 former servicemen offered to "use Klan tactics to punish the men who whipped you."

Another friend "gave me a shotgun and told me he would give me $100 for every hooded man I killed who entered my home forcibly," Stovall said.

Canadian Held Here In 5th Illegal Entry

James H. W. Reiley, 28, was held here yesterday by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence as a stowaway from Canada. According to court sources, Reiley came to this country recently aboard a ship carrying freight cars and was arrested near Strasburg, Va., where he was working as a farmhand.

It was his fifth attempt at entering this country illegally, it was said. He appeared at the hearing dressed in a black cowboy outfit topped with a rakish sombrero.

Mexico Sets New Peso Rate Of 8.65 to $1

By The Associated Press

Mexico last night set a new and cheaper par value on her money with the approval and backing of the World Monetary Fund and the United States.

The new rate is 8.65 pesos to the United States dollar, which is slightly cheaper than the 8.15 rate recently prevailing in the free market.

At the same time, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced the signing of a new agreement with Mexico. This will supplement a stabilization agreement of May, 1947.

The new agreement, Snyder said, increases to 25 million dollars the balance available from the United States stabilization fund for the purchase of Mexican pesos to stabilize the dollar-peso rate of exchange.

The peso has been without a fixed exchange rate since July 21, 1948. That's when the Maxican government abandoned the rate of 4.85 pesos to the dollar, and allowed the peso to seek its own level in the market.

Ga. Speed Trap Gets Talmadge; Governor Wins

Adrian, Ga., June 17 (AP).—Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia hinted today he had been caught in one of Georgia's "speed traps."

The Governor was the winner, though, in an argument with a small-town south Georgia police chief over a ticket for speeding.

Chief E. W. Avery said Talmadge's official car sped through town at 65 to 70 miles an hour on May 30, running through a red light.

"He said he had a right to drive at any rate of speed he saw fit, and didn't have to stop at red lights," said Avery.

"The Governor insisted he was within his rights and I was not. If he was, and if he feels that way about it, I won't do anything about it."

The Governor's driver said he was going less than 25 miles an hour and failed to stop when a green light turned to the yellow "caution" just as he passed under it.

Talmadge said "I do not know whether the city of Adrian is running a speed trap or not. I do know that the car was being driven in a safe manner."

Life Prolonged

Leukemia Yields to New Therapy

Five-year successes in treating one form of leukemia, or cancer of blood-forming tissues, with radioactive phosphorus have been reported by three doctors.

Writing in the current Journal of the American Medical Association, they reported that of 100 patients treated for chronic lymphatic leukemia with radioactive phosphorus and X-rays, one third were alive five years after onset of the disease.

"When compared with five-year end results in other types of cancer, these results are relatively good," they wrote.

Chronic lymphatic leukemia is one of the major forms of the disease, though not the most common. It may develop over a two-year period, in contrast to the rapidity with which acute leukemia progresses.

Physicians reporting were Drs. John H. Lawrence, Berkeley, Calif.; B. V. A. Low-Beer, San Francisco, and James W. J. Carpender of Chicago. The studies were made at the radiation laboratory and divisions of medical physics and radiology, University of California, Berkeley and San Francisco.

DP Legislation This Year Seen In Jeopardy

By the United Press

Chairman Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) hinted yesterday that his Senate Judiciary Committee may not get around to acting on new displaced-persons legislation in this session of Congress.

He said following a lengthy closed-door session that the committee still has "worlds of data" to study before acting, and would give no indication that any DP bill will be sent to the floor this year.

Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) made public a letter to McCarran urging prompt action on DP legislation.

Wiley, ranking committee Republican and its former chairman, said there would be "a severe wave of regret and disappointment in the American people if this first session were to lapse without final action being taken in displaced persons legislation."

The House has passed a bill which would admit 339,000 homeless refugees over a three-year-period instead of the present 205,000 over two years. It eliminates features of the present law which President Truman calls anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish.

McCarran said his committee has 16 or 17 different DP bills to study. One is the House bill. Varying versions of it have been introduced in the Senate. McCarran himself has introduced a bill calling for an extra 302,000 persons to enter the country in the next three years, but retaining all the features of the present law.

Tribe's 4 Homers Rout Yanks, 10-4, for 6 in Row

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

IT'S LESS STUFFY in the horse-breeding industry this week with the English Jockey Club deciding, after 36 years of hoity-toity disdain for the bloodlines of American thoroughbreds, to amend the infamous Jersey Act.

The Jersey Act has been a thorn in the saddles of United States breeders ever since 1913, when the panicked British breeding industry arbitrarily cast most American bloodlines out of its General Stud Book. Enough of this breeding of regal British stock with American commoners, was the clear implication.

POVICH

American stock that couldn't trace its breeding to ancestry still acceptable to the General Stud Book was stigmatized as "cold blood," and half-bred. Thus the owners of such champions as Man O' War, Count Fleet, Black Gold, Assault and Citation were denied the right to export their progeny to England and compete with the Britons' own breeding industry.

American horses could race in England, and did, but there must be no equine intermarriage. It served to discourage British buyers from importing "half-bred" United States stock and left the home market completely to British breeders.

ENGLAND TIMED its exclusion of United States bloodlines from its Stud Book with a smart eye for doing the most business. In 1913, racing conditions in America were the worst ever known. The reformers had campaigned successfully to close the New York tracks in 1910, and the United States breeding industry was suffering from lack of buyers.

There was no organized opposition to the high-handed action of the British, and the wealthy horse owners deserted the American tracks to race in England. The British got away with their discriminatory act with great ease, at a time when United States racing was in despair.

It was the late Earl of Jersey, then known as Lord Villiers, who gave his name to the exclusion act, which read: "No horse or mare can, after this date, be considered eligible for admission to the General Stud Book unless it can be traced without flaw on both sire's and dam's side of its pedigree to horses and mares themselves already accepted in the earlier volumes of the book."

THE REAL STINGER in the Jersey Act, however, was its final paragraph which set forth: "The editors reserve to themselves the sole right to decide what horses or mares can, under the above qualifications, be admitted or excluded from the book."

Until that measure was adopted, horses registered in either the British or the American stud books were mutually acceptable to the other and as a gesture of courtesy, the chairman of the jockey clubs of each country were accepted as honorary members of the others' jockey club.

French-breds, similarly excluded by England, nevertheless won the Epsom Derby in 1947-48. Ultimately, the British breeders began to yearn for the United States and French markets for their stock, with sales among their own countrymen dipping. The latest acton of their jockey club was dictated more by economic necessity than by any deep-seated desre to give foreign-breds an equal standing in the equine social register.

THE GENERAL Stud Book of England, the bible of the breeding industry throughout most of the world, is the property of the English Jockey Club and came into being in 1771, only 21 years after the jockey club itself was formed. At the start, the book was the private venture of a citizen named James Weatherby, who was the "keeper of the match book," or secretary of the Newmarket Course.

Citizen Weatherby sold out his property in the book to the jockey club sometime before the end of the century, and ever since it has been published by the club. Weatherby's lineal descendants have been the editors for the past 150 years.

The United States did a thriving export business in thoroughbred horseflesh until the Jersey Act, which killed the trade with its effects of warning breeders of all other countries to beware of American-breds as "impure" and not to use them in their breeding operations. America threw off Brittania's rule of the seas a century before it could get rid of England's rule of thoroughbred horseflesh.

D. C. Junior Boys Tennis Set Today

The semi and quarter finals of the District of Columbia boys tennis championships, originally scheduled for 4:10 p. m. yesterday at the Congressional Country Club, will be held today starting at 10 a. m., providing the weather permits. The pairings will remain the same with the following changes in time: Boys' singles semifinals at 10 a. m., boys' doubles quarterfinals at 1 p. m., juniors' singles semifinals at 10 a. m., and juniors' doubles quarterfinals at 1 p. m.

Nats Face Trucks And Tigers Today

The Nats move into faster company today, and that's no figure of speech. They open their delayed-action series with the second-place Tigers after being rained out last night, and the Tigers have ready and primed their ace fast-baller, Virgil Trucks.

Righthander Trucks is throwing the swiftest pitch in the league these days, and his presence bodes ill for the Nats if his last two starts are any criterion.

His most recent effort on behalf of the Tigers was a one-hit shutout of the Athletics. Before that, he set down the Yankees on three hits to win an 11-inning fray. Today he will be bidding for his 10th win of the season.

Tiger Manager Red Rolfe shuffled his pitching routine to open the series with Trucks. Art Houtteman was scheduled to pitch last night but he is being withheld to enable Trucks to work. It's a maneuver by Rolfe to space Trucks' assignments so that he can also face the Yankees and Red Sox on the current Eastern trip.

Paul Calvert goes to the mound for the Nats this afternoon. He's the hold-over selection of Manager Joe Kuhel.

Another Griffith Stadium sell-out is in prospect for tomorrow when the Nats and Tigers clash in a twin-bill. That program will be the setting for a new chapter in the history of Washington pitching.

Kuhel has announced that Rookie Lloyd Hittle, the expensive little left-hander from the Coast League, and Mickey Harris, recent tradee from the Red Sox, will get their first starting assignments for the Nats tomorrow.

Last night's postponement was only the second of the home season for the Nats . . . Kuhel was encouraged by the report of Trainer George Lentz that Yost may be back in action within a week. It had been feared that Yost was doomed to two more weeks of idleness with his torn leg muscles . . . Trucks is remembered as the guy who stopped the Nats' nine-game winning streak earlier in the season with a 2-1 victory at Detroit

Okrie Goes to Buffalo

The Nats yesterday sent rookie Catcher Len Okrie to the the Buffalo Bisons of the International League subject to 24-hour recall.

A's Win, 6-5 Suder Injured

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics advanced to within 4½ games of the American League lead tonight in defeating St. Louis, 6-5. The win may prove costly, however, as veteran Second Baseman Pete Suder was carried off the field with a spike wound in the ninth inning.

Suder was spiked on the left ankle by Ray Kokos as he took a throw from third baseman Hank Majeski as the middle man in a double play on Roy Sievers' grounder. He was carried off the field.

Two stitches were taken in the wound. A club physician said he probably would be out of action for a week or ten days.

Sam Chapman's seventh homer of the season off relief pitcher Ray Shore with one on in the second inning accounted for the A's winning margin.

Newcombe Tops Cubs for Dodgers, 2-1

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—Big Don Newcombe pitched the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers back into winning stride today with a 2-1 victory over Warren Hacker and the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers pushed across the winning tally in the ninth inning to protect their slim margin over the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League and hand the undefeated Newcombe his fourth triumph.

Duke Snider started the winning rally with a single and was sacrificed to second by Jackie Robinson. Then Gil Hodges singled through the left side of the infield to score Snider.

Pittsburgh, June 17 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates belted Clint Hartung from the box in a four-run first inning tonight, then went on to defeat the New York Giants, 6-4, before a crowd of 32,615.

Big Ernie Bonham went the route for the Bucs, getting credit for his second win against as many defeats.

Stanky Hit, Retires

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 17 (U.P.).—Second Baseman Ed Stanky of the Boston Braves was forced to retire in the sixth inning of today's game against the Cincinnati Reds after being struck on his once-broken right ankle.

Mass. Board Bars Boxer for Assault On Ring Official

Boston, June 17 (U.P.).—The Massachusetts Boxing Commission revoked the license of Light Heavyweight Tony Masciarrelli of Valley Stream, N. Y., because he threw a punch at the wrong man in the ring.

The commission said the boxer was guilty of "actions detrimental to boxing and physical assault on a referee."

It also suspended Masciarrelli's Manager Alexander Lang for 30 days for "violation of the rules and regulations of the boxing commission."

Quit? Baloney! Says Walters

Cincinnati, June 17 (AP).—Bucky Walters usually is a mild mannered guy but he got his dander up today—and not because of the losing streak which now plagues his Cincinnati Reds.

It was over a story in the New York Herald Tribune that he is going to quit within a month as Cincinnati manager because of ill health and will be succeeded by John (Pepper) Martin, former St. Louis Cardinal star.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," shouted Bucky when asked about the report. And he snorted "baloney" when told the paper had reported he has suffered a heart attack during the Reds' spring training in Florida. He has done a lot of pitching during batting practice since then.

Warren Giles, president of the Reds, was equally emphatic in denying the story. He called it "the most absurd rumor I ever have heard."

"I've heard a lot of them but that tops them all," Giles said.

He also said Walters' only illness in spring training was an attack of "plain indigestion" one evening and that the Reds' manager was back on the practice field the next morning.

Giles also cracked, "If Bucky didn't have a heart attack on the Reds' recent road trip he'll never have one."

Patton, Barnes, Bright and Neal Gain Semifinals

Asheville, N. C., June 17 (AP).—Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C.; Tommy Barnes of Atlanta Morton Bright of Atlanta and Al Neal of Asheville gained the semifinals of the Southern Golf Association's forty-third annual amateur tournament here today.

Patton ousted Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., 3 and 2, to move to a semifinals match with Barnes, 1-up winner over Walter Cisco, Louisville, Ky., tomorrow.

Bright downed Al Dowtin of Asheville, 5 and 3, while Neal edged Billy Key of Columbus, Ga., 1 up, in the lower bracket.

Boston Whips Chicago Twice, 10-8 and 4-3

Boston, June 17 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox pounded out 15 hits, including three homers, to sweep a sunlight-arclight twin bill from the Chicago White Sox, 10-8, tonight before a 31,446 crowd.

The Bosox took the afternoon clash, 4-3, with Junior Stephens driving in the winning tally in the ninth.

Lefty Maurice McDermott, called up this week from the Louisville Farm Club, was Joe McCarthy's night game starter and he needed all of his teammates lusty slugging to gain his first major league win.

McDermott gave the Chisox only three hits but they combined them with nine bases on balls for five runs before he was yanked in the eighth inning. In the meantime Stephens had belted his sixteenth homer with one on, Ted Williams his fifteenth with two on and Catcher Matt Batts had four-baggered with a mate aboard.

The Red Sox banged Starter Bill Wight, another southpaw, for 8 runs and 11 hits and they scored six times in the third inning.

McDermott, about as wild as he was when farmed out this spring, spotted the Chisox two runs in the second on one hit and gave them three more tallies in the sixth on another lone single.

The Chisox scored three runs against Tex Hughson in the ninth and had the bases loaded when Walt Masterson saved the game for McDermott by making Dave Philley hit into a force play for the final out.

Best performer in the first game for the winning Sox was Birdie Tebbetts. The veteran catcher got three hits, one a double, drove in two runs, threw out two runners trying to steal, picked another off second and started a fast double play when losing Pitcher Howie Judson tried to sacrifice in the seventh.

Rosecroft Races Postponed for 2d Night in Row

Rosecroft Raceway, enabled by the record-breaking drought to complete 17 successive nights of harness racing, ran into its second straight postponement last night.

The Oxon Hill Track was rained out on its scheduled opener, May 26, but didn't encounter any precipitation thereafter until Thursday. Friday's eight-race program will be carried out tonight. Thursday's card will be held Monday and the meeting should wind up Tuesday with two rain dates to spare.

Jake Says He Will Be Busy Champ

By Jack Hand

Detroit June 17 (AP).—Jake La Motta, his left hand puffed and his right eye lightly patched, promised today to be a fighting middleweight champion.

"I really worked for this one," said 26-year-old Jake who chased the 160-pound title for years. "Now I got what I wanted."

The granite-jawed thumper from New York's Bronx realized his ambition of a lifetime last night at Briggs Stadium when he stopped an injured Marcel Cerdan of Casablanca in the tenth round.

"Getting a chance at the title gave me incentive to work," he explained, "I'll fight anybody they say. From now on, while I'm still fighting I'll always be in the best of shape. I found out that makes fights easier. When I get too lazy to work, I'll quit."

La Motta lounged in his hotel room, greeting well wishers and accepting telephone congratulations in a steady stream of calls. His attractive blonde wife, Vicki, helped. She beamed at Jake like a wife should at a new champ breadwinner.

Under his outside shirt, Jake wore the $5000-valued belt that was presented to the winner in midring last night.

"They wanted to take it to get my name put on it," said Jake, "but I said no. Nobody's going to get this away from me.

'I want to wait until I get back home to have X-rays taken of my hand. What's the hurry; I think it is a fracture."

There was a sizable swelling on the top of his left hand, around the middle finger.

"Watch it" shouted Jake when friends reached out to shake hands. His right mitt also was slightly swollen but La Motta said he did not hurt it in the fight.

"I don't know just which round I hurt the left," he said. "all I know it was the round I started to box—maybe third or fourth.

"What's next? That's up to the promoters. My contract calls for me to fight Cerdan again in September. I don't know where. If he can't make it because of that bum shoulder, then he has until January under the contract. We get 30-30 on an even percentage in the second fight."

Joey said brother Jake will be welcomed home tomorrow morning by a parade through the Bronx.

Cerdan May Be Able To Fight In Fall

New York, June 17.—Marcel Cerdan, dethroned middleweight champ, learned here today that his shoulder wasn't fractured in the LaMotta fight but that muscles were torn.

He had an X-ray taken by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, New York Athletic Commission physician, then went to a hotel where he packed his bags for a flight to Paris tomorrow.

After examining the pictures, Dr. Nardiello reported that muscles in the shoulder had been torn and added that internal bleeding had stopped. The doctor estimated that the injury would heal in four to six weeks and said Cerdan should be able to fight again in September.

Ken Keltner Hits 2, Doby, Lemon One

New York, June 16 (AP).—The rising Cleveland Indians snowed under the league-leading New York Yankees, 10-4, today, lashing out four homers to stretch their winning streak to six games.

Ken Keltner drove home four runs on a pair of homers and winning Pitcher Bob Lemon and Larry Doby socked two other four-baggers to account for half of Cleveland's eight hits.

Lefty Ed Lopat, who started the game with a lifetime 19-5 record against Cleveland, was the victim of the Indians' homer barrage.

The Indians opened up on Lopat in the first inning after leadoff batter Dale Mitchell was retired. Rookie Ike Boone singled and rode home on Keltner's tremendous 415-foot blast into the left field pavilion. Doby followed with his tenth homer, a smash into the upper right field stands.

Lemon, who blanked the Yanks in Cleveland last Sunday, yielded a run in the third on a walk, ground out and Gene Woodling's single. Cliff Mapes banged his second homer of the season in the fourth to cut the Cleveland margin to 3-2.

The Indians opened the gap to 5-2 in the sixth with a pair of markers on two walks, a single, sacrifice and fly out. The Tribe applied the clincher in the seventh when Lemon homered, Boone singled and Keltner homered.

Lemon ran into trouble in the last of the seventh and was yanked in favor of Al Benton. Lemon walked the first two batters and Dick Kryhoski followed with a run scoring double. Benton retired the next three hitters with only one run scoring.

Eddie Shows 'Marked Improvement'; Playing Status Uncertain This Season

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia Phillies' star first baseman, today underwent a minor operation to draw blood from a lung pierced when he was shot by a bobby-sox fan.

The 28-year-old athlete remained in an operating room at the Illinois Masonic Hospital about 30 minutes while surgeons worked with a suction needle. Later the hospital said he was "breathing easier" and showed "marked improvement."

Doctors explained that the bullet, fired by Ruth Ann Steinhagen, 19-year-old typist who idolized Waitkus from afar, had lacerated the

New Players Break Reds' Losing Streak

Cincinnati, June 17 (AP).—Three players, acquired in trades in the last week, today hoisted the Cincinnati Reds out of a seven-game losing streak.

Outfielders Harry Walker and Peanuts Lowrey, and Catcher Walker Cooper batted in or scored five runs as the Reds whipped the Boston Braves, 7 to 2, in a game that had to be halted at the start of the ninth inning for 25 minutes because of rain.

In addition to their batting feats, Walker and Lowrey each stole a base. Walker and Lowrey were obtained from the Chicago Cubs in a trade Wednesday and Cooper came Monday in a swap with the New York Giants. The trio got six of the Reds' 11 hits, and one of them was Cooper's home-run blast in the first inning with Walker and Lowrey on base. Those blows were enough to give Howard Fox his fourth pitching triumph and to send Johnny Sain to his seventh defeat. Sain has won four.

Bill Clark's 60 Wins Low Net at Touchdown Fete

Bill Clark was low net winner with a 60 while Henry Broadbent and Mike Jankowski tied for low gross with 75 each in the golf tournament headlining the Touchdown Club's sixth annual outing at the Touchdown Club yesterday.

Broadbent won the toss for low gross prize.

Frank Strunk won the horseshoe pitching; Charlie Wilson was second, and George Seeley third.

Red Auerbach repeated his winning performance of a year ago in the 50-yard open race for men. Lou Shine was runner-up and Mike Stevens third.

Mike West, Dan Downer and Vee Curtis finished in that order in the 40-yard race for men of 225 pounds and over while Joe Tucci triumphed and Curtice Lamson placed second in the 25-yard race for men of 50 years and over.

Paul Rothgeb pitched the lettermen to a 9-1 decision over the nonlettermen in a seven-inning softball game. Andy Farkas and Tommy Whelan homered for the lettermen while Red Auerbach spoiled a shutout for Auerbach when he hit a home run for the nonlettermen.

Quantico Wins Marine Rifle, Pistol Crowns

Quantico, Va., June 17.—Firing in the rain, the Marine Corps Schools rifle team established its supremacy throughout the entire corps today, winning the Inter-Division competition.

The Quantico team also won the Inter-Division pistol match in a close contest with the Western Division team. Both teams scored 1368 but Quantico took the decision by firing highest in the rapid-fire stage.

Ralph Plays Wilson In Match Today

By West McLean
Post Reporter

Ralph Bogart marched on toward the Maryland State amateur golf crown yesterday in the first and second-round matches at Columbia, defeating Jack Brantly, 5 and 3, and Ernie Caldwell, 5 and 4.

Bogart's foe in this morning's third round will be Col. Jim Wilson, who gained the third round by downing Joe Pence, 5 and 4, and Ed Finnessy, 6 and 5. Wilson adjourned to the practice tee after both his morning and afternoon rounds, doubtless knowing that he will have to be in top shape to offer Bogart competition today.

Another good match this morning should be the Jim Kinder-Spencer Overton tangle. Kinder beat Dr. Walter Panowski, 2 and 1, in the morning yesterday and went on to down Buddie Collins, 3 and 2, in the afternoon. Overton defeated W. V. Harner, 7 and 6, and Frank Clark, 4 and 3.

Another third-round match pits Ken Scales, who slipped past Medalist Buddie Bowie, 2 and 1, in the morning and had another tough scramble to down Jack Emich, 1 up, in the afternoon; meeting Ed Gardner. Gardner beat Garland Bowers and Rip Mann, both, 6 and 5.

Ed Johnston meets Joe Roth in the remaining match. Johnston beat Ken Schattman, 4 and 3; and Joe LaSalle, 2 and 1; while Roth was defeating Billy Griffin, finalist in this event last year, 2 up; and Ed Meyer, 4 and 3.

First Round

Scales defeated Bowie, 2 and 1; Emich defeated Patterson, 1 up, 23 holes; Gardner defeated Bowers, 6 and 5; Mann defeated Morris, 1 up; Kinder defeated Panowski, 2 and 1; Collins defeated Cragg, 4 and 3; Clark defeated Cornwall, 1 up; Overton defeated Harner, 7 and 6.

Johnston defeated Schattman, 4 and 3; LaSalle defeated Michalek, 1 up; Roth defeated Griffin, 2 up; Meyer defeated Tornabene, 4 and 3; Bogart defeated Brantley, 5 and 3; Caldwell defeated Harrington, 1 up; Wilson defeated Pence, 5 and 4; Finnessy defeated Watts, 4 and 3.

Second Round

Scales defeated Emich, 1 up; Gardner defeated Mann, 6 and 5; Kinder defeated Collins, 3 and 2; Overton defeated Clark, 4 and 3; Johnston defeated LaSalle, 2 and 1; Roth defeated Meyer, 4 and 3; Bogart defeated Caldwell, 5 and 4; Wilson defeated Finnessy, 6 and 5.

Today's Pairings

10:00—Scales vs. Gardner; 10:05—Kinder vs. Overton; 10:10—Johnston vs. Roth; 10:15—Bogart vs. Wilson.

Women's Golf Postponed

Due to rain, golf play yesterday was postponed indefinitely in women's class A for the National Broadcasting Co. Cup at the Congressional Country Club.

Grace Lenczyk Loses, 3-2

To Superstitious Kansas Coed

By Ken Davis

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (AP).—A nervy sophomore from the plains of Kansas—wearing two caps at the same time because "I'm superstitious"—won the 1949 women's intercollegiate golf chmapionship today.

Sunny Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kans., toppled Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn., from the college throne, 3 and 2, in a surprising upset in a drizzling rain.

The 20-year-old University of Kansas co-ed bent her double-capped blonde head over a 2-foot putt on the tricky No. 16 green and tapped it in the cup with a clatter. And, that was the championship.

Marlynn began the tourney last Monday with a brilliant red tennis visor. Somewhere along about the 10th or 11th shower, her father bought her a white jockey cap to keep her hair dry.

The new intercollegiate champion clapped the red visor over the white cap. "I'm superstitious, dad," she grinned.

But it was three missed puts by the defending champion and two swishing shots under pressure by the new champion that decided the title race.

Miss Lenczyk, 21-year-old John B. Stetson University junior and current United States women's amateur titleholder, blew the 18-hole finale over the long fairways of Ohio State University's soggy scarlet course in the first three holes.

All week long Miss Lenczyk had been putting like a demon. But she never did conquer today's mushy greens. She missed winning putts of 2 feet, 7 feet and 10 feet on greens No. 1, 2 and 3.

The twelfth hole produced the first of the match's two greatest shots. Snuggled up against a tree on her drive, Miss Smith dug one at right angles to the hole. With Miss Lenczyk safely in front of the green with her second, Miss Smith gambled with a long wood over a creek and was home, 6 feet from the pin, to retain a 1-up lead.

On the 15th, Miss Smith really won the match. In the rough with her drive, she came out short but laid a crisp pitch less than four feet from the pin. She putted in for a birdie 4. Miss Lenczyk was short and in a trap with her second and blasted out too short to sink. She took a 5.

That ran the string to three up, for Miss Smith had one of those one-putt greens on No. 14 for a birdie four and a win.

They halved the dogleg 16th and that ended the match.

The new champion, who had clowned around most of the tournament with a ready smile, shook hands with Miss Lenczyk and made one or two other customary gestures.

Then she kissed her father, and burst into violent sobs.

Schroeder, Mulloy Win

London, June 17 (AP).—Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., slammed their way to the finals of the Queens Club tennis tournament today and will meet tomorrow in a preview of their opening day match at Wimbledon.

Schroeder, top-seeded both here and at Wimbledon, led the way into the title round by coming from behind twice to eliminate Eric Sturgess of South Africa, runner-up in the United States championships last year, 4—6, 6—2, 7—5.

Then Mulloy showed his disdain for the Wimbledon seedings by turning back fifth seeded John Bromwich, the Australian Davis cup captain, 2—6, 6—4, 6—4. Mulloy is unranked at Wimbledon.

The women's singles finals also became an all-American affair when Wimbledon Champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Bellevue, Del., the United States titlist' scored semifinal triumphs over California opponents.

Miss Brough put together a crushing 6—1, 6—1 victory over Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif. Mrs. DuPont had to come from behind to eliminate Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., the United States indoor titleholder, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Forestville Show Today

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

A good number of Virginia entries have been received and are being conveyed into Sidney Follin's Dunrovin Acres for the third renewal of the Forestville Horse Show being held here today starting at 10 a. m.

Pickens Hamilton of Warrenton, Va., will exhibit Courtney Burton's Dance King green hunter champion at the famous Devon show of recent weeks as well as Mrs. James C. Hamilton's Tohlton.

Goldwick, 1948 national working hunter, will be shown by owner Col. Randolph Tayloe of White Post, Va. Springsbury Farm's Lary Bellest, Eve Prime's Eve's Star, Mildred Gaine's Dinah Johnson, Victoria Coleman's Susie Q and Mrs. George A. Tuttle's Bettina are expected to offer plenty of contention in the hunter division.

The open jumping division promises to be well supported with such veteran leapers as Jane Pohl Rust's Fitzrada, the always dangerous entries of Morton W. (Cappy) Smith, W. C. Viar's Hi Jack and Altitude, and J. E. Jone's Boots and Sir Richard from Richmond, Va.

The show grounds may be reached by proceeding over Chain Bridge, turn right to Forestville, approximately 11 miles, on Old Georgetown Pike and Route 193.

Middlecoff's 133 Leads Detroit Golf

Detroit, June 17 (AP).—Dr. Cary Middlecoff proved himself a pretty good mudder as he moved into a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the Motor City Open Golf Tournament today.

The methodical Memphis dentist, unruffled by a steady rain that fell through most of his round, bagged 5 one-under-pars and 12 pars as he shot a 67—four under par.

It gave him a 133 total and a two-stroke lead over Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., and Henry Ranson of St. Andrews, Ill., who tied for second place at 135.

Hamilton, who fired a 63 on the opening day of the four-day tournament, had to settle for a 72 today. He got under par only once as his putter, which accounted for 11 one-putt greens Thursday, cooled off during today's rain. Ransom, who had a 69 to go with an opening-day score of 66, also encountered trouble on the heavy green of Meadowbrook Country Club.

The tournament still appeared to be a four-man race as Middlecoff, Hamilton, Ransom and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., who held the first four places Thursday, still paced the field even though their positions were shuffled a bit.

Mangrum had a 35, 34—69 for 136 to stay right in the thick of the fight for top money.

Harold Burrows Gains Net Finals

Montclair, N. J., June 17 (AP).—Harold M. Burrows of the University of Virginia and Richard Savitt of Cornell fought through extended matches today to gain the finals in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament.

Burrows edged out Tony Vincent of Miami University, 6—4, 4—6, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3. Savitt defeated Sidney Schwartz, 4—6, 8—6, 5—7, 6—3, 8—6.

The Golden Superman of Hollywood, Calif., will meet Babe Sharkey in the headliner of next Wednesday night's mat show at Joe Turner's Arena.

Bill Mitchell 2d In Hurdles

Los Angeles, June 17.—Bill Mitchell, Georgetown's crack hurdler, qualified for a berth in the NCAA 120-yard high hurdle finals here today, finishing second to Stanford's Downing McKee in a 14.5 heat.

Form prevailed pretty much in the first-day preliminary events staged under a hot sun before 6719 track addicts. Southern California's Mel Patton blazed to heat victories in the 100 and 220. His 9.5 short dash time equaled the Coliseum record and he sped to a 20.6 time in the 220.

Big man in the high hurdle event is expected to be Craig Dixon, unbeaten UCLA ace. Dixon won his heat in 14.1. Jim Gehrdes of Penn State, who holds several decisions over Georgetown's Mitchell, beat out his brother, Indiana's Tom Mitchell, for a spot in tomorrow's finals.

Pays $29.90 Mutuel

Simite Outlasts Tetrotomic To Triumph at Charles Town

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 17. H. L. Townsley's Simite, paying a healthy $29.20 win mutuel, upset the plans of the favorite players in the Moorcroft Purse, featuring the Friday program.

The Baltimore-owned 4-year-old hung a nose defeat on Tetratomic, owned by Miss Virginia McKinney of Washington, D. C., and one of the best 3-year-olds on the grounds. Five lengths behind the fight for first money came H. Friedman's Foolish Bid.

Simite, beaten off in his previous outing but winner of two races and in the money 8 times in 11 starts this year, was well handled by Jockey R. D. Scott and was clocked in 1:18 for the about 6 furlongs over a track kept sloppy by intermittent rain.

The winning son of Sir James won by the simple but effective method of going to the front soon after the break and staying there. Foolish Bid threatened Simite's lead in the early stages, but he did not have another challenge until Tetratomic rallied in the stretch.

A pair of thrilling finishes produced a $52 payoff on the 3 and 1 combination in the daily double. In the first race, J. N. Barnes' Fetchit lasted by a thin nose to take the decision from the favorite, Weatherman, owned by the estate of R. H. Covington. The winner, ridden by Jockey Jimmy Ulmer, paid $9.20.

In the second race, H. E. Moore's Louis L turned on the heat in the stretch to win by a head over P. Cross' Wye River, the pacemaker most of the way. Jockey George Cardoza engineered Louis L's move and the 8-year-old paid $7.60.

Jockey Freddy Kratz rode his twenty-third winner of the meeting in the eighth race aboard Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Honey Bun, paying $7.80. The victory allowed Kratz to tie Buddy Root, who was shut out for the day. Ray Arduini, who has 20 winners, was not in action. Johnny Regalbuto is topping the apprentices with 18 and he failed to reach the winners circle on the program.

Taxicab Driver, Hogan Differ On Ben's Speed

Van Horn, Texas, June 17 (AP).—A taxicab driver testified today golfer Ben Hogan passed him near Van Horn last February 2 when his hack was going "between 75 and 80 miles an hour."

The spot was near where Hogan was almost killed in a collision with a bus. He has been out of competition since. The testimony today from Edward A. Strickland was in the trial of Alvin H. Logan of Pecos, the bus driver accused of aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

Hogan in testimony yesterday denied that he was speeding.

Hogan testified he was driving "less than 20" when his car and the bus collided headon about 25 miles east of here on fog-blanketed U. S. Highway 80.

Bowling Tourney Listed at Clarendon

The second of a summer series of one-ball bowling tournaments will be staged tomorrow at the Clarendon Bowling Center, Manager Eddie Goldberg announced yesterday. Scratch is 130 with a one third handicap.

Russia Seen Holding Key to U. S. Finances

By S. Oliver Goodman

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 17.—Russia holds the key to America's financial future and therefore the outlook is obscured by a Reddish mist.

Emphasizing that point, Raymond Rogers, New York University professor of banking, today told the thirty-first annual convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association here at the Greenbrier.

"The most basic pressures on our economy have their origin in Russian policy and action. These pressures are from without and from within. Thus one way or another, they cause close to half of all our Government expenditures. Externally, they necessitate armies of occupation, military lend-lease and the monumental Marshall Plan.

"Internally, these pressures necessitate heavy expenditures for military preparedness and civil protection from the Communist vermin . . . In addition, a certain proportion of our housing public relief and other social expenditures undoubtedly are caused by the desire to avoid issues which Communist troublemakers could exploit."

Reds Determine Tax Rate

In short, Dr. Rogers added, it is not too much to say that the Russians largely determine our tax rate and to a great extent, will determine whether we shall have deficit financing or not.

Summarizing the general outlook Rogers made these predictions: (1) The international situation continues unsatisfactory which means continued heavy spending. (2) The Nation faces a thoroughgoing price readjustment, but a depression can be avoided unless labor, business or Government adopts selfish, short-sighted policies. (3) Investment holdings of banks will increase. (4) Because of increaing risk, the spread between money and credit will widen. (5) The market for high-grade bonds will . . . be strong until late in fall, although there may be a temporary setback in the bank-eligible, long-term Government issures when the Treasury launches its new policies.

In an informal talk Maple I. Harl, president of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, emphasized that the Nation's banks now have $1 in cash and Government bonds for every $1 in risk loans outstanding. Not only in liquidity but also in psychology, he said, banks were never better prepared for any eventuality.

Bankers have done a grand job in the past 10 years, Harl added, and face whatever may come in the future without fear. But cautioned Harl, "Remember, there is only a few inches difference between a pat on the back and a kick in the pants."

Earlier today, the 350 Washington bankers, their wives and guests heard an address by Thomas R. Reid, who holds the unique title of vice president in charge of human relations for McCormick & Co., Inc., of Baltimore.

"The world," said Reid, "needs good executives. To achieve them, management must study its executive problem and test, train and rate scientifically with all its knowledge of scientific management, executive personnel as well as other personnel.

"The functions of an executive are simple and understandable. They should be the guide for any man in an executive position so that he may measure his degree of success. The requirements for leadership may be acquired through development of the traits of judgment, drive and vision. That is how people become executives."

Crowded Schedule Today

The bankers face a crowded schedule Saturday, last day of formal sessions. They will entrain Sunday afternoon for the return to Washington.

First business tomorrow will be a credit panel discussion in which Warren R. Forster, Hulbert T. Bisselle and Francis G. Addison, jr., will participate; also, four divisional officers for the American Bankers Association will be elected.

Climaxing the Saturday program will be the election and installation of new association officers. George M. Fisher, veteran of 35 years service with Washington Loan & Trust Co., is slated to succeed Robert H. Lacey. Social events will include a reception to retiring President Lacey and the "family dinner" at which winners of athletic trophies will be announced.

RETAIL TRADE: Contrary to the trend in the Fifth Federal Reserve District and in the Nation, sales of Washington department stores in the week ended June 11 showed an increase of 1 per cent over the corresponding 1948 week. Sales in the Fifth District were 3 per cent lower and in the Nation were 5 per cent lower. Sales in the week in Washington and in the Fifth District were 18 per cent greater than in the preceding week.

ODD LOTS: United Air Lines flew an estimated 123,511,500 revenue passenger miles in May, an increase of 11.5 per cent from the same month last year and a gain of 17 per cent from April . . . Bank clearings for 25 leading cities during the week ended June 15 aggregated $12,244,156,000, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. .

ISSUE APPROVED: Stockholders of the Government Employes Insurance Co. yesterday approved an increase in the capital stock by 20 per cent or 25,000 shares of $4 par value stock. This stock will be distributed as a stock dividend on July 1 to stockholders of record June 20. Ae semiannual cash dividend of 50 cents payable on the greater caiptalization was declared [illegible] as of the same dates.

1600 Postal Employes, 1000 on Capitol Hill Have Payless Payday

Most Postoffice Department employes here yesterday missed their regular payday. Only about 200 employes in the offices of solicitor and the fourth assistant postmaster general were paid. The remaining 1600 weren't.

The department's 500,000 employes in the field service also wouldn't be paid if they had to depend on congressional appropriations. The clerks, carriers and other such employes are being paid from postal income.

The department has more than 200 million dollars tied up in the second deficiency bill. Most of the money will be used to pay salaries when it's finally released.

The list of agencies whose employes have missed paydays is growing daily. Upwards of 1000 Capitol Hill employes are among those who missed paydays this week. The Budget Bureau expected to miss its regular payday next Monday. However, its employes were told yesterday that enough money had been found to meet the payroll.

JOBS: The Army has openings in Japan for stenographers and typists. Go to Room 1624 of the main Navy building on Constitution ave., for details . . . Civil Service has tests open for geophysicists, $3725 to $6235 starting salaries, and for sanitation inspectors for openings in the Public Health Service, $2474 to $4103.

ARMY: Its Surgeons General's Office has cited the following four civilian employes for outstanding work: Robert B. Austin, Pauline I. Elmore, Elmer W. Bates and Elizabeth C. Duncan.

CONVENTION: The East Coast Metal Trades Council (AFL) is in convention here at the Annapolis Hotel. The No. 1 topic for debate will be Navy layoffs since most of the delegates are Navy civilian employes.

The convention is likely to demand: (1) that the work-week be reduced to 32 hours; (2) that no new employes be hired or that temporary employes be converted to permanent status during layoffs; (3) that unions be given a voice in the fixing of Navy's per diem wages, and (4) that Navy be required to do more of its own work in its own shipyards and factories instead of letting contracts to private concerns.

Frank G. Bryant, of the Gun Factory here, is president. Other members of the executive board are Albert J. Resolute, secretary; Ralph G. Henry, New York; John A. McCart, Piladelphia; A. E. Claus, Boston; Robert M. Smith Portsmouth, N. H., and Frank E. Condon, Charleston, S. C.

NAVAL COMMUNICATIONS: The civilian personnel policy of this annex on Nebraska ave. should be looked over carefully if conditions there are as bad as charged. Since the agency considers itself super-secret and sacrosant, its officials refuse comment on the charges. It is accused of:

(1) Giving preferential treatment to the wives and daughters of naval officers who are among its employes; (2) refusing to promote employes who take sick leave; (3) refusing annual leave to employes assigned to weekend shifts, and (4) abnormally high turnover.

SPA: Virgil L. Couch is the new president of the Society for Personnel Administration. He's the able personnel director of the Economic Cooperation Administration. David Stalney of Air Forces is vice president, and Ellen Manchester is secretary-treasurer.

NOTES: Dee J. Alley of the General Accounting Office has worked up an easy-to-keep annual and sick leave record card. He's distributing copies to his friends . . . Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) has in a bill to give medals of meritorious service to Federal workers who distinguish themselves in line of police duty. He points out that Justice's Border Patrol has had 43 employes killed on duty during its 25 years of existence.

PEOPLE: Carroll Fentress is the acting director of Interior's oil and gas division. He succeeds Robert E. Friedman who resigned . . . Dr. Frederick V. Rand, widely known plant pathologist, has retired from the Agriculture Department after 38 years of service . . . Paul A. Reeves yesterday was given a Treasury meritorious civilian service award. He's in the Philadelphia office of the Alcohol Tax Unit.

Hearing Set On Dealers' Plea to Hold Milk Price

Automatic 1c Rise Effective July 1 Unless Virginia Commission Acts

Continuance of present milk prices is to be sought by Greater Washington milk dealers at a public hearing scheduled for next week by the Virginia Milk Commission.

Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase and Alexandria Dairy Products, Inc., have petitioned the commission to retain present prices. A third dairy which requested the hearing, Thompson's, has simply asked the commission to review prices.

The hearing is set for 2 p. m. Friday, at the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria.

Without action by the commission, the retail price in the Arlington - Alexandria - Fairfax area would increase one cent a quart to 21 cents, while the producers' price would be raised from $5.56 a hundredweight to $6.06.

While the commission's authority covers prices in Virginia only, milk prices in the District and suburban Maryland have usually followed those set by the Virginia commission.

The three distributors are the same which asked and obtained from the commission a reduction of 50 cents a hundredweight in the producers' price and one cent a quart in the retail price on April 1. Dairies immediately cut District and nearby Maryland prices as well.

The cuts ordered then were made effective for three months, and under commission regulations, these cuts would be automatically restored on July 1 if the order were not formally extended.

The Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association which controls some 80 per cent of the milk sold in metropolitan Washington, will not oppose the move to keep prices as they are, a spokesman said yesterday.

Cancer Alert Sounder Gets Her Warning

Miss Evelyn Young, whose job is to warn Washingtonians that cancer can strike anyone, will undergo cancer surgery on Tuesday.

She took the cancer detection tests she has urged thousands of others to take—and learned she has a "precancer condition."

Although the disorder is "definitely not cancer now," she said yesterday, it is a tissue-erosion condition known to develop into cancer in 9 out of 10 cases when ignored at its start.

Miss Young, publicity director of the District Division, American Cancer Society, said she will enter George Washington University Hospital here on Monday afternoon. On Tuesday morning, she said, she will be operated on by her personal physician, Dr. Jed Pearson, of this city.

The operation, for the most common form of near-cancer found in women today, will require several days' hospitalization, she said.

When notified by Dr. Pearson last Friday that results of her cancer-detection tests of May 27 indicated need for the operation, she explained, she wanted to put it off till her vacation next month.

"He told me the condition was detected in time, but that if operation is delayed—it may be too late," she said.

In her publicity job, Miss Young has written pages on pages of copy warning others that "cancer can be controlled if caught in time," but that "we can't control where it strikes."

Ground-Breaking Held For Hebrew Academy

Ground has been broken for the new Hebrew Academy School Building at 16th st. and Fort Stevens Drive, it was announced yesterday. Actual construction will start next fall.

District VFW Ends 50th Convention

The District Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars adopted a variety of resolutions last night at the final session of its 1949 Golden Jubilee Convention at the Mayflower Hotel.

Among them were resolutions dealing with the District National Guard, High School Cadet Corps, adjusted service compensation, national lottery for bonus funds, benefits to former members of non-military groups and several concerning Civil Service, Social Security and veterans' pensions.

The VFW department strongly favored the appointment of the commanding general and adjutant general of the District Guard from qualified officers now members of the organization. Appointment of Regular Army officers would "in effect place the command, control and administration under the control of one of the regular components."

Urge Cadet Training

Opposition to discontinuance of the Cadet Corps was voted because of the belief that "cadet training is essential in periods of peace."

The organization favored "equitable adjusted service compensation" for veterans up to $3500 for home service and $4500 for foreign duty plus an additional $500 for combat wounds. All tangible benefits received by a veteran under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 would be deducted before payment.

Benefits for veterans of non-military or quasi-military groups were opposed by the veterans' organization. Although mentioning six groups falling into these categories, the resolution singled out the Merchant Marine, pointing out that its members received bonuses for war zone service and added bonuses for exposure to enemy fire and furthermore were not required to remain with their ships while in port.

Those resolutions affecting Civil Service were concerned with solidifying the status of veterans in Government employ.

Army, Navy Resolution

Legislation was asked to include military and naval service within the field of Social Security and to consider for Social Security purposes that veterans earned $160 a month while in service.

Resolutions on pensions sought a uniform pension plan, increased income limitations for eligibility for nonservice-connected pensions, cost of living increase in disability compensation and liberalized benefits for nonservice-connected disabilities.

The veterans' organization asked a national lottery to provide a "self-paying bonus" for veterans of World War II. Sale of lottery tickets would be handled through the postoffices, and bonus payments would be made over a five-year period beginning in 1950.

Robert F. Sutphin, of Police and Fire Post, was reelected department commander. Sutphin lives at 3718 Horner pl. se. and is an attorney.

Named senior vice commander was George F. McWilliams, of Columbia Post, and William A. Hassan, Justice Post, was elected junior vice commander.

St. John's Buys McKeever Estate

The Robert L. McKeever estate at 10501 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md., has been purchased by St. John's Catholic Church, Forest Glen as the future site for a parochial school, convent, church and rectory.

The 14-room house, built more than 100 years ago, will be used temporarily as a convent. Plans call for erection of a 10-room school and auditorium on the 9-acre site, Rev. Joseph T. Kennedy, pastor, said.

Reed Sees Passage Of Government Cuts

Senator Reed (R., Kans.) predicted yesterday that legislation directing a cut of not less than 5 per cent in Government expenditures will be passed "if we can get the bill to a vote."

He is one of 29 Senators of both parties proposing such legislation. Senator Schoeppel (R., Kans.) assisted in preparing the measure.

Slot Machine Law Faces Court Action

Residence Clause Held Vital to Keep Prince Georges Free Of Gambling Gangs

The Prince Georges County Commissioners will ask that the law authorizing licensing of slot machines be held invalid if the residence requirement is stricken out, it was stated yesterday.

Jerrold V. Powers, attorney for the commissioners said he would make the request in a brief he will file in Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro Monday.

Powers said his brief would state that invalidation of the requirement that licensees be county residents and property owners would lay the community open to outside gambling elements.

Powers said his brief would defend validity of the act in its entirety, assert that the act in effect repeals or amends the State gambling law as it bears upon slot machines.

The brief was asked by Judge Charles C. Marbury who heard a suit filed in Circuit Court by C. Walter Hendrix, Silver Spring machine operator. Hendrix contends the restrictive licensing provisions are "discriminatory" and "tend to deprive him of his constitutional right."

Judge Marbury is expected to hand down a decision next week, probably by Wednesday.

In ordering a temporary ban against issuance of licenses pending his decision, Judge Marbury indicated he felt the law, authorized at a June 2 referendum, might be invalid because it did not expressly amend or repeal the pertinent State law forbidding gambling.

Edward C. Bell, jr., one of Hendrix's counsel, said his brief did not contend the entire law was invalid.

Finance Firm Loses Permit On Insurance

The insurance license of Grover C. Wilson, trading as the Capital Finance Co., 1229 New York ave. nw., has been revoked by District Insurance Superintendent Albert F. Jordan.

The action was taken as the result of a hearing held June 3 in which Fred C. Menage, 7015 9th st. nw., complained that the firm failed to show him an auto insurance policy for which he was paying as part of a loan transaction on a used car.

Maurice A. Guervitz, attorney for Wilson, has announced he will appeal the revocation to the District Commissioners.

'Ideal Father' Choice To Be Revealed Sunday

Judges now considering the hundreds of letters submitted in the contest to pick Greater Washington's "ideal father" have agreed to reach a decision in time for announcement in The Washington Post Sunday.

The area's top dad will celebrate Fathers Day Sunday with a broadcast over Station WTOP, a dinner with his family at the Statler Hotel and a show in the afternoon.

Restaurant Held Up By Masked GI

A masked soldier, carrying a paratrooper's carbine under his raincoat, held up an Alexandria restaurant last night at 11 p. m. and 15 minutes later police picked up a hitch-hiking suspect.

Alexandria police said the hold-up man entered the Colonial Hot Shoppe, Franklin and St. Asaps sts., at about 11 p. m. and forced the night manager to give him more than $200 from the cash register.

Two scout car policemen picked up a suspect a short time later while he was trying to hitch a ride on U. S. 1, just south of Alexandria.

Police said the suspect was a 19-year-old Fort Belvoir, Va. soldier.

Summer Sessions Open Thursday In Arlington Schools

Arlington County will open four elementary schools for a six-week summer school session beginning Thursday, with admission only for remedial work in reading and arithmetic.

The Robert E. Lee, Wooodrow Wilson, Patrick Henry and Nellie Custis Schools will be open. Thomas Jefferson will be the only junior high school open for summer courses, with classes running from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Washington-Lee and Hoffman-Boston High Schools will have summer classes from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. on weekdays. Night school classes, beginning Monday at Washington-Lee, will be held from 6:30 to 10:30 p. m. four days a week during the first half of the term, Monday through Friday the second four weeks.

Wasn't a Joke

Bandit Gets $200 From Chinese Shop

A nervous bandit robbed the proprietor of a Chinese imported-goods shop last night of about $200 after first closing the Venetian blinds of the store.

Henry Fong, 35, proprietor of the Mei Jew Trading Co., 713 H st. nw., said he thought a friend was playing a joke when he noticed the blinds were pulled and heard a voice saying, "See what I have in my hand."

Fong knew it was no joke though, he said, when the bandit moved closer and showed him a .32-caliber revolver.

The intruder ordered Fong into the toilet to remove his trousers containing his wallet after the proprietor said he was alone.

At this point, Grover Nicholas, of 518 H st. nw., a friend who often visits the store, came from a back room. He attempted to strike the bandit from behind with an ash tray, he said, but was seen by the robber, who turned on him with the revolver.

Fong, inside the toilet, heard the cock of the pistol and dashed into the room, throwing the money on a table in front of the robber, who seized it and fled.

"That man was more scared than I was," Fong said, "and I was afraid he would shoot Nick. So I just threw the money at him."

Fong described the bandit as a curly-haired Filipino, about 5 feet 5 inches, 120 pounds, and wearing khaki trousers and gray shirt.

Earlier in the day a scar-faced bandit yesterday robbed a District cab driver of $43 and eluded Washington and Montgomery County police.

The cabbie, James Tapscott of 1354 Columbia rd. nw., told police the bandit entered his cab at 4th and T sts. nw. He asked to be taken to Glen Echo Amusement Park after Tapscott admitted in response to a question he could change a $20 bill.

Arriving in Cabin John, the passenger riding in the front seat stuck a blue-steel automatic in Tapscott's ribs and said: "This is it."

After taking the money, the robber took the car keys and disconnected the two-way radio in the cab, Tapscott said.

$150-a-Week Maintenance Plea Denied

If Mrs. Ellene Diana Latta Lawrence can afford to stay at the Statler Hotel, she can't be too close to poverty, Judge Matthew F. McGuire decided yesterday in District Court.

"I doubt if anybody could live at the Statler Hotel for less than $5 a day," Judge McGuire remarked as he denied Mrs. Latta Lawrence's request for $150-a-week separate maintenance from her estranged husband, Navy Capt. Harold Alexander Latta Lawrence.

Actually, the judge put the price a bit too low. The Statler rates start at $5.50 a day.

Before making his ruling, Judge McGuire was told that Mrs. Latta Lawrence is receiving about $300 a month from another source and is now a guest at the Statler.

It was brought out in court that the $300 a month has been supplied Mrs. Latta Lawrence by an elderly friend and benefactor, Dr. Frank Hammer, 74, of Hollywood, wealthy retired dentist.

Hammer was injected into the Latta Lawrence domestic dispute recently when Capt. Latta Lawrence charged in an affidavit that his wife introduced Hammer as her uncle to cover up the fact they were living together illicitly.

Through Mrs. Latta Lawrence's attorney, David Cobb, Hammer replied in an affidavit that the charges were "utterly false" and that he and his wife, who died in 1946, had considered Mrs. Latta Lawrence as practically a daughter for many years.

At yesterday's hearing, Cobb told the court that his client hopes to leave soon for California because her living expenses there will be smaller.

2000 to Attend Tall Cedars Rite

Nearly 2000 Tall Cedars of Lebanon from all parts of the East are expected to take part in an institution ceremony tonight in which the new Prince Georges Forest No. 139 will be welcomed into the lodge.

The ceremony will be held at the University of Maryland in Ritchie Coliseum and Dr. Harry C. Byrd, university president, will be host. The ceremony starts at 7:30 p. m.

A parade at 6:30 p. m. will precede the ceremony. The parade will form at Queen's Chapel rd. and Baltimore blvd., College Park, and move down Baltimore blvd.

'Jerk Sodas, Drive Cab'

Judge Lambastes Ex-Officer, Orders Him to Support Ill Son

A former lieutenant commander was lambasted yesterday in District Court for the life of a "gentleman of leisure" instead of supporting his child.

Judge Matthew F. McGuire ordered the wartime officer to "jerk sodas" or drive a cab if necessary and to stop sponging off his friends.

Object of the judge's ire was Farnham Blair, 38, who was schooled at Harvard, Virginia and Southeastern Universities but who says he makes only $60 a month as a self-employed patent searcher.

His former wife, Anne Denton Blair, 34-year-old radio program director, 1901 Wyoming ave. nw., obtained a limited divorce from him last year.

Her attorneys, Lewis H. Shapiro and Whitford Cheston, told the court Blair has failed to keep up $100-a-month maintenance payments ordered for his son, Farnham Denton Blair, 6. The boy was stricken with infantile paralysis last fall and the mother has had to foot his medical bills.

When Blair blamed his wife for the boy's illness, saying she allowed him to swim in pools here during last summer's polio epidemic, Judge McGuire shouted:

"That's right, blame it on somebody else! You ought to be ashamed. You have never finished anything. College, law school, and you get married and won't support your wife and child."

"But she has an independent income of her own," Blair protested.

"And she is willing to effect a reconciliation and you are not—you don't want to be bothered," replied the judge.

Blair started to protest again and the judge continued:

"Try to be a man before you ruin yourself completely. You are not a dope. You can get a job. Work around the patent office in the daytime if you want. But get a job at night. Jerk sodas at Peoples or drive a cab. But get a job."

With that, Judge McGuire told Blair he need only pay $50 a month to his wife this summer, but must clear up the boy's doctor bills. On September 6, Blair must report back to the court.

According to Shapiro, Blair once made $12,000 a year, largely from work received from a New York law firm with which his family was connected. But a member of the firm said in an affidavit, "The best quality of work could not be performed by a man under the stress of marital difficulties."

Blair had asked for the boy's custody for the summer so they could vacation at one of his family's three summer homes—at Darien, Conn., Tolland or Nantucket, Mass.

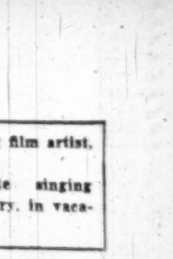
In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Blair said her spouse blackened her eye, attempted to seize the child from her and deserted her. Blair admitted leaving, but said it was for a "rest" from her nagging.

According to court papers, Mrs. Blair has a monthly deficit of more than $200. She has a $110-a-month apartment, pays $25 a week for a maid and sends her child to Beauvoir School.

Silver Spring Driver, Hurt In Car-Truck Crash, Dies

Home In Southeast Struck for Second Time in Two Days By Skidding Auto

Harvey G. Zwally, 64, 927 Gist ave., Silver Spring, died at George Washington University Hospital yesterday as result of an auto-truck crash Thursday.



Zwally

His auto was in collision with a trailer attached to a Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. truck, at Georgia ave. and East-West hwy., Silver Spring.

Zwally, who was manager of the Ayares Small Loan Co., 7902 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, was a native of Rothsville, Pa. He had lived in Greater Washington for 16 years, and had been associated with the loan company for 12.

He was a member of Masonic and Odd Fellows Lodges in Reading, Pa.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Minnie K. Zwally; a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Johnson of West Chester, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. Parke Martin of Lancaster, Pa.

Funeral services and burial will be in Reading Tuesday.

Perry E. Banton, 21, of 406 Eastern ave. ne., was treated for shock at Gallinger Hospital after a collision between his car and one earlier reported to police as stolen from Louis L. Lee, Gambrills rd., Anne Arundel County, Md. The crash occurred at 49th st. and Sheriff rd. ne. The stolen car was driven immediately from the scene.

The home of Henry C. Settle, 2437 Nichols ave. se., was hit for the second time in two days by a skidding car. Thursday morning, a bus went over the curb and caved in a wall. Yesterday, a car driven by Daniel R. Thompson, also missed the turn in front of the home and skidded into it, according to police. Thompson, who lives at 3320 Oxon Hill rd. se., was treated for cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Nora Plant, 61, of 1313 Rhode Island ave. ne., was critically injured at 3 p. m. when she was struck by an automobile while trying to cross at the intersection of 14th st. and Rhode Island ave. ne. The driver, police said, was George V. Becraft, 33, of 209 20th st. ne.

Mrs. Plant is in Casualty Hospital with a possible cerebral concussion and possible fractured right leg.

Another pedestrian casualty was Eleanor D. Robinson, 39, of 1459 F st. nw. She was reported in good condition at Freedmen's Hospital with a hip injury after being struck by a cab at 6 p. m. at W. Executive ave. and State pl. nw., just behind the White House. Police identified the cab driver as Carl S. Long, 42, of 803 Massachusetts ave. ne.

William O. Wood, 20, of 1322 15th st. nw., was struck by an automobile as he attempted to cross 15th st. near his home about 5:30 p. m. He was admitted to Emergency Hospital with multiple injuries. His condition was undetermined.

Driver of the automobile was identified by police as William E. Lowty, 37, of 4230 2d st. ne.

Mrs. Julia Johnston, 65, of 1219½ C st. ne., suffered possible back injuries when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with another at 10th and F sts. ne. She was admitted to Casualty Hospital in an undetermined condition.

Child's Suffocation Ruled Accidental

A verdict of accidental suffocation was returned yesterday by District Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald in the death of 4-month-old Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig From, 637 K st. sw.

The child was found unconscious in his crib, where he was ill, and efforts of a rescue squad to revive him failed.

Dr. Sterling Ruffin Leaves Estate Valued At $280,000

Dr. Sterling Ruffin, prominent Washington physician who died here June 1, left an estate of $280,000, it was disclosed yesterday when a petition for probate of his will was filed in District Court.

The will contained specific bequests totaling about $50,000 to friends, relatives, servants and four boys who were named for him.

The will disposes of the residue in this manner:

Janie Ruffin Sims, a niece, of Richmond, during her lifetime will receive the income from 20 per cent of the residue.

George Washington University receives another 20 per cent for its medical school and hospital.

Another 20 per cent will establish a trust for the benefit of Mrs. Annie Ruffin Sims Wallerstein of Richmond.

The District Medical Society receives 7½ per cent for relief of ill or superannuated members.

The Graduate Nurses Society receives 5 per cent.

The remaining 27½ per cent is to be shared by relatives, servants and friends.

After the death of Janie Ruffin Sims, according to the terms of the will, her share of the residue will be shared equally by Children's Hospital, the University of North Carolina, the Washington Home for Incurables, the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation and the District Medical Society.

The trust set up for Mrs. Wallerstein is to continue after her death, being shared by her lineal descendants.

In the event of the death of all lineal descendants, this trust will be dissolved and shared equally by the Episcopal Church Home, the Florence Crittenden Home and the House of Mercy, all of Washington, and the Thompson Orphanage and Training Institution of Charlotte, N. C.

Bats Are Found to Conceive Three Months After Mating

The bat, or at least one common species of the flying mammals, can achieve conception as long as three months after mating, a California biologist reported here yesterday.

The fact, long suspected by those who have studied bats, has at long last been proved, said Dr. Robert T. Orr, associate professor of biology at the University of California and an authority on bats.

He disclosed his findings at the closing session of the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the American Society of Mammalogists, at the United States National Museum.

Dr. Orr described experiments he has conducted since 1947 on Pallid bats, a common Western species of the flying insect-eaters. The fact was empirically (by observation) proved when he isolated a female bat after mating.

Though it is well known that the gestation period (from fertilization to birth) of this bat is but two months, she gave birth to her young five months after the mating, he told the mammalogists. This means, he interpreted, that the male sperm remained active within her for three months before fertilization occurred.

Other tests proved the same fact, he said.

Walter Reed Adds 2 Speech Pathologists

Two local speech pathologists have been added to the staff of Walter Reed General Hospital's audiology and speech correction center, at Forest Glen, Md., it was announced.

They are Ann Murphy, of 815 Richmond ave., Silver Spring, Md., and Fruma Erkes, of 1506 Sharon dr., also in Silver Spring. Both received their B.A. degrees from Maryland University.

Area News in Brief

Pentagon Parking Spots Reshuffled

Another shuffle in parking allocations at the Pentagon is to take place next Thursday, but generals, admirals and civilian "brass" are assured of choice spots.

The reallocation was necessary, it was explained, because of personnel turnover since the last parking space assignments were made and the heavy influx of Navy officers and workers. There are about 23,500 persons now working in the Pentagon but figures were not available on the number of cars parked there.

The new order follows the same lines set down in a previous parking space allocation. The choice parking spaces at the river, mall and south entrances will be reserved for general and flag officers and top-ranking civilian employes.

Portions of the north and south parking areas have been allocated to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, the Army, Navy and Air force and each will assign parking spaces to its personnel.

Issued By PBA

Pentagon Police Get New Rules

A new set of rules and regulations clarifying authority of Public Building Administration police have been put into effect at the Pentagon.

The new rules, issued by PBA under authority of a 1948 Act of Congress, cover gambling, traffic offenses, use of whisky in the building, taking of dogs into the building or making pictures without permission. Violations of State and local laws in any field where the Federal Government has not legislated are also illegal.

Officials said the authority of Pentagon policemen to enforce PBA regulations had previously been questionable.

Stanley King, United States commissioner for northern Virginia, will hear cases of violations on Monday and Thursday afternoons at the Pentagon. Offenders in the past have been taken to his Alexandria office for hearing.

Fireman Admits AWOL

Pvt. Richard W. Green, District fireman charged with failure to report for duty from May 1 to June 5, yesterday pleaded guilty before a Fire Department Trial Board.

Assistant Corporation Counsel George F. Bonnella presented the evidence against Green. Green lives at 2116 South Oakland st., Arlington, and is assigned to No. 4 Engine House. He has been on the force four years.

The board took the matter under advisement.

Bouncing Checks Costly

A disposition for "buying drinks for the house" yesterday sent Newton Saunders, jr., 30, to jail for 240 days. He was sentenced by Judge Ellen K. Raedy of Municipal Court for passing two worthless $35 checks.

The judge said she was inclined toward putting Saunders on probation until his father pointed out that continual drinking is at the heart of the son's troubles. The father said his son becomes nasty toward those who cross him but generous toward his fellow drinkers.

Tax Job Declined

Edward McLean, Wyoming State sales tax expert, yesterday informed District Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent he will not be able to accept an appointment as consultant on the District's sales tax program.

Employment of McLean for two weeks at the rate of $25 per working day was authorized this week by the District Commissioners.

Rent Increase Sought for 3 Apartments

Requests for rent increases were filed with the District Rent Control Administration yesterday by operators of three Northwest section apartment houses.

The Monmouth Apartments, 1819 G st. nw., requested a boost on 115 units. Present rents range from $38 a month for two-room apartments to $92.50 for six-room units. Proposed rents are from $47.50 to $112.50.

Harvard Hall, 1650 Harvard st. nw., asked for a rise on 108 apartments. Forty-two other units were granted increases earlier. Present rents range from $50 a month for 2½-room units to $85 for 4½-room apartments. Proposed rents are from $60 to $102.

The Sherry Apartments, 2702 Wisconsin ave. nw., requested a rent boost on 56 of 77 apartments. Present rents range from $54 for 1½ rooms to $67.50 for three rooms. Proposed rents are from $62.50 to $77.63.

Bill Introduced To Establish Minerals Board

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) yesterday introduced a bill to establish a minerals conservation board with broad authority to map programs for conserving the Nation's mineral resources and developing new ones.

He said it would supplement the Nation's metals stockpiling program at a time when falling metal prices "threaten a widespread closing of mines and a serious drop in the production of domestic metals and minerals."

The proposed board would be made up of Secretaries of Interior, Defense, Commerce and Treasury. They would authorize programs to be carried out by the Interior Department, including contracts for the development of new sources of metals.

Mrs. Keleher Refused More Maintenance

The crimp in operations suffered by most gamblers in the District as result of District Attorney Fay's investigation have upped the income of John T. Keleher from $30,000 a month to $57,000 a month, his wife charged in District Court yesterday. But it didn't get her an increase over the $100 a week maintenance he pays her.

Judge Matthew F. McGuire refused an increase she sought, refused additional attorney's fees, and declined to hear testimony on her allegations.

The Kelehers last January engaged in a spectacular dual divorce suit, each seeking a legal separation from the other. Mrs. Keleher charged that her husband is a 'king-pin" among gamblers here. Both petitions for divorce were denied and she was awarded the $100-a-week maintenance. She claimed in her petition for increased maintenance that she needs a $3000 operation.

Margaret Goes With Truman on Weekend Cruise

Others in the party included Secretary of Defense Stephen T. Early; John R. Steelman, the presidential assistant, and Mon C. Wallgren, former Governor of Washington, a close personal friend whose nomination as chairman of the National Security Resources Board was withdrawn in the face of strong Senate opposition.

Two secretaries, Charles G. Ross and William D. Hassett, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the President's personal physician, and Charles S. Murphy and David Stowe, administrative assistants, also were aboard.

The yacht was scheduled to anchor last night off Blakiston Island, some 40 miles down the Potomac. The party is scheduled to return here Sunday afternoon.

Rabbi's Wife Gets Year In Smuggling Of Cut Diamonds

New York, June 17 (U.P.).—Mrs. Fanny Keller, 45-year-old wife of a Chicago rabbi and mother of three children, was sentenced today to a year in jail for smuggling $73,480 in cut diamonds into the United States from the Netherlands last year.

Mrs. Keller, pleaded no contest before Federal Judge Leo T. Rayfiel. A 10-day stay of execution was granted at the request of Defense Attorney Nahum A. Bernstein, who said his client already had been punished by bringing "disgrace and dishonor" on herself and her family. He also claimed that she had not profited by the smuggling attempt.

The diamonds were found in the false lining of one of Mrs. Keller's three bags at La Guardia Field last August 5. She said she had borrowed the bag from a brother-in-law in Chicago and did not know the stones were there.

Her husband is Abraham Keller, an assistant rabbi and cantor at a Chicago synagogue.

Takoma Seeks 5 Policemen

The Takoma Park (Md.) City Council is seeking applicants for five positions on the Takoma Park police force.

With the withdrawal of the Montgomery County police from the city's station, under a new law adopted by the county council effective August 16, there are openings for three desk clerks and two patrolmen. The jobs will pay $2400 a year to start.

Applications may be left at the police station, 500 Maple ave., in care of Lieut. C. E. Thomas, chief of police.

Shrine Parade Model Set For Dedication

An electrically operated parade, imitating typical Shriners' convention parades, will be officially dedicated Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Shrine room of the George Washington Memorial Temple in Alexandria.

The model parade, manufactured at a cost of $25,000, is to be displayed in a case 28 feet long and about four and a half feet high. Idea for the museum was conceived by a past potentate, Alfred G. Arvold of Fargo, N. Dak.

Ground floor inside the case is in the form of a stadium, with an oval track or road. A miniature of the Taj Mahal stands at one end, on the platform of which the Imperial Divan, past Imperial Potentates and others review the parade.

The parade itself is made up of five divisions, and features clowns, drum majors, automobiles, drill teams, drum and bugle corps and mounted patrols. The parade lasts eight minutes.

The parade model will be placed in Room B of the shrine rooms.

Father's Day Set For Safe-Driving Teen-Age Pledges

District teen-agers will be asked to give their fathers safe-driving pledges as Father's Day gifts.

The campaign which will be launched Sunday, on Father's Day, is sponsored by District auto dealers who are members of the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Miss Keneipp

First to sign a safety pledge was 17-year-old Marjorie Keneipp, Immaculate Seminary student and daughter of George E. Keneipp, director of vehicles and traffic.

The printed agreement being distributed by the Washington Automotive Trade Association pledges teen-age sons and daughters to obey certain rules of traffic safety in return for the right to drive the family car.

Wisconsin Ave. Widening One Step Nearer

Long-awaited widening of Wisconsin ave. in nearby Montgomery County and elimination of the traffic "bottleneck" in Bethesda apparently got a final "go ahead" yesterday.

The heavily-traveled thoroughfare will be widened to 70 feet from curb to curb beteen East-West hwy. and Glenbrook dr. at an estimated cost of about $750,000, officials said. Completion is expected by the end of the year.

Montgomery County's share of the cost will be about $200,000 with the State bearing the remainder, it was said.

Negotiations for the project dating back 10 years, bogged down about a year ago because of disagreements between a few property owners, the county and the State over acquisition of necessary rights of way.

County Manager I. G. McNayr of Montgomery County disclosed this yesterday after returning from a conference with Chairman Robert M. Reindollar of the State's Road Commission.

The estimated $200,000 in county funds will be spent for outside curbs and gutters, storm drainage and sidewalks as well as purchase of some of the rights of way, McNayr said.

A contract for the job, expected to get under way soon, will be let as soon as agreement on property dedications are reached with the few remaining owners or condemnation suits are filed, he said.

D. C. Radio 'Hams' To Join National Field Day Sunday

More than 50 Washington "hams" will join the nation's radio amateurs today and Sunday in a disaster communication drill.

With battery or gas-driven generators, the amateurs will set up radio receivers and transmitters at neighboring vantage points in a test of amateur emergency communications facilities.

The "Field Day" is sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, the "ham's" national association.

Participating groups include the Washington Radio Club, operating in Southwest; the Potomac Valley Radio Club, near Reading, Pa., the Rock Creek Amateur Radio Association in Boyds, Md., and the Washington Mobile Radio Club operating out of moving automobiles.

Power Shutdown To Be Averted, Cooperative Says

Hughesville, Md., June 17 (AP).—The Southern Maryland Electric Cooperative said today there won't be a power shutdown if its union employes strike Monday.

Local 70, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, has threatened to strike if its demands for a 15 per cent wage increase and dismissal of nonunion workers are not met.

The cooperative said enough linemen and maintenance workers will stay on the job to keep current flowing in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles and Prince Georges County.

General Manager Forrest Coakley said both sides are standing pat on both the wage and union shop issue.

Chickasha Negro Woman Wins Fight To Enter Okla. U.

Norman, Okla., June 17 (AP).—Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, Chickasha Negro woman, today won her three-year fight to study law at the University of Oklahoma.

Only yesterday Mrs. Fisher had been denied enrollment. The refusal was because the Langston law school at the State capital, started 18 months ago to keep her out of the university, is still technically in operation.

However, the Langston school will be closed June 30 when funds for its operation run out.

Chancellor M. A. Nash of the board of regents for higher education solved Mrs. Fisher's problem today when he advised Cross to enroll her. It would be impossible, he said, for Mrs. Fisher to begin her course at the Langston school now and then transfer to the University of Oklahoma after June 30.

Deadline for summer enrollment at the university is tomorrow noon.

A law passed by the last State Legislature permits Negroes to attend white colleges in Oklahoma where courses sought are not offered at Langston University, the State's only school of higher education for Negroes. However, they must attend on a segregated basis.

Fram Due to Hang July 8 in Hatchet Slaying of Grocer

Annapolis, Md., June 17 (AP).—Howard Andrew Fram, 32-year-old baker's helper who admitted killing an aged Baltimore grocer with a hatchet blow, will be hanged July 8, the State House announced today.

A spokesman said Governor Lane has signed a death warrant for the man who waited on customers in the neighborhood grocery after concealing his victim's body beneath packing crates.

Fram, who lived in Kensington, pleaded guilty to the hatchet attack on 77-year-old George Lehr a week before Christmas of 1947. He was sentenced to die three months later.

Fram pleaded he had just lost his job, suspected his wife of "running around" and needed money to buy Christmas presents for his two children.

'Y' Forum to Hear Turner on His 30 Years in Orient

"Filipinos, Japanese and Americans" will be the topic next Sunday at 9 a. m. at the International Crossroads Forum assembly at Central YMCA, 1736 G st. nw.

The principal speaker will be E. Stanton Turner, just returned from the Orient, where for 30 years he served as YMCA secretary in various stations. Turner is now in this country on a lecture tour, under auspices International Rotary, Kiwanis and other organizations.

He will display photographs of the Far East.

Women's Federation Of Area Meets Today

The annual conference of the Washington and Vicinity Federation of Women's Clubs will be held today at the YWC Annex, 1719 13th st., nw. Mrs. Margaret Haywood Hawthorne, Washington attorney, will be the luncheon speaker. A panel discussion of legislation, housing, health and youth problems will follow.

Ex-Governor Comstock of Michigan Dies

Alpena, Mich., June 17 (AP).—William A. Comstock, 71, Governor of Michigan in 1933-34, died last night in Alpena General Hospital.

Mr. Comstock

Mr. Comstock, a Democrat, suffered a stroke May 24 while on a vacation. He had been hospitalized since then.

He was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Governor in 1926, 1928 and 1930, when Michigan was solidly Republican. But in 1932 he was elected in the Democratic landslide.

In 1933, when Michigan was in the depths of the depression, he declared an eight-day banking holiday that closed 580 banks in the State. This was the start of the national bank holiday.

He became embroiled in an intraparty feud over patronage matters in 1934, refused to campaign and was defeated in the gubernatorial primary.

He remained out of politics until 1940, when he was elected to the Detroit City Council. He was re-elected four times.

Mr. Comstock inherited a fortune from his father. It was largely dissipated by investments. During World War I and the early postwar period, however, he built up his financial reserves through Detroit real estate dealings and the sugar beet industry.

That money he poured into the rebuilding of the Democratic Party in Michigan. Then, after leaving politics, Comstock again amassed a sizable fortune—this time through oil investments.

Funeral services and burial will be held Saturday at Alpena, Comstock's native town.

Milton Thomas Harrison

Bedford, Va., June 17.—Milton Thomas Harrison, 91, former town councilman and veteran newspaper editor, died at his home here last night.

Mr. Harrison was editor and publisher of the Bedford Democrat from January 9, 1892, until his retirement in April, 1948.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Main Street Methodist Church. Burial will be in Bedford Cemetery.

Surviving are three children: Milton T. Harrison, jr., Bedford; R. Lee Harrison, Richmond, and Mrs. Creed B. Taylor, White Gate, and two sisters, Mrs. George H. Easley and Mrs. William Dickenson, Bristol.

Also surviving are two half-brothers, Roscoe Harrison, Bristol, and Joe Harrison, Washington; two half-sisters, Mrs. Robert Gray of Bristol and Mrs. Hazeltine Berry, Kingsport, Tenn.; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Prince Georges Cracks Down On Fireworks

A Prince Georges County police warning against use of Fourth of July fireworks was emphasized yesterday with the arrest of three persons on charges of possessing illegal explosives.

Booked at the Hyattsville substation for hearing in Hyattsville Police Court June 23 were James Mizell, 717 61st ave., Hyattsville; Mrs. Phyllis Newhouse, 7212 New Hampshire ave., Takoma Park, and Morris Reinstein, 6907 New Hampshire ave., Takoma Park. Police said all were arrested after it was learned they were keeping fireworks, apparently for sale, at their respective places of business.

County police previously had warned that it is against the law to keep, sell or discharge any form of fireworks, including relatively harmless "sparklers." Violators may be punished by fines ranging from $50 to $200.

Citizen cooperation was requested yesterday by Fire Chief Clement Murphy in reducing "the terrible price of patriotism" in July 4 fireworks celebrations.

Chief Murphy said each year unapproved fireworks were unlawfully imported into the District despite the law which prohibits sale and setting off of all fireworks, except sparklers, torches, box fires, fountains, dip-sticks, non-poisonous snakes, colored lights and friction-type toy pistols.

Parents should caution their children not to throw spark-emitting fireworks and should not allow children with flimsy, readily ignitable clothing to handle fireworks.

Montgomery Man Held On Fireworks Charge

The arrest of James Davis, 40, of Lincoln Park, Md., for illegal sale of fireworks was reported yesterday by Montgomery County police.

Davis, a garage owner, was selling all types of fireworks, police said. The case was set for July 7 in Rockville Police Court and Davis posted $200 bond.

Boys Of Destitute Parents Caught In Purse Theft

Two Glen Echo Heights (Md.) boys, aged 10 and 13, whose respective parents were described as "almost destitute," were caught yesterday stealing a wallet containing $1.17 in the men's locker room of the Glen Echo swimming pool.

A hearing in Montgomery County Juvenile Court was set for next Wednesday and the boys were released in the custody of their parents.

One county official said the boys had been seen begging food in Glen Echo restaurants.

Mrs. Noble's Funeral Held; Ex-U. S. Aide

Private funeral services for Mrs. Anne Draper Noble of 3920 Legation st. nw., who died at Georgetown University Hospital Wednesday, were held at the residence yesterday afternoon. Burial will be in Waterloo, N. Y., a former home of the Draper family.

Mrs. Noble, a native of Muscatine, Iowa, worked in the Chemistry Division of the Department of Agriculture from 1903 until 1920. In 1908 she was admitted to the District Bar.

She left the Federal service and moved to Auburn, N. Y., when she was married to the late Henry D. Noble. Upon his death she returned to Washington.

She was a graduate of George Washington University and the Washington College of Law, and was a member of All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase circle; American Association of University Women and the Chevy Chase Women's Club.

Mrs. Noble is survived by a sister, Miss Cornelia A. Draper of the Legation st. address.

F. L. Finkenstaedt

Ferdinand L. Finkenstaedt, 78, retired lumberman and former resident of Washington for more than 25 years, died yesterday in Pasadena, Calif., where he had moved when he retired about 10 years ago.

Until that time he lived at 2400 16th st. nw. and was the owner of a lumber business in Wilmington, N. C. He was a member of the Columbia Country Club. A nephew, Edward R. Finkenstaedt, former president of the National Symphony Orchestra, lives at 3028 N st. nw.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Emma Kimball Finkenstaedt; two daughters, Margaret and Elizabeth Finkenstaedt, all of Pasadena, and two sons, Kimball Finkenstaedt of Rockford, Ill., and Robert L. Finkenstaedt of Detroit.

Baron Avezzana

Rome, June 17 (U.P.). — Baron Camillo Romano Avezzana, 81, former Ambassador to Washington, Paris and Rio di Janeiro, died yesterday at his home in Eboli, a dispatch said today.

Baron Avezzana served in Washington in 1897 and again in 1919.

Robertson Seeks Probe of Miners' Fund, Coal Prices

Senator Robertson (D., Va.) said yesterday he wants to broaden a forthcomng Senate Banking Committee inquiry to cover prices and profits in the coal industry and the miners' welfare fund.

The committee voted earlier this week to investigate a proposal by some coal operators to name a chief industry negotiator to deal with John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers.

The inquiry was suggested by Robertson, a member of the banking group. He said some small, independent operators feel that such an arrangement would lead to a monopoly and violate the anti-trust laws.

The Virginia Senator said yesterday that the investigation will start about June 29, instead of next Monday as planned originally.

Two Bandits Fleeing With Loot, Killed

Howells, Nebr., June 17 (AP).—Two bandits, fleeing with $75,000 in jewelry loot, were killed late today in a gun battle after police trapped them on a country road.

Sheriff Edward P. Patach was hit in both hands as he blasted at the gunmen's car with a shotgun.

State highway police said tonight they had not yet identified the dead men.

Naval Librarian Here Heads National Group

Los Angeles, June 17 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth H. Hooker, librarian at the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, was installed today as president of the Special Libraries Association.

Others installed as the group's fortieth annual convention closed were Mrs. Elizabeth W. Owens, St. Louis, Mo., first vice president and president-elect; Miss Beatrice V. Simon, Montreal, Quebec, second vice president; Miss Estelle Broadman, New York, and Paul Gay, University of Pennsylvania, directors.

David Kessler, Detroit, was re-elected treasurer.

Fact Finders Rule Out Communism In Strike

Honolulu, June 17 (AP).—A fact-finding board today refused to consider communism as an issue in Hawaii's 48-day waterfront strike.

The striking CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union insisted the board determine if the strike "is part of a Communist plot or conspiracy."

The union said it wanted the matter settled because various commentators and employer representatives had said communism was behind the strike. Employers argued the only issue was wages.

The board, appointed by Gov. Ingram M. Stainback, agreed with the employer view.

In Bridal Procession

Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill Stoneborough yesterday became the bride of Constantine Brown at the Chevy Chase home of Representative and Mrs. Ken Regan of Texas. The Hon. Marvin Jones, chief justice of the United States Court of Claims, officiated. Mrs. Regan was the bride's attendant and Frank Gannon 3d, son-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

For the ceremony, which was attended by the family and close friends of the couple, the bride wore a pale flesh color formal afternoon gown with a large lace hat and long mitts to match. She carried pink butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mrs. Warner L. Churchill of New York City and the late Mr. Churchill. She attended Miss Spence's School in New York and Oldfields in Glencoe, Md.

Mr. Brown, foreign affairs editor of the Washington Star and a syndicated columnist, is the father by a previous marriage of Mrs. Gannon, Mrs. Frank Roudybush, whose husband is United States Consul at Strasbourg, France, and Constantine Pirie Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will make their home at the Westchester Apartments in Washington.

Dawson—Bastian

Miss Patricia Rose Bastian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Frederick Bastian of Washington, was married last evening at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Chevy Chase, Md., to Clifford Henry Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Dawson of Chevy Chase, Md. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Charles Lowry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin and a veil of rosepoint and duchess lace. She carried a fan of rosepoint lace with a white orchid.

Following a reception at the Congressional Country Club, the couple left for a wedding trip to Columbus, Ohio, Chicago and Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Dawson will make their home in Washington. The bride attended Rollins College and is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Theta Alpha Phi Honorary Dramatic Fraternity and Phi Beta Honorary Speech and Music Fraternity.

The bridegroom attended Lehigh University and is a member of Psi Upsilon. He was in the United States Navy three years and is now employed by an export firm in Washington.

Major—Mann

The marriage of Miss Loretta Rosemary Mann to Charles David Major took place June 11 at the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Albert Mann of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. Major is the son of Mrs. Charles Edward Major and the late Mr. Major of Washington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore off-white satin and carried a white orchid surrounded with white gladioli and stephanotis. Miss Elizabeth M. Ryder was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Helen M. Misenar, Miss Doris M. Dale and Miss Anne E. Comerford. The best man was Kenneth C. O'Leary of Elmira, N. Y., and the ushers included A. William Parks, Frank Rowl, William C. Liehe and James J. Mann. A wedding breakfast followed at the Iron Gate Inn. The couple will reside in Washington on return from the wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains.

Mrs. Major was graduated from the Catholic University School of Nursing and served during the war with the Navy Nurse Corps. Her husband is an Army veteran.

Lose—Woodburn

Miss Martha Ann Woodburn and John Johnson Lose were married June 11 at Trinity Episcopal Church in Williamsport, Pa. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodburn of Williamsport, and Mr. Lose is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lose of Harrisburg, Pa.

Mrs. Lose wore lace and satin. Mrs. Russell Curry was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Williams, Miss Doris Wellenkomp, Miss Catherine Elizabeth Hill, Miss Elizabeth Koch and Miss Mary Ann Shimer. Robert Lose was his brother's best man.

Guests were seated by Richard Lose, James Comerford, James Stumbaugh, David Fawcett and Kenneth Stevens. The newlyweds will live in Lewisburg, Pa., following their wedding trip to Philadelphia, Pa., and Bayhead, N. J.

Mrs. Lose is in her junior year at Bucknell University, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She attended Sidwell Friends School and was graduated from Mount Vernon Seminary. The bridegroom also is a junior at Bucknell. His fraternity is Phi Kappa Psi.

Griffith—Blake

Miss Custis Winifred Blake became the bride of William Oscar Griffith on June 10 at the Washington Cathedral. Mrs. Griffith is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Custis Wilson Blake, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bessie Griffith of Alexandria, Va.

Canon Crawford W. Brown performed the ceremony and Hunter Houston Blake gave his sister in marriage. She wore white lace and carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Edward R. Clark was matron of honor, and Miss Louise Brown, Miss Dorothy Detrick, Miss Margaret Gillies and Miss Martha Edgerton were bridesmaids. The best man was Albert Pearson and the ushers included Alan Thompson, James B. Boxley, Robert Leith and West Pearson. Following the reception at the Wardman Park Hotel, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla. They will be at home in Washington.

Hubben—Crane

Miss Mary Lois Crane, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Ruhl Crane, was married June 11 at Friends Meeting House to Herbert Hubben, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hubben of Bucks County, Pa. Miss Jean Allison Marsh was maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, Klaus Hubben, served as best man. Ushering were James Shaw and Consilio Sodano.

Following their New England honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Hubben will live in Ithaca, N. Y. Both attended Antioch College. Mr. Hubben is taking graduate work at Cornell University.

Glosau

MRS. R. LOUIS ROGERS

. . . Diplomat's daughter weds

Miss Elisabeth June Wrong, daughter of the Ambassador of Canada to Washington and Mrs. Hume Wrong, was married late yesterday afternoon in Bethlehem Chapel, Washington Cathedral, to R. Louis Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. F. Rogers of Toronto, Canada. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Leslie Glenn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of imported French lace over a satin underskirt. The gown had a fitted bodice, long sleeves and high Chinese neckline. She carried gardenias.

A reception was held at the Canadian Embassy, following which the couple left for a wedding trip to New England and Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will make their home in Ottawa, Canada, after October. The bride is a graduate of Toronto University and has been taking graduate work at George Washington University. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Toronto University. He was an officer in the Canadian army and has served two years in the Department of External Affairs, being now assigned to Washington.

On the Party Calendar . . .

MEMBERS of the Navy in handsome gold-braided uniform attended a reception yesterday afternoon given by Commodore Pedro Pascual, chief of the Cuban Navy, and Senora de Pascual. The commodore and his wife, who are in Washington at the invitation of the United States Navy, arrived here Tuesday.

The Louis Seize Room at the Shoreham Hotel, where the reception was held, was made gay by red gladiolis, yellow roses and white carnations, as well as by the pretty gowns and hats of the ladies present.

Among the guests were Admiral and Mr. Louis Denfeld, Vice Admiral and Mrs. A. D. Struble, Rear Admiral and Mrs. T. B. Inglis, Rear Admiral and Mrs. E. T. Woodridge, Rear Admiral and Mrs. J. E. Maher, Rear Admiral and Mrs. C. T. Durgin, Rear Admiral and Mrs. C. B. Momsen, Rear Admiral and Mrs. J. L. Holloway, Vice Admiral and Mrs. W. M. Fechteler, Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. H. McLean, Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. F. Boone, Vice Admiral and Mrs R. B. Carney, and Rear Admiral and Mrs. E. D. Foster.

The Ambassador of Cuba and Senora de Gans were there, as were Dr. Gonzalo Guell, the Representative from Cuba to the Organization of American States, and his wife.

From the State Department set were Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Price.

Also Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. O. Spears, Rear Admiral and Mrs. O. B. Hardison, Mr. and Mrs. William Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Woodward, Capt. de Navio J. Aguila Ruiz, Mr. and Mrs. Einar T. Anderson, Senora Flora Fernandez Vda. de Cadenas, Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. Fitch, Comdr. and Mrs. Carl B. Klein and Capt. and Mrs. K. W. Heinrich.

Miss McCormick-Goodhart Honored By R. H. Wilmers

MISS ANSTISS McCORMICK-GOODHART was honored last evening at a dance given at the Chevy Chase Club by Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Wilmer. The debutante was presented to a group of older friends at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart, on June 10, and she will bow again at a dance at Christmas time.

At the party last night there were nearly 300 guests. Dancing had originally been planned on the terrace, but because of the weather, the party was brought inside. Sidney and his orchestra played/

Miss McCormick-Goodhart was dressed in white embroidered organdy over pale green taffeta. The skirt was very full and the dress had thin shoulder straps. Before the dance the debutante was also honored at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Flather, jr., at their home on Nebraska ave.

Miss Ann Cates, Marine Chief's Daughter, Bows

GEN. CLIFTON B. CATES, commandant of the Marine Corps, and Mrs. Cates, presented their daughter, Miss Ann Willis Cates, at a tea yesterday at their quarters, from 6 to 8 o'clock. Flowers sent the debutante filled the house, and the Marine Corps Orchestra played bright music.

In the dining room, which was decorated with gardenias, coffee and champagne were served. Wives of former Commandants of the Marine Corps, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Thomas Holcomb and Mrs. Alexander Vandegrift, took turns pouring coffee. Other assistants of Mrs. Cates were Mrs. Louis E. Denfeld, Mrs. John Sullivan and Mrs. O. P. Smith.

Marine Corps Junior girls assisting the debutante were Miss Virginia Shepherd, Miss Baylor Diver, Miss Nancy Clement and Miss Jane Pollock. The party yesterday was mainly for older people, and Miss Cates will bow to a younger group at a dance December 30.

For her debut tea, Miss Cates wore a gown of white organdy tied with fuchsia sash and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Cates was gowned in light blue.

The debutante was graduated last week from Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. She was born in China and has lived all over the world.

A general's daughter makes her bow. Miss Ann Willis Cates, just out of Farmington, was presented yesterday by her parents, the Commandant of the Marine Corps and Mrs. Clifton Bledsoe Cates. She will bow again at Christmas time at a dance for young people

Ohio Ball Fans Get a Night to Howl

By Nicha Soure

WHETHER the rooters will be cheering Washington or Cleveland Thursday night at Griffith Stadium, they all will be applauding the talents of Ohio's native sons.

The Buckeye's figure it this way. Thursday night will be Ohio Night when the Washington Senators meet the Cleveland Indians at the old ball diamond. For the event, the Ohio State Society will have a block of seats reserved in the upper deck behind home plate.

It would be logical that the former residents of Ohio would yell for the Cleveland team, but if some want to cheer those Wondrous Nats it will be considered all right since the Senator's manager, Joe Kuhel, is a Cleveland man.

Among the distinguished Ohioans who will attend the game are Senator and Mrs. John W. Bricker and Representative and Mrs. Charles H. Elston.

But there is one "catch" for all the people who want to see the world's champions play the local club. Since there are only a limited number of seats, approximately 200, the society will sell tickets on a first come, first served basis. For reservations, contact John S. Bartlett, Michigan 6860, 2800 Woodley rd. nw.

Massachusetts Slates Picnic 'Rain or Shine'

The weather man will be ignored completelly Sunday, for the Massachusetts State Society will hold a picnic "rain or shine."

The first of three summer picnics will be held at Groove 23 in Rock Creek Park at noon Sunday. H. Stanley Taylor is general chairman of the picnic with Walter Stevens directing the sports events which will include volleyball and baseball. Mrs. Elvi Wallin and Mrs. Jesse Williams will be in charge of the refreshments table.

About Classes For Mothers-to-Be

I am expecting my first visit from the stork late this fall and wonder if you can tell me of any class about to get under way for expectant mothers in Washington or nearby Maryland?

A CONSTANT READER.

The Red Cross gives classes for expectant mothers every month Their next one starts Tuesday, June 14. The course will run for three weeks and meets from 7 to 9 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The Red Cross is also planning a daytime course in the near future. For information about a course to meet your needs I suggest you call the Red Cross Walsh House on Massachusetts ave. at Hobart 6800.

Also, you will get much helpful information from the recently released, completely revised edition of "Prenatal Care." The bulletin contains a complete discussion of every aspect of pregnancy. To receive it write to the Children's Bureau, Federal Security Agency, Washington 25, D. C.

Is there any place in Washington where one could learn the techniques of engraving silver, or whether there are any books that would be helpful to a beginner.

R. V. A.

I have not been able to find a school in Washington teaching silver engraving but the Adult Education Department of the Montgomery County School gives a course in jewelry, gem cutting and work with sterling. In the past they have not included silver engraving in the regular courses, but there is a possibility this might be included if the demand were great enough.

The classes are over for this school year, but will be resumed again in September. I suggest you contact the office of the Montgomery County Board of Education in Rockville sometime before September 1, if you are interested. The classes meet one night a week from 7 to 10, Monday through Thursday. Nominal registration and laboratory fees are charged for the course.

I have a perforated parchment shade which I used covered with the original tissue paper wrapping for some time. Now, I have removed the wrapping and find that the perforated design is all dented. Is there anything that I could apply on this parchment shade to straighten the dents which are only in the part of the perforations?

E. W.

The best suggestion I have would be to use a just warm iron to straighten the shade. Hold a thick pad of cloth back of the shade as you press it with the iron from the front. Be sure to hold the pad to the shade with the same amount of pressure you use to press to avoid denting it. It may also help to dampen the shade lightly with water before applying the iron. Take care to use the iron only warm—a hot iron would possibly change the color of the shade.

In connection with this, may I add that leaving the transparent cellophane on the shade for months will often pull it out of shape. The cellophane expands and contracts with changes in temperature and humidity. For this reason dealers who sell fine shades often recommend that the protective covering be removed.

I have some new chairs of split rattan. The label says they are moisture and rot proof. Nevertheless, they must need some form of protective coating. I have two young children who will put fingermarks on them. Can the rattan be washed over and over, or should I use a wax (what type?) or a clear lacquer? I want these chairs to be presentable later in other rooms in the house. They are now used on a dusty screen porch.

E. P.

You could either wax the chairs or go over them with a high grade colorless spar varnish. Repeated application of water should be avoided for this could make the surface more susceptible to absorption of soil. Before waxing or varnishing, go over the chairs with a soft brush or the brush attachment of the vacuum sweeper to remove every trace of dust. If there is any oil or grease on the surface which is not removed by brushing, wash the chairs with a mild soap and warm water, taking care to rinse thoroughly. Allow to completely dry in a dust free place.

If you apply wax, use a high grade paste or liquid wax, apply it in a thin coat, allow it to dry and buff well. It would be wise to apply several thin coats at the initial waxing to get good protection. Rewax whenever wax coat shows signs of wear.

If you choose to varnish, do it on a clear day just after a rain so that dust in the air will be at a minimum.

THE striking decorative effect in this smartly modern room is achieved by a combination of both wallpaper and draperies in the "Boomerang" design from the new Ben Rose collection. The wallpaper, in charcoal, with designs in stark white and muted dubonnet, blends with the translucent Celanese ninon fabric in white, with yellow and chartreuse boomerangs. Both wallpaper and fabrics are available at the Hecht Co.

Designer Matches Patterns Of Draperies and Coverings

DESIGNS that match in wallpaper, opaque fabric and sheer casement cloth made fashion news in Washington this week.

They're the work of Designer Ben Rose of Chicago, who has brought beautiful abstract modern patterns to the interior decorating field. Introduced at a preview here Tuesday they are now available at the Hecht Co.

The matching papers and fabrics haven't been worked out by Mr. Rose with the idea of splashing a single pattern monotonously across the same room. Instead, they are suggested for correlating drapery with an adjoining or opposite wall and perhaps picking up the design again on an upholstered chair.

You could use the translucent fabric—washable Celanese ninon painted with airy, linear designs—with heavier fabric of the same motif, however. Sheer glass curtains would then continue the same pattern as the side draperies, giving a most attractive and unusual effect.

Here are a few of the designs, all of which represent a "softening" of the modern spirit in that they are fluid and graceful, moderately scaled and very livable.

"Concourse" is a design suggested by an overhead view of intertwining boulevards. The wallpaper comes in softer shades than the strongly colored draperies, since it is intended as a subtle echo. Subdued combinations include pale yellow or gray, golden-tan on forest green, Copenhagen blue on beige, and white on beige.

"Yucatan," on the other hand, stems from primitive Mexican decorations and emerges dominantly in both wallpaper and fabric. It's designed to add dramatic spark to selected areas, has a vertically climbing, rectangular motif.

Preview of The Potomac Horse Show

They're readying things for the big event of the year out at the Potomac Hunt Club—the gala horse show coming June 26. Sunday's Post visits Mrs. August Kramm, a club member noted for her wardrobe of riding clothes, to get a picture preview of the costume she will don for the show. The camera story, with comment by Peggy Preston, makes an entertaining feature tomorrow in Section IV.

Washington Clubwomen To Study By Traveling

The ladies, too, want first hand knowledge of 1949 problems abroad! Some 25 local and national club leaders leave next Saturday for a round-the-world tour. Who they are, their travel plans and what they hope to accomplish are outlined for you this Sunday in another interesting Section IV story. Enjoy it tomorrow in

U. S., Israel Still Differ on Refugees

NYHT News Service

The State Department yesterday condemned, and Israel foreign office officials defended, Israel's refusal to yield on the issue of Palestine's Arab refugees. A two-hour discussion in the office of Acting Secretary of State James E. Webb ended with the diplomatic quarrel between the two countries as unresolved as ever.

The meeting, which was requested by the Israelis, was described as a full, frank, friendly and confidential review of current problems. This description was used to screen an argument. At least one of the half-dozen participants, Aubrey Eban, Israeli delegate to the United Nations, emerged perspiring from the air-conditioned office. Later in the day:

Hit U. S. "Interference"

1. Israeli sources, asking reporters not to identify them, criticized the work of the United Nations Conciliation Commission at Lausanne, which is deadlocked over the refugee issue. They condemned United States "interference," and proposed that the commission and the State Department transfer from Israel to the Arab nations their pressure to break the deadlock.

2. At the State Department, Mark Ethridge, retiring American member of the three-Nation U. N. Commission, declared that Israel's attitude on readmission of refugees remains responsible for the deadlock. Permitting himself to be identified, he criticized Israeli tactics at Lausanne, denied the commission had "pressured" anyone, and proposed that the commission recess to give both sides time to reconsider.

"If Israel does not change her position," Mr. Ethridge said, "the way out is very tortuous. If Israel would make some concession, I am relatively sure they would get a peace settlement."

Readmission Plan Asked

What the United States has asked is that Israel agree to readmission of some of the refugees, who number 560,000 to 800,000 or more, as a means to create the atmosphere in which Arab political leaders can get down to a final peace settlement. Under the proposed agreement, the larger proportion of the Arabs would be resettled in Arab states.

Participants in the meeting in the acting secretary's office included Webb, Mr. Ethridge, Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Eban, Reuven Shiloah of the Israeli Foreign Office, and Uriel Heyd, Charge d'Affaires at the Israeli Embassy. Shiloah, a right-hand man of Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett of Israel, is in this country on a tour of Israeli diplomatic missions.

Neither the State Department nor the Israelis would discuss what was said for the record. It was learned, however, that both stood firm on their arguments. Mr. Eban, in addition, outlined concessions in principle he said Israel made at Lausanne, and declared that the Arab states want delay in order to prepare for another round of war.

'I Slit 29 Throats

Partner Shot By Executive After Threat

Chicago, June 17 (U.P.).—Wealthy executive Carl A. Moore, 50, today shot his close friend who he said threatened him with a knife in mistaken jealousy over Moore's former wife.

The victim, former Army Capt. Robert E. McCall, 41, was taken to a hospital in serious condition from a bullet wound in the chest.

Moore claimed McCall waved a butcher knife at him and said, "I slit 29 Jap throats on Saipan, and now I'm going to slit yours."

A gun collector, Moore said he seized a .32 caliber pistol from behind a mirror as McCall advanced and shot him in self-defense.

Moore is president of the Aluminum Container Corp. and general manager of the Lavan Smelting Co., in which McCall is an associate.

Moore said McCall's apparent jealousy was groundless because he no longer has any interest in his former wife, Florence, 40, whom he divorced more than a ear ago.

In New York where she was on a buying trip for her dress shop here, Mrs. Moore said she also had no interest in her former husband. She said she had been going with McCall, but that they were "just friends."

The shooting occured in Moore's luxurious suburban home after the two men had been drinking gin most of the night.

Janas Returns Rickenbacker Offer With Bet

By the United Press

Sigmund Janas, president of Colonial Airlines, yesterday offered to take over Eddie Rickenbacker's Eastern Air Lines and run it at a saving to the Government and with increased earnings to stockholders.

He backed up the offer with a $25,000 wager that he could make good.

It was Janas' way of answering Rickenbacker's recent offer in a letter to the Senate Commerce Committee to take over Colonial and four other airlines and run them without any Federal subsidy. This way, Rickenbacker said, he could save the Government several millions of dollars a year.

Testifying before the committee, which is investigating airline finances, Janas called Rickenbacker's proposal "absurd." Colonial is the smallest trunk airline and is frankly subsidized. Eastern is one of the four largest, receives a mail pay rate, which the Government does not consider subsidy, and consistently turns in the largest profits in the industry.

Health Assembly Adopts Plan To Fight VD

Rome, Italy, June 17 (U.P.).—The second World Health Organization assembly adopted a "fight venereal diseases" plan today which would begin programs in underdeveloped areas and strengthen existing services throughout the world in 1950.

After reviewing documents showing that from 20 million to 100 million persons are infected by syphilis and about three times that number by gonorrhea, the assembly decided:

1. To help the United Nations International Children's Emergency fund fight against prenatal and infantile syphilis.

2. To draw up and advertise international health regulations.

3. To provide penicillin and other supplies to countries needing them.

4. To collaborate with the International Labor Organization to check the spread of venereal diseases by seamen and emigrants.

Incomplete statistics estimated at least two million persons are killed annually by venereal diseases and that congenital syphilis wipes out 10 per cent of the children in some countries.

Economic Apathy Deplored By New Head of I. C. of C.

Quebec, June 17 (AP).—Ignorance and apathy on economic questions are the deadliest diseases a democracy can suffer, Philip D. Reed of New York said today in taking office as new president of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Reed discussed present economic complexities with a reply to his own question, "How can currencies be made convertible?"

"Surely," he said, "the first requirement is that people shall have confidence in the strength and stability of their own currencies. Otherwise they will not take it in exchange for the things they produce, and people of other countries will not accept it in exchange for their own money or goods. Confidence, therefore, is the first requirement."

At its final plenary session the chamber passed 21 resolutions. They covered such topics as the problems of European recovery; indorsed a code of fair practice for foreign investments, and dealt with many of the technical processes of trade and finance. National representatives will present these views to their governments, and the chamber as a whole will present them to the United Nations.

Dr. Bunche's Aid to Ideals Wins Him Russwurm Award

Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting United Nations mediator for Palestine, last night was awarded the John B. Russwurm award for the outstanding contribution to advancement of democratic ideals in 1948.

Dr. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator for Palestine, also was scheduled to speak but bad weather grounded his plane at Raleigh, N. C. The award, which will be sent to him in New York, was made by the Negro Newspaper Publishers Association at its annual convention at Carver Hall, 2d and Elm sts, nw.

The group was addressed by B. M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Evening Star, who declared that the concept of news as "public property, uncolored by opinion," is assuming new significance.

"I suppose the first large-scale application of that principle in regard to news—that it is public property—was in the foundation of the modern Associated Press, something over 50 years ago," he said.

McKelway declared that "it was a necessary conception, if the Associated Press was to succeed. In other words, it was as practical as it was realistic. For if news was to be distributed over the wires and printed in hundreds of newspapers owned and edited—as they are—by men of every variety and shade of political, economic and religious opinion, that news had to be relatively free of bias or coloration if it was to suit all of them."

McKelway said that the people in general are becoming intolerant of biased or slanted news.

"And newspapermen generally, I believe," he added, "are coming more and more to accept as their prime responsibility the publication of straight news, no matter how contrary to the individual opinion of newspaper owners that news may happen to be."

McKelway told the Negro publishers that "one of the glaring imperfections" of Russian society is the absence of a minority or group press, "advocating something with which the so-called majority may not agree."

Dowdal H. Davis, general manager of the Kansas City Call, was elected president of the association, succeeding Thomas W. Young of the Norfolk (Va.) Journal and Guide. Carl Murphy, Baltimore, of the Afro-American Newspapers, was elected vice president.

Train Robber Joel Is a Cut Above Par

IT'S amazing how much talent is wasted in "Colorado Territory," at the Warner. We must suppose that the Brothers Warner heard there was a new cycle of epic-size Westerns being made and they had to join the parade.

This new cycle really began as far back as "Jesse James." That one set the story pattern and no one has assumed to change it; the bandit with a heart of gold who really doesn't mean to shoot, kill, rob or what-have-you. He's only a misplaced Boy Scout who'd like to do good but society won't let him.

In these magnificently original things, the director or the writers have two choices for an ending.

Their hero-killer dies or he is allowed to live and go straight, but not before he satisfies the Breen office by doing time in prison.

In "Colorado Territory," Joel McCrea, as Wes McQueen, the bandit, dies. Before he does, an average Western has had the benefits of some superb photography, good direction and fine acting.

A Friendly Stickup

McCrea, as a bandit who escapes from jail, decides to go straight but pulls one last train robbery for an old friend, is double-crossed by two of the rattiest characters we've seen in a long time. As a matter of fact, there are three double-crosses, one right after the other. It's enough to turn a bad man's stomach.

That's not the end of it! The usual long cross-country chase, the bad girl who really loves him and the good girl who doesn't, the aid to the old codger who is put upon by rascals—all the cliches are here again, like old familiar faces.

Happily, however, John Twist and Edmund North, the writers, have included a train robbery which is suspensefully sustained by Raoul Walsh, the director. Sid Hickox has helped Walsh considerably in using his camera flexibly and artistically in the mountain-crammed scene of the action.

COLORADO TERRITORY. Directed by Raoul Walsh. Written by John Twist and Edmund H. North. Photography by Sid Hickox, A.S.C. Sound by Leslie C. Hewitt. Music by David Buttolph. Orchestrations by Maurice de Packh. At the Warner.

Sympathetic Portrayal

Most of the performances are quite good. McCrea plays McQueen as a taciturn, soft-spoken, even sensitive robber, and he does well with the part. He makes you feel sorry for McQueen, hence he is successful. Virginia Mayo, for once parted from Danny Kaye, plays Colorado Carson, the tainted woman who loves McQueen. She's acceptable in this stock role. Henry Hull and Dorothy Malone, as the father-daughter combination which McCrea befriends, are a cut above the usual level of acting you find for these types. John Archer and James Mitchell, as McCrea's cohorts who double-cross him, are effective.

Variety, the trade paper, reports that the Western cycle has about run its course. "Colorado Territory" is just good enough to encourage another studio to try to do better. Like the heat in summer, the Western will always be with us.

Lake 'Grows', Floods Fields; U. S. Is Blamed

Antioch, Nebr., June 17 (U.P.)—Angry ranchers escorted an Irrigation Bureau official to their flooded hay meadows today and demanded that he do something to control a lake which suddenly began to grow.

An 84-year-old rancher and his family, meanwhile, armed with a gasoline-powered pump, continued their four-day fight to save their home.

The lake early this week mysteriously began to climb over a shoreline which had remained the same for 30 years. Steadily it advanced 2 miles to the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Herrian.

Tuesday, with the water lapping the floorboards of their basementless home, the Herrians hitched up a gasoline-powered pump and have been able to keep the water at a steady level since.

R. H. Willis of the Irrigation Bureau inspected the flooded area today with a delegation of ranchers who claimed the flood was caused by a giant ditch dug by the War Department to drain the Alliance Air Base. They said the ditch and Snake Creek were carrying the water some 20 miles overland to the Herrian ranch.

A representative of Willis' office has blamed the flood, which already has covered some 2000 acres of hay land, partly on additional water fed from the sewage system of nearby Alliance.

Foreign Trade Off But Commerce With Asia Gains

Asia was the only continent to increase its shipments of goods to the United States in April, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

United States imports from Asia rose from 118 million dollars in March to $121,600,000 in April while total United States imports from all points were declining from 632 million dollars to 534 million dollars.

Exports to Asia also rose—from $204,800,000 in March to $217,400,000 in April — while total United States exports were decreasing from $1,154,400,000 to $1,147,600,000.

United States imports from South America declined from $124,400,000 in March to $109,800,000 in April, a level $20,200,000 below the 1948 monthly average.

United States exports to South America rose from $153,400,000 in March to $155,400,000 in April, but they remained $3,700,000 below the 1948 monthly average.

Snow in Montana As Heat Continues In New England

By The Associated Press

Snow, rain and northern chills hit Montana Friday while on the other side of the country New England continued to swelter in hot, dry, and humid weather.

There was no immediate prospect of a break in the New England drought, the United States Weather Bureau at Chicago said. The forest fire peril is growing. Vermont has barred hunters and fishermen from its woods, and Maine and New Hampshire have banned woodland firemaking and smoking.

In Montana, 4 inches of snow piled onto Butte. Visibility was bad, roads were slippery, and there were reports of power failures.

There was scattered rain in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio.

Elsewhere, the weather was fair and seasonable.

Garment Workers Open New Radio Station

New York, June 17 (AP).—The AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union has opened its new radio station, named in honor of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

An inaugural broadcast took place last night over WFDR, with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mayor William O'Dwyer taking part.

Messages were read on the program from the heads of four foreign nations—Italy, Chile, France and India, all paying tribute to the late President.

Mrs. Roosevelt Named Brandeis U. Trustee

Waltham, Mass., June 17 (U.P.).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been elected to the board of trustees of Brandeis University, it was announced today.

She will be the first woman on the 12-member board which directs the Nation's first Jewish-sponsored nonsectarian university. Brandeis completes its first year this month.

Hopewell Man Shot to Death In Home; Eye Witness Found

Hopewell, Va., June 17 (AP).—Robert West, 40-year-old father of two children, was slain in his home late last night while he stood in front of a kitchen refrigerator, Police Chief F. C. Gwaltney said today.

Gwaltney said today's investigation of the slaying had uncovered an eye witness identified as Harry Hatchel, residing in the area.

Gwaltney also said Loris Emory Wyles, 29-year-old Camp Lee, Va., soldier, was being held in jail as a material witness. Wyles' home is at Bridgeport, Wash.

West, found lying on the floor by his 13-year-old son, was pronounced dead on arrival at a Hopewell hospital. He had been shot in the back, according to Gwaltney. Gwaltney said that Mrs. West and the two children were in the livingroom when they heard a crash.

Gwaltney said that Wyles, visiting in the West home, had gone to a nearby store at the time of the shooting. The shot which killed West, Gwaltney said, was fired from outside the house and shattered a window glass.

Hatchel, who said he saw the shooting, told Gwaltney that he checked his watch at 9:22 (EST) last night prior to departing for work. At the time he was making the check, Hatchel said, he heard a shot and saw a man leave the yard of the West home and race across the street over the railroad tracks. Hatchel said it was too dark to see who the man was, but that he was able to recognize the man as being white.

Tuck Pardons Man, 75, Who Broke Prison

Richmond, Va., June 17 (AP).—A 75-year-old man who escaped from a State prison farm 30 years ago and was arrested last May was free again today—this time legally.

Gray-haired Dave Hall walked from the State Penitentiary as a result of a conditional pardon granted him by Governor Tuck.

For the past 30 years Hall had been known to his neighbors in Wyoming County, W. Va., as John Henry Thomas, a hard-working farmer and law-abiding citizen.

Raises Family

He developed a 267-acre farm along Groundhog Creek, became a member of the Baptist church and married and raised a family. While a fugitive he even served as a State fire warden and helped Federal revenue agents root out moonshiners in the days of prohibition.

Yet Hall's illegal freedom hung heavily over him. "If anybody strange came around, I felt the dread on me. I felt like they were trying to get hold of me and take me back," he said today.

His fears became reality last May 20. On that day Lieut. J. A. Bingham of the Virginia State police and Deputy Sheriff Joe W. Hatfield of West Virginia showed up at his farm.

An argument with a grocer had ended Hall's flight from prison. The officers were investigating the quarrel over a bill and identified Hall, who was convicted of second-degree murder in 1919, by a long scar on his left hand.

He had been sentenced to 18 years on the murder charge and five years on another count and at the time of his escape in Dickenson County still had 18 years to serve.

Friends to Rescue

Governor Tuck granted the conditional pardon after he received letters and petitions from many persons who were Hall's neighbors in West Virginia.

Hatfield described Hall, who was sentenced in Dickenson County, as "a peace-loving mountaineer who never gave the law any trouble." After he was identified by the police, Hall said he did not want a hearing and signed a form waiving extradition action to return him to Richmond.

"I don't want any trouble with a hearing. I want to go back and get it over with," he was quoted as saying.

As he boarded a bus today for Bluefield, Hall had about $100 which he had acquired by his brief return to prison. The sum included a $50 Liberty Bond from World War I, $15 in savings from the same period and $12 in cash—all kept in his account at the penitentiary since 1919.

However, he had one legal problem. That involves change of his name from Thomas to Hall and he thought he would take the advice of the penitentiary Superintendent W. Frank Smyth and see a lawyer.

But that didn't worry him too much. As he walked from the penitentiary today, Hall paused on the steps and breathed deeply.

"The dread is gone. I feel just like a new man," he said.

U. S. Gold Output Up

Gold mine output in the United States in April totaled 161,669 fine ounces, a six per cent increase over March production and the largest since last October, the Bureau of Mines said today.

3 Hagerstown Theaters to Defy Blue Law

Hagerstown, Md., June 17 (AP).—Three movie theaters announced today they'll put on Sunday shows, Washington County's dusty old Blue Law notwithstanding.

Nineteen employes of theaters and a motor speedway are under indictment and face trial in Circuit Court next Friday on charges of violating the Sabbath bar on labor.

Warner Brothers' local management, which operates three theaters here, announced today they would show movies Sunday afternoon and evening despite the impending court test.

"We do not consider this a defiance of the law," the theater managements said in a statement. "We do not believe that the existing law prohibits publicly acknowledged forms of decent recreation.

"Outcome of the trial will determine whether we continue."

The grand jury brought indictments against the 19, under a 225-year-old statute which governs the observance of Sunday in Washington County.

Lausche to Run For Governorship, Not Taft's Seat

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (U.P.).—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), No. 1 target of labor in 1950, today apparently lost hirs toughest potential opponent when two-term Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche pulled all but his toe out of the door of the senatorial race.

Lausche apparently elected to run for a third term as Governor as a more effective way to stay in the spotlight for 1952, the next national election year. His vague announcement cleared the way for the time being for a huge field of candidates.

The Democratic Governor, credited with pulling Ohio into the party's column for President Truman in the last election, disclosed his intentions to Taft when the two men met at Delaware, Ohio, for the 107th anniversary of Ohio Wesleyan University.

He followed up the announcement by telling newspapermen he had chosen the place and setting as "ideal" for a statement. Lausche added that "my remarks were of far greater significance than has been ascribed to them."

At Delaware, Lausche told Taft during a prepared speech that "even though there may have been some such predisposition in the past, it probably should be considered today that we ought not engage in any controversy in any way."

Police Question Two In Stenchbombing Case

Cleveland, June 17 (AP).—Two men were arrested for questioning today as police were confronted by the eighth case of stenchbombing in the last nine days. Five of the bombings, all unsolved, were at newly painted buildings.

Meanwhile business agents for two rival painters' unions were called to police headquarters to discuss the situation. They are the AFL painters' union and the United Construction Workers, affiliated with the United Mine Workers (Independent).

A pint jar of stench fluid was thrown through a front-room window at the home of Miss Clara Sheinberg, 32. She said her home had been painted two weeks ago by members of the United Construction Workers.

El Salvador Sees Plot To Overthrow Regime

San Salvador, El Salvador, June 17 (AP).—The government announced today it had discovered a plot to overthrow the regime and had taken measures to foil it.

A communique by the governing military junta blamed the alleged plot on a "reactionary" group. It said the plan called for killing government leaders, releasing former officials convicted under the present regime, and placing Col. Osmin Aguirre y Salinas, a former President, in office again.

The government will not declare a state of siege but will impose "certain rules of a nondiscriminatory" nature, the announcement said.

FOR BEST SERVICE PLACE YOUR ADS EARLY

The steadily growing volume of classified ads in The Post, combined with the practice of many advertisers who phone late in the day, is making it difficult to devote the time and assistance to these late callers which is needed to prepare the most effective possible copy.

To assure receiving this help from your ad writer, please try to call during the morning or early afternoon.

TEMPLETON MANOR

Two hundred and fifty families are now comfortably settled in these exceptionally fine garden-type apartments. We have about the same number still under construction. There are a few choice units ready now, and there will be more coming ready during May and June.
These are truly spacious quarters, with venetian blinds, 6-foot Frigidaire and four-burner oven-control gas range. Lockers space and metered laundry facilities in basements. Grounds beautifully planted and sodded.
We now have four fully equipped play areas for small children, and there are to be four more. Free recreation room space is being furnished for the operation of a cooperative Teen-Ager Club. We are also turning over one of the apartments for the free use of a cooperative day nursery to be operated by the tenants.
4-room unit, consisting of living room, dining room, bedroom, kitchen and bath at $86.50.
Two-bedroom apartments are priced at $92.50 (with dinette) and $96.50 (with full dining room). Utilities included in above prices.
DIRECTIONS: Out Bladensburg rd. to Peace Cross and bear right to Edmonston rd., left up Edmonston about one mile to Templeton st., Md. Or: Capital Transit bus or trolley to Mount Rainier and transfer to East Riverdale bus, Route B-4, to subdivision. Resident manager at 5433 55th pl., Apt. 101.

A RARE BARGAIN

You'll slow down to a stop when you drive by this home, the charm of its design, together with its lovely lawn and landscaping really compels attention. It is a large home consisting of spacious bedrooms, a paneled den and a dinette, as well as a lovely dining room. It is located in the exclusive University Park area, near the University of Maryland. Nine comparable homes that I have built in this area have sold for around $20,000. This is my last home available, and I will sell it to a qualified purchaser for well under its market value. It is financed for veterans, with a $17,150 trust; for nonvets with a $13,500 trust. Any reasonable offer will be refused, so phone me and we'll arrange for inspection at your convenience. Rambler on 7 acres near Shirley hwy. Some 10 years ago the owner picked this site and on it recently built a simple rambling house with a 30-ft. paneled living room, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, dining room, kitchen and large enclosed porch. Because of a death in the family, the property is for sale at $17,000, which represents the owner's investment. Except for about 2 acres that has been cleared, the land is heavily wooded in oak and poplar and has a picturesque brook. While this area is likely to develop rapidly, no other houses are visible from this house, so we do not recommend it for timid wives. Clear of debt and owner will finance at $100 per month.

Moscow Radio Reports Vegetation on Mars,

London, June 17 (U.P.).—The planet Mars have vegetation consisting of both evergreen and leaf-shedding plants, Moscow Radio reported today.

Moscow said the theory was advanced at Pulkovo Observatory by Prof. Ivan Tikhov, "founder of astro-botany, the new branch of Soviet science." Tikhov believes the presence of vegetation explains the green spots on Mars.

Dorothy Kilmer Files a 'Progress Report'

Dorothy Kilmer is scheduled to return to Washington today for a brief "vacation" with her mother and father.

Dorothy has been spending the past few months at the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center, at Fishersville, Va. Just before the summer vacation period started at the Center, the girl who would "never walk again" wrote me:

"I really like it down here, and I'm making good progress on my braces.

"They keep us busy all day long. I lift weights and do all kinds of exercises each morning, and then walk with my braces for an hour or so. After lunch, I walk again, for several hours.

"I'm learning the 'swing through' gait, but I have a little trouble keeping my feet together. One day last week I tied them together and did fine. I guess in time they'll decide to stay together.

"It's very pretty down here. We're located in a valley, with mountains all around us. The weather has been wonderful. I'm getting plenty of sun and enjoy it—except for my nose peeling, which it always does.

"I want to thank your readers again for all they have done for me. I'll never be able to thank them enough—but believe me, I'm going to do my very best to learn to walk on my braces and crutches."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Semi-Maltese kittens; three 4 weeks old, three others 7 weeks old." (Tuckerman 3749.)

"Cat family; father, mother and three 7-week-old kittens." (Woodley 3744.)

"Four 7-week-old puppies, half English setter, half beagle; good pets or hunting dogs." (Wisconsin 1989.)

"Four 6-week-old kittens; cute, healthy, housebroken." (Emerson 7889.)

HOUSING NOTE

It is becoming increasingly evident that new houses priced at more than $15,000 aren't selling very fast.

And local realtors, who must shell out huge amounts of money for maintenance and interest charges on unsold houses are extremely unhappy.

However, one local builder says he's determined to "do something" about the situation.

He's making plans now to rent out any house which he can't sell by July 4.

FATHER'S DAY

Yes, Mommy and the girls and boys
This day give Daddy shirts
And ties and sox and other joys;
They'll give until it hurts.

But Daddy would as soon forgo
The day and all its frills.
'Cause Daddy has to raise the dough
To pay the month-end bills.

LATE BREAKFAST

Frank J. Kraus of 1126 16th st. nw. reports that there's a typo on one of the pictures in the window of Burt's Restaurant, in the Trans-Lux Building.

Burt gives a plug to many of the NBC and ABC performers who are broadcast locally by WRC and WMAL, which have studios upstairs. One picture bears the legend:

"Sam Cowling, Breakfast Club, 9 p. m."

Knowing full well that the "p." should have been an "a." Frank asks: "Isn't 9 p. m. a bit late in the day for breakfast?"

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

You overlooked something in your comments about street vendors.

The Sunday law at least gives parents one day of respite per week from the twin hazards created by motorized ice-cream vendors:

1. It is virtually impossible to get the kids to bed before the ice-cream wagon arrives, and,

2. The vendors represent a traffic menace to the kids who run across the street to catch them.

I am sure that there are some parents who would favor banning the vendors seven days a week. M. G.

Dear M. G.:

Rubbish!

If you can't get your kids to bed before the ice-cream man comes around, it's you who are to blame, not the vendor.

If you spoil your children to the point that they eat too much candy, will you advocate the abolition of all candy stores?

If you can't teach your children proper traffic safety habits (or keep an eye on them when they're too young to learn) shall we abolish traffic? Why stop with ice-cream vendors?

Besides, if street vendors are a "hazard" on Sundays, they're a hazard on Saturdays, and on every other day of the week—especially during the summer months, when there is no school.

Why arbitrarily ban them on Sundays only? Bill.

PERSONAL NOTES

M/Sergt. G. T. Johnson, Fort Myer, Va.: Your mother has quite a sense of humor. Wish we had room for the poem, but it's much too long for our limited space.

STREET SCENE

During a heavy rainstorm the other day, the White House lawn sprinklers continued to function at full tilt.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

On a per capita basis, residents of the District of Columbia have sent more CARE packages overseas than residents of any of the 48 States.

SNAFU DEPT.

Ever since they closed up the huge parking lot in back of the Municipal Center I've been leaving my car at home, because the parking situation is getting tougher by the day.

A couple of steamshovels were supposed to move into the lot the day after it closed, to start excavation work.

But for the past few weeks I've noted that there is no sign of steamshovels, or human activity of any other kind.

The lot has become a wildlife sanctuary, where the birds can feed and cavort in peace. Except for our feathered friends, the area is deserted.

I wonder why. And I wonder, too, why motorists couldn't have continued to use the space for these extra weeks.

TO A SPECIAL DAD

It's wonderful to have a Dad
So kind and good that I am glad
To hear his footsteps on the walk
And find his "hello" such good talk.

But maybe it is even best
When Dad gets home to take his rest
And tweaks my ear in playful glee
If he is also proud of me.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ike Held Duped by Rep. Gwinn

By Drew Pearson

How Gen. Ike Eisenhower happened to answer one of the 900,000 letters Congressman Ralph Gwinn of New York sent out opposing Federal aid to education is more than anyone around Capitol Hill can understand.

Gwinn

Maybe, conclude congressional leaders, Ike is just a better general than he is an educator - politician.

Congressman Gwinn, the man who induced Eisenhower to answer him, has abused the franking privilege more brazenly than any other member of Congress in opposing aid to education. Not only has Gwinn sent out 2,250,000 copies of speeches against education, public housing, rent control, etc., but this abuse of his free mailing privilege cost the taxpayers—through the Postoffice Department—$27,000.

In addition the taxpayers had to pay $1755 for Gwinn's free envelopes, plus $3000 for stuffing the envelopes with Gwinn's speeches. Only thing that this propaganda barrage cost Gwinn was the bare cost of $7828 to the Government Printing Office for reprinting the speeches.

The New York Congressman paid this by personal check but refused to say where he got the money—except that it came from friends. Some of these friends in the past have been the Foundation for Economic Education and the Committee for Constitutional Government, which in turn are financed by the Mellon interests, the du Ponts, Republic Steel, U. S. Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Oil, and the Joe Pew Sun Oil interests.

In other words, it looks as if General Eisenhower, now supposed to be an expert on higher education, fell into a trap set for him by a spokesman of the anti-education lobby.

It is all the more inconceivable that Ike should have answered Gwinn because the Congressman has written a book called "Fifth Avenue to Farm," in which he made such amazing statements as:

"A compulsory system of public education cannot be expected to maintain a high civilization . . . The feeble-minded remain at home (on the farm)—those who are not feeble-minded enough to be institutionalized—the weak-minded and the shallow-minded. The indolent, weak-willed and unimaginative remain around home. So do the diseased, the fearful and the more timid."

In writing to Congressman Gwinn, Eisenhower apparently didn't entirely understand what Federal aid to education was all about, for he ignored the fact that the education bill just passed by the Senate does not in any way permit control of education by the Federal Government. It helps individual States through Federal funds, with no control by the Government over how those funds are to be used in each State.

Congressional leaders also point out that Eisenhower let himself in for a system whereby a premium would be placed on States which failed to tax themselves. He proposed Federal money for States which failed to tax themselves but no Federal money for States which taxed themselves sufficiently to have adequate education.

Jesse James and H. T.

One of President's secret heroes is the notorious railroad bandit and Robin Hood of the early West—Jesse James. What's more, the President is convinced that the whole rootin' shootin' James family were Democrats.

So confessed President Truman the other day to two youthful visitors, Buster McLain of Cragford, Ala., and Blevyn Hathcock of Oakboro, N. C., who were invited to the White House after winning a contest as shining examples of rural youth.

The President greeted them cordially and spoke of their home States. Not wanting to be outdone in his knowledge of States, Buster McLain of Alabama spoke up about the President's home State.

"The main thing I know about Missouri," he said, "is that you and Jesse James came from there. I have read a lot about both of you, and I admire both of you."

"A lot of people," quipped the President, "haven't liked either one of us."

Then the President admitted that he, too, had a secret admiration for Jesse James. In fact, Jesse's uncle had been a leading politician and the whole family had been "big Democrats," the President said.

Truman explained that the countryside where the James family lived bitterly divided over the presidential election of 1824, and broke off into two counties. The county dominated by the Republicans was named after Henry Clay, the GOP candidate. The other county was named after Andrew Jackson, the Democratic candidate. The James farm came within the boundaries of Clay County, but the James brothers remained loyal to the Democratic Party.

"The James boys were pushed so hard they began to fight back," added Truman, in explaining how they became outlaws.

FDR, Jr.

When House Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts, acting Speaker in the absence of Sam Rayburn, swore in FDR, jr., as the new Congressman from New York's Twentieth District, he recalled:

"This brings back pleasant memories. I was acting Speaker for the last time your father addressed Congress, following the Yalta Conference. I also presided and introduced your father the last time he addressed a political rally, in the windup of the 1944 campaign in Boston."

"That's very interesting," grinned young Roosevelt. "I hope you bring me good luck."

Note: Photographers tried to get a picture of Roosevelt reading Cannon's Rules of Procedure, but he begged off. "That's part of my homework after office hours," he said.

The Lyon's Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—In one of the scenes in "Death of a Salesman," Arthur Kennedy batters against Tom Chalmers, is thrown back and hurled to the floor. This scene takes place near the apron of the stage. One night Kennedy couldn't control his fall and he barely missed dropping into the orchestra. His head hung over the edge of the stage . . . And as he hung there, fearfully, he heard a man in the second-row reassure his companion: "Oh, that's all rehearsed, dear. They know what they're doing."

Byron Nelson, the golfer who went into semi-retirement this week, was so careful in planning his shots that once, before trying a long putt, he studied the grass to decide whether the green was slow or fast and then asked his caddy: "When was this grass planted?" . . .

Nicholas Brodszky, who arrived here to score the music for Filippo Del Giudice's new films, once worked in Vienna for Josef Pasternak, the producer. The picture was "The Little Mother." And after the music was recorded and the 80-piece orchestra about to depart for a concert in Salzburg, Pasternak stopped them and announced: "Wait. We need 2 more minutes of excitment music." This was for a scene which had been re-inserted. There was no time to write new music. Brodszky told his musicians to unpack, distributed the sheet-music they had used in another scene and told them: "We'll play it backwards." They rehearsed it until it was satisfactory, played it backwards, and Pasternak thereafter pointed to this as the best incidental music ever used in his pictures.
